U. N. TROOPS CROSS PARALLEL 38

Dewey, Disagreeing With Taft, Hoover, Assails Isolationism, Idea Of "Fortress America"

"Folly" To Think U. S. Can Be Defended By Air-Sea Without Large Ground Force

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Thomas E. Dewey struck sharply tonight against isolationism and the idea of a "fortress America."

It is "the utmost of folly" to think this country can be defended by air and sea power without large ground forces, he said.

The New York Governor, twice candidate for president on the Republican ticket, expressed a viewpoint differing widely from the stands taken in recent weeks by former President Herbert Hoover and by Republican Sen. Taft of Ohio.

Taft said earlier in the day that he may propose limiting American troops for Europe's defenses to a fixed percentage of the nation's ground strength. He has challenged President Truman's right to put any American soldiers into the new Western European army without Congress' consent.

Appears On TV Show

Hoover put forward the idea of a "Western Hemisphere Gibraltar" in a speech last December. In likening America to a "Western Hemisphere Gibraltar of western civilization," Hoover noted that he did not mean withdrawing inside this country or this hemisphere alone. Instead he said we could hold the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, that our western frontier should be on Britain if she cooperated, and our eastern frontier in Japan, Formosa and the Philippines.

Last Friday night Hoover spoke out again, saying the United States should put stress on air and naval strength and munitions — not on land armies.

Dewey didn't mention either Hoover or Taft in his remarks, made in answer to questions on the NBC "Meet The Press" television show.

But he said:

"Anyone who thinks that you can defend the United States or any substantial portion of the world with any two out of the three branches of military service is ignoring every lesson of both modern and ancient history."

Cites Korean Conflict

"I thought that everybody had learned that in Korea," he said. "We had absolute undisputed command of the air, and yet we nearly got driven off of Korea."

He said he thought troops should be sent to Europe if European nations raise "many more" than we send.

"I'm sure they will," he added.

Dewey said the question of where American troops should be sent is "a job for experts" and should not be for Congress to decide.

And "isolationist" utterances, he asserted, are "a great aid to Stalin."

"Any good isolationist speech made by anybody," Dewey said, "enlarges the area of those in Europe who say 'we have been run over twice, our cities decimated, our children murdered; let's be neutral and let America and Russia fight it out.'"

Western Germans Plan Anti-Moscow Communist Party

RATINGEN, Germany, Feb. 11 (AP) — An anti-Moscow Communist Party will be founded in Western Germany next Easter, it was announced here today.

Josef Schappe, who until 1949 was chief editor of Freies Volk, main newspaper of the West German Communist Party, said the new political group will be called the Independent Workers' Party (UAP). Schappe said UAP will demand socialization of all German industries, free speech and free press but will reject "Soviet bureaucracy and American imperialism, which both are not in the interest of German workers."

Tax Hike Before July 1 Unlikely, Rep. Kean Says

Predicts Adoption Of One-Bill Approach

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Rep. Kean of New Jersey, a ranking Republican tax writer, declared today there is hardly a chance of any new federal tax increase before July 1.

Certainly, he told reporters, there is no possibility of a retroactive increase against individual income taxpayers unless a bill is perfected in the next few weeks. That seems out of the question, he added.

GOP Favors Single Bill

Kean is one of the senior Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee which just wound up its first week of hearings on the administration's two-package 1951 revenue plan.

President Truman and Treasury Secretary Snyder have called for an extra $10,000,000,000 in taxes as soon as possible, to be followed by another bill later in the year. The latter would bring in an additional $6,500,000,000, or whatever it takes to finish financing the administration's $71,600,000,000 spending program for the new fiscal year which begins July 1.

Kean said, however, there seems to be overwhelming sentiment among the Republicans for gathering all the extra taxes needed in a single bill. He said this feeling is shared by a sizable number of Democrats. He predicted that the single-package approach will be adopted.

Tax Take "Underestimated"

Neither is Kean convinced it will take $16,500,000,000 additional revenue to put the immense preparedness program on a pay-as-we-go basis.

He said the Treasury consistently has underestimated the probable tax take in recent years. He believes it has done so again in estimating a $3,000,000,000 deficit in mid-1951. He said that by April 1 Congress should have a better picture of probable revenue.

In addition, Kean said it is likely the appropriations asked by Mr. Truman can be trimmed by several billion dollars.

"Frozen Woman" Feels "Fairly Well"

CHICAGO, Feb. 11 (AP) — Mrs. Dorothy Mae Stevens, the "frozen woman" said today "I'm feeling fairly well."

The 23-year-old negro woman was found literally frozen stiff in a south side alley three days ago. Exposure in the sub-zero cold had thickened her blood to a sludge.

Her temperature when she reached Michael Reese Hospital was 64 degrees—34.6 degrees below normal. The American Medical Association said it had no record of a human surviving with a body temperature lower than 75 degrees.

Mrs. Stevens rested well today, taking a high-caloric liquid diet through a tube inserted in her throat.

M'Arthur Reportedly Wants More Troops

TOKYO, Feb. 11 (INS)—Informed sources in Tokyo told International News Service today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur wants all the American troops he can get to reinforce the U. S. Eighth Army in Korea.

There is also a strong unofficial feeling among American observers in Tokyo that it would be wiser to dispatch troops to Asia where fighting now is raging, rather than to Europe where a defensible position is not expected to be attained for two years.

MOSCOW, Feb. 11 (AP)—Pravda accused Norway today of violating assurances given the Soviet government two years ago—when Norway joined the Atlantic pact—that she would "not assist a policy with aggressive purposes."

Greek Sect, Protesting Ban, Continues Its Hunger Strike

ATHENS, Greece, Feb. 11 (AP) — Seventy sobbing men and women, clustered in a tiny church, began the second day of a hunger strike today, protesting what they call government persecution of their religious sect.

They vowed to starve themselves to death unless the state lifts its ban of the Julian Calendar (old style calendar) religious group. Dogma of the sect, claiming 1,000,000 adherents in Greece, is identical to that of the official Greek Orthodox Church except that the Julianists observe religious holidays 13 days later.

More than 15 priests and monks of the sect already have been imprisoned, and police are searching for 82-year-old Archbishop Chrysostomos Kavourides and three bishops in hiding, the Rev. Stavros Karamitsos, general secretary of the group, reported. Karamitsos emphatically denied that his sect has any connection with the Kreatea Monastery, whose eladers in Greece face charges ranging from homicide and kidnaping to forgery and torture.

The hunger strike started yesterday afternoon in St. Paul's Church in a poor section of Athens. Over its entrance hung a foot-square black cloth bearing the gilt slogan: "Liberty orthodoxy or death. We want our priests and bishops."

Iran's Shah Will Wed 19-Year-Old Beauty Today

Egyptian King Marks Engagement, Birthday

TEHRAN, Iran, Feb. 11 (AP)—The Shah of Iran marries the beautiful granddaughter of a once-rebellious Persian tribal chieftain tomorrow in a ceremony only faintly reminiscent of the glitter and pomp of former Persian royal weddings.

The 32-year-old king of kings, Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, will be wed in a Moslem ceremony to 19-year-old Soraya Esfandiari, whom he met at a party in Paris two years ago.

It is the second marriage for the handsome Shah. His first marriage to Princess Fawzia, sister of Egypt's King Farouk, was dissolved by decree in 1948. By coincidence, King Farouk, whose own marriage was dissolved at the same time, became engaged yesterday to 17-year-old Narriman Sadek.

The serious-minded Shah, deeply concerned with international war fears and social unrest and poverty in Iran, has ordered a comparatively austere wedding. He decreed that the traditional week-long celebration usually following such palace fetes be cut to one day—the day of the wedding. And he has requested that his subjects give money to a special fund he has set up for charity rather than the usual lavish presents to him.

But there will be some glittering presents from heads of friendly nations. And the ceremony in the marble palace, though simple, will be attended by bejeweled and bedecked royalty, including the fabulously wealthy leader of the Ismaili sect of Moslems, the Aga Khan.

Farouk Engaged To Commoner

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 11 (AP)—The engagement of beautiful, 17-year-old Narriman Sadek to King Farouk and the King's 31st birthday were celebrated tonight at a brilliant reception for the King, the royal family and the cream of Cairo society.

The party at the Sadek family villa in suburban Heliopolis was attended by Prince Mohammed Aly, the King's 75-year-old cousin and heir presumptive to the throne; the Princesses Fawzia, Faiza and Faika, the King's sisters; other members of the royal family, Prime Minister Mustafa El Nahas Pasha, and palace officials.

News of the King's engagement to a commoner was released by the palace officially last night, when the foreign press was permitted to send it abroad. Egyptians learned of it from their newspapers this morning.

Gains Force U. S. Strategy Reassessment

Aimed At Early End Of War If Possible

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Enemy weakness in Korea the last few days has forced a reassessment of the American strategy aimed at an early end of the fighting, if possible.

Just within the past two weeks high officials expecting relatively stiff resistance in the approach to the 38th parallel had determined that the line should not be crossed. They took account of the possible cost in United Nations lives and the political advantages which might be gained by remaining on South Korean territory.

ROK Crossing Discounted

The swift pace of the U. N. advance, however, and the need for keeping contact with the enemy has now confronted policy makers with the question whether it may not be advantageous to drive on into North Korea.

From Korea tonight came word that South Korean troops had crossed the 38th parallel on the east coast where enemy opposition has been relatively light or non-existent. Officials here described this as a purely local action of no political significance, independent of the main course of the fighting in the central and western sectors.

The question of pushing on into North Korea as seen here is concerned not with such local action as that on the east coast but with the mass of United Nations troops in Central and Western Korea.

With respect to these forces, the situation is developing so rapidly that a final decision on how far they should go probably will not be made until the exact military and political conditions existing when main U. N. forces get much closer to the 38th parallel are known.

Two Basic Purposes

According to responsible informants the decision then will be reached in the light of two basic purposes:

1. To gain a settlement of the Korean conflict consistent with the United Nation's objective of defeating the Red aggression. That might or might not include prompt arrangements for the unification of all Korea. Some thought has been given by authorities here to the possibility of an agreement which initially would divide the country.

2. To get American forces out of Korea as soon as that can be done without in any way yielding to or encouraging aggression. Obviously that would be possible only after a cease fire and evidence that the Communist assault would not be renewed.

3 Children Die While On Picnic

AMARILLO, Tex., Feb. 11 (AP) — Robert Henry Patten said today three children he took on a picnic in rugged Palo Duro Canyon got sick and died while his car was stuck overnight in a stream bed.

His wife, Eula, 22, became seriously ill. Patten said the picnic food—scrambled eggs and calf brains—made him sick, too.

Justice of the Peace B. F. Manchen of Canyon ordered an autopsy after Patten was questioned by officers.

The dead were Robert Wesley Patten, 3; John Wesley Patten, four months, and Katherine King, 15, Mrs. Patten's sister.

Patten, 34, of Amarillo, said all but the dead baby and another son ate the scrambled eggs and calf brains. He said the baby died after having only bottled milk and prune juice. Another child, Jerry Allen Patten, 18 months, ate only a cookie and did not become ill.

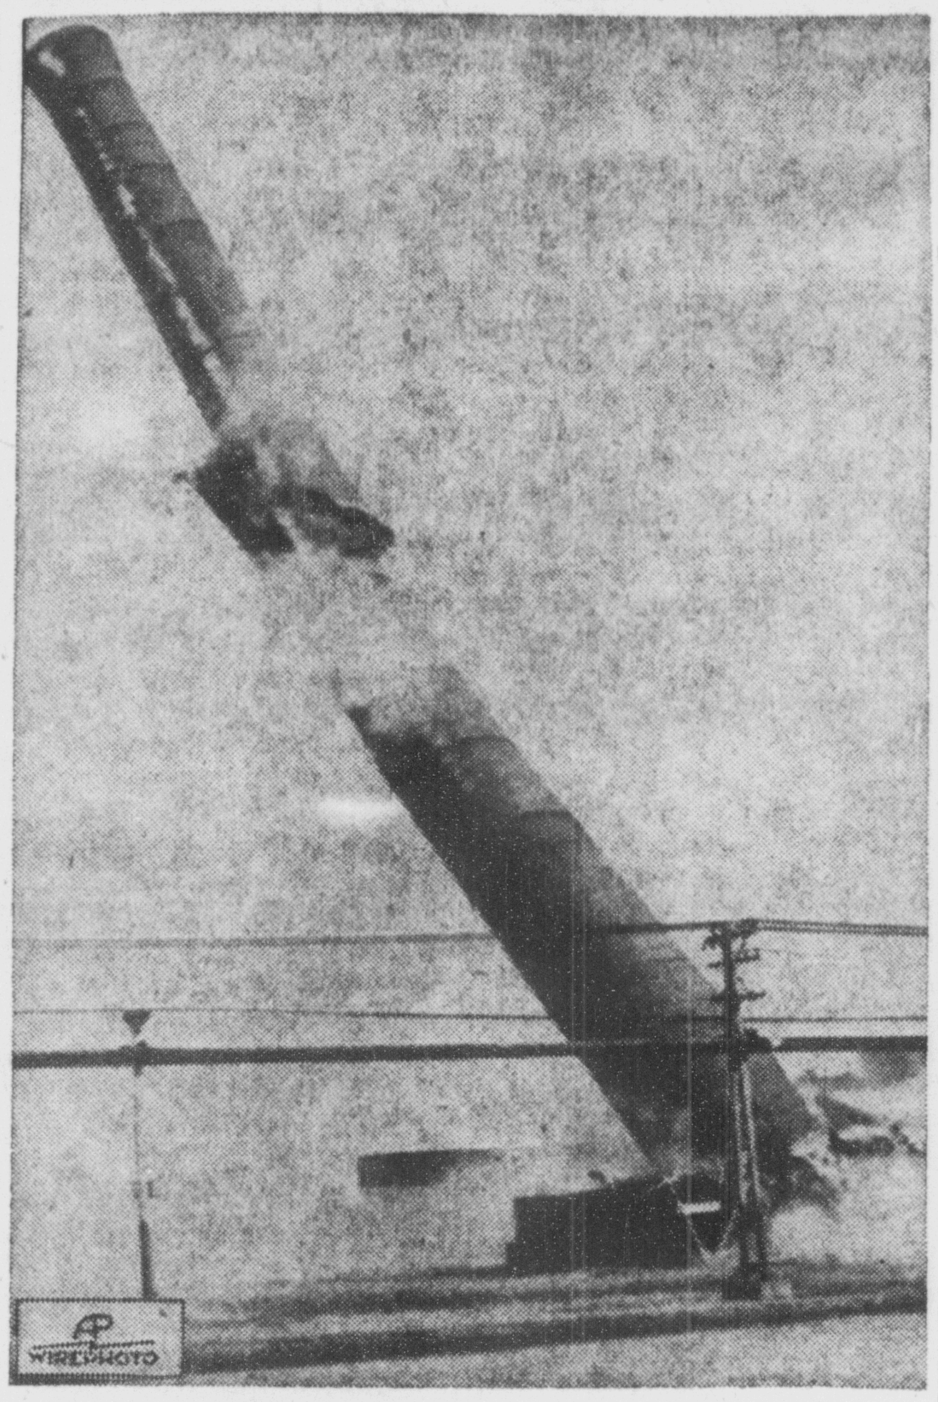
Undertaker Horace Griggs and a doctor who examined the bodies said they were cherry-red in color, indicating possible carbon monoxide poisoning.

Officers said this angle would be checked closely at the autopsy—especially because Patten's car has one window missing and another partly missing. Patten said he didn't run the engine or heater for more than a half hour during the night the family spent in the canyon.

11 Of 22 Escaped Ala. Convicts Recaptured

ATMORE, Ala., Feb. 11 (AP)—Eleven of 22 escaped convicts were captured today only a few miles from the state prison farm from which they fled.

The group, all white, broke out of the prison early yesterday by kicking planks from a temporary barracks and making their way through a locked tunnel under the prison fence.



Landmark Comes Down

A brick chimney topples and cracks in the middle as it is blasted at the old Pure Oil Company plant at Marcus Hook, Pa. The 200-foot stack, erected in 1926, was destroyed to make room for expansion of the Sun Oil Company, which recently purchased the property.

Hundreds Flee Floods In Wash.; Governor Acts

Langlie Proclaims State Of Emergency

SEATTLE, Feb. 11 (AP) — Gov. Arthur B. Langlie proclaimed a state of emergency in Western Washington flood areas today to facilitate cooperative action between federal and state authorities.

The Governor's action came shortly after hundreds fled their homes as the rampant Skagit River punched new holes in dikes near its mouth, bringing the number of flood refugees in Northwest Washington and British Columbia to more than 2,000.

Langlie said that his proclamation merely placed the state in a position to call in federal troops for assistance in the event state resources—the State Patrol and National Guard—become exhaused.

He described his action as "proscribed procedure as the pattern for flood relief had been set up for some time."

Seven hundred persons—the entire population of Conway, 50 miles north of Seattle—were evacuated after a levee break sent dirty, angry water from the rain-choked Skagit coursing hip-deep through the town.

At nearby Stanwood and East Stanwood the riotous Stillaguamish River seeped through dikes and swirled into outskirts of the two communities. Women and children in threatened homes were taken to safety.

In British Columbia, more than 500 persons were made homeless in the Fraser River valley where tributaries were on the rampage. Another 500 were forced to flee from the lower sections of Princeton, B.C., at the junction of the swollen Tulameen and Similkameen Rivers 185 miles east of Vancouver.

Earlier in the three-day floods the 300 residents of Hamilton, on the upper reaches of the Skagit, had been evacuated as water rose to a depth of five feet in all parts of the lowland community.

Scores of other refugees were counted in scattered farm regions of the valleys flooded by half a dozen turbulent Western Washington rivers.

16 Persons Injured In Texas Train Wreck

ROSENBERG, Tex., Feb. 11 (AP)—Sixteen persons, including 15 passengers, suffered minor injuries early today when a streamliner crashed into the caboose of a freight train.

The eastbound number 2 section of the Southern Pacific's Sunset Limited hit the freight train less than a mile west of this Southeast Texas town about 7:41 a. m.

The freight's caboose wah chopped into kindling wood by the two Diesel engines of the Sunset Limited, both of which plunged from the track.

All 13 passenger cars of the luxury train remained on the tracks.

Barber's Nearly Bald Customers Will Have Option

KINGSTEIGNTON, Eng., Feb. 11 (AP)—Barber Ivor Fawcett has grown weary of nearly bald customers complaining about paying as much for haircuts as youths with heavy shocks of hair.

From tomorrow on, his customers will have the option of paying the usual flat rate or a special rate of one and a half cents a minute.

Jobs-For-GI-Jane Survey Planned

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP) — A close survey will be made soon to see how many combat-qualified men can be moved out into the U. S. field forces by giving their jobs to GI Janes, Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) said today.

The Senator told a reporter that will be the next business of his armed Services subcommittee. That group, by a 7-1 vote, has just passed along to the full committee a broad program for building up the fighting forces, including a draft of 18-year-olds. He indicated he expects the full committee to approve that bill, with its provision for universal military service and training (UMST) Tuesday.

"Just as soon as we get this 18-year-old draft out of the way the Preparedness subcommittee will launch a spot check of all air bases, Army posts and Navy and Marine establishments to see how many women can handle military assignments now held by able-bodied combat men," Johnson said.

Couple On Stranded Oil Barge Rescued

BALTIMORE, Feb. 11. (AP) — A Coast Guard cutter tonight rammed through ice and rescued a man and his wife aboard an oil barge in the Chester River.

The cutter Narcissus had the barge in tow, and the barge master, Carlton R. Lane and his wife, were reported safe. The Federalsburg pair had been isolated since Friday.

Youth Confesses He Started Mich. Fire "To Avoid Draft"

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 11 (AP)—A 19-year-old father took full blame today for the $4,000,000 fire that left the upper floors of the huge state office building here a soggy ruin.

Richard C. Shay, a State Highway Department employe, said he touched a match to a map during the lunch hour Thursday on a wild impulse that he could start a "little fire" and escape being drafted.

Calmly he told newsmen of his bizarre reasoning after he had signed a statement confessing the fire. Prosecutor Paul C. Younger said a formal charge of arson will be delayed until Tuesday because tomorrow is a legal holiday.

Questioned by newsmen, the tousle-haired former Eagle Scout was remorseful because he may have disgraced the Boy Scout organization. He said he had been active in the Scouts here and in Cleveland, O., where his father formerly worked.

The prospects of being drafted and leaving his seven-months-old daughter, Christine Ann, and his pretty wife, Roberta, 18, were too much for him, the youth said.

Shay said he was appalled when the fire got out of control because he thought the building fire-proof.

The youth said he understood the Army would not induct any one on probation and he figured being placed on probation for starting a "small fire." He said he was a former Navy reservist but he didn't count on that or the fact he has a wife and a baby to exempt him from the draft.

Two Meat Unions Accept Pay Boost Of 9 Cents An Hour

CHICAGO, Feb. 11. (AP)—Representatives of two big packinghouse unions today approved a wage increase of nine cents an hour expected to set a pattern for 225,000 workers in the industry.

One of the unions, the CIO Packinghouse Workers, voted its leadership "full power and authority to take strike action" if the boost is not approved by the Wage Stabilization Board.

The other, the AFL meatcutters, did not take such action.

The boost affects three of the big four packing companies—Swift, Armour and Cudahy. The fourth, Wilson, was not included.

"The fight now is with the Wage Stabilization Board," declared a spokesman for the CIO union.

He said the union would take its case before the WSB in Washington Monday or Tuesday.

Pa. Town Water Supply Vanishes Due To Ice Jam

Columbia's Burgess Declares Emergency

COLUMBIA, Pa., Feb. 11 (AP) — Their water supply choked to the vanishing point by a massive ice jam, the 12,000 residents of this Susquehanna River town were forced to emergency measures today to find water.

There were few baths for Columbians, few shaves and few were fortunate enough to secure sufficient water to boil coffee.

It was likely that the condition might last indefinitely. The river was frozen solid for eight miles, shore to shore, from Marietta to Washington Boro. Columbia is midway between those two river points.

Emergency Is Declared

The jammed-up ice put the Columbia water works out of commission. Only a trickle got through to residents. Burgess Walter Roye declared a state of emergency, described conditions as "dire."

Most of the help today came in a shuttle service truck service from Lancaster, 12 miles to the west.

Water came into Columbia in tank trucks, normally used to carry 35,000 gallons of milk. Residents brought milk cans to collect water and took it home.

Greatest Fear Is Fire

There wasn't enough to go around that way. And other Columbians went into the farm country nearby to get whatever water they could from springs and wells.

A further emergency measure is scheduled to be put into operation by tomorrow night. This will consist of tapping the water supply of Marietta, four miles to the north.

Whatever water can be secured by Columbians must be boiled under an edict by Burgess Roye, whose greatest fear is fire. He said that "we'd be wiped out by a fire."

Pianist Serkin Given Tractor As Present

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11 (AP) — Pianist Rudolf Serkin, who doubles as a Yankee farmer, rode off the stage at the staid old Academy of Music on a tractor last night to the ringing cheers of thousands of concert-goers.

The tractor was given Serkin, who operates a farm in Vermont in addition to playing on the concert stage and instructing at the Curtis Institute of Music, by the Philadelphia Orchestra Association.

It was presented in thanks for Serkin's services. The pianist had offered to play without pay at the benefit concert by the orchestra last night.

ROKs Occupy Town 5 Miles North Of Line

Red Attacks Force Other Allies Back

TOKYO, Monday, Feb. 12. (AP)—United Nations troops on Korea's east coast marched north across the 38th parallel yesterday and today were operating five miles or more beyond that old dividing line.

In the mountainous Central Korea sector, Communists mounted strong attacks and there were some withdrawals by Republican Korean troops.

In the west, Allied artillery and aircraft again pounded Communist-held Seoul, where small U. N. ground parties ran into stiff defenses.

An Eighth Army communique said Republic of Korea (ROK) forces met only light resistance Sunday as they crossed the one-time boundary between Communist North and Republican South Korea and advanced to the town of Yangyang. Yangyang is five miles north of the parallel.

It was the first time north of the parallel for the United Nations forces since they withdrew southward in the face of the Chinese Communist offensive last month. The South Koreans have been moving up the east coastal road behind bombardments laid down by U. N. warships.

In the mountainous center of the peninsula a strong Red attack forced three U. N. columns back as much as three miles last night and early today.

.. Major Counterblow Possible ..

The Red attack struck north of Hoengsong in the central front area where a Communist buildup has been reported. Chinese have been spotted moving into this area from the western front where Allied forces have massed against the Han River near Seoul.

U. S. Tenth Corps officers said the Communists hit in strong, localized attacks but Associated Press Correspondent John Randolph pointed to the possibility of a major Red counterblow developing.

It was in this sector that the Reds struck last December in a drive that for a time threatened to split the U. N. defense line across the peninsula.

On the western front Allied artillery continued to pound burned and battered Seoul for the third straight day. U. N. troops were against the Han River on the southeast, south, southwest, west and northwest of the old South Korean capital.

But Allied patrols which had penetrated the city were driven back across the Han. Others tried to cross the river but couldn't make it.

Withering Fire Hits Allies

Red self-propelled guns and mortars poured a withering fire on Allied troops testing the defenses of the old South Korean capital.

While the U. S. Eighth Army announced Chinese and North Korean resistance "appeared to have vanished" south and west of Seoul, the Reds apparently did not intend to yield Seoul without a struggle.

At the same time, Chinese Red forces made a general sideslip to the northeast. Their resistance stiffened along the eastern end of the western front and farther east on the central front in mountainous interior Korea.

Associated Press War Correspondent Stan Swinton, in a two-hour flight over Seoul in a light artillery spotter plane Sunday afternoon, reported the battered capital was a "hornets' nest of Communist entrenchments, men and guns."

He said the city was studded with machine-guns, self-propelled guns and antiaircraft batteries.

Trenches twisted for hundreds of yards around clay hills immediately north of the Han River. Foxholes dotted the face of South Mountain inside the city.

Two Suits Against Flynn Dismissed

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11 (AP)—Two paternity suits filed against Actor Errol Flynn more than seven years ago have finally been dismissed for lack of prosecution.

Both suits were filed in 1943 and contained almost identical demands that Flynn pay $1,750 a month for the support of a daughter born to 19-year-old Shirley Evans on Nov. 13, 1940. She is now Mrs. Shirley Evans Hassau, wife of an orchestra leader.

Illegal Trade Reported

BERLIN, Feb. 11 (AP)—A number of West German firms using middlemen in the Allied sectors of Berlin are smuggling quantities of steel, iron, and non-ferrous metals into the Soviet zone, a West Berlin newspaper said today.

The Berliner Stadtblatt cited four West Berlin firms it said served as relay points in the illegal trade.

More than 15 priests and monks of the sect already have been imprisoned, and police are searching for 82-year-old Archbishop Chrysostomos Kavourides and three bishops in hiding, the Rev. Stavros Karamitsos, general secretary of the group, reported. Karamitsos emphatically denied that his sect has any connection with the Kreatea Monastery, whose eladers in Greece face charges ranging from homicide and kidnaping to forgery and torture.

The hunger strike started yesterday afternoon in St. Paul's Church in a poor section of Athens. Over its entrance hung a foot-square black cloth bearing the gilt slogan: "Liberty orthodoxy or death. We want our priests and bishops."

Iran's Shah Will Wed 19-Year-Old Beauty Today

Egyptian King Marks Engagement, Birthday

TEHRAN, Iran, Feb. 11 (AP)—The Shah of Iran marries the beautiful granddaughter of a once-rebellious Persian tribal chieftain tomorrow in a ceremony only faintly reminiscent of the glitter and pomp of former Persian royal weddings.

The 32-year-old king of kings, Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, will be wed in a Moslem ceremony to 19-year-old Soraya Esfandiari, whom he met at a party in Paris two years ago.

It is the second marriage for the handsome Shah. His first marriage to Princess Fawzia, sister of Egypt's King Farouk, was dissolved by decree in 1948. By coincidence, King Farouk, whose own marriage was dissolved at the same time, became engaged yesterday to 17-year-old Narriman Sadek.

The serious-minded Shah, deeply concerned with international war fears and social unrest and poverty in Iran, has ordered a comparatively austere wedding. He decreed that the traditional week-long celebration usually following such palace fetes be cut to one day—the day of the wedding. And he has requested that his subjects give money to a special fund he has set up for charity rather than the usual lavish presents to him.

But there will be some glittering presents from heads of friendly nations. And the ceremony in the marble palace, though simple, will be attended by bejeweled and bedecked royalty, including the fabulously wealthy leader of the Ismaili sect of Moslems, the Aga Khan.

Farouk Engaged To Commoner

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 11 (AP)—The engagement of beautiful, 17-year-old Narriman Sadek to King Farouk and the King's 31st birthday were celebrated tonight at a brilliant reception for the King, the royal family and the cream of Cairo society.

The party at the Sadek family villa in suburban Heliopolis was attended by Prince Mohammed Aly, the King's 75-year-old cousin and heir presumptive to the throne; the Princesses Fawzia, Faiza and Faika, the King's sisters; other members of the royal family, Prime Minister Mustafa El Nahas Pasha, and palace officials.

News of the King's engagement to a commoner was released by the palace officially last night, when the foreign press was permitted to send it abroad. Egyptians learned of it from their newspapers this morning.

Gains Force U.S. Strategy Reassessment

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Enemy weakness in Korea the last few days has forced a reassessment of the American strategy aimed at an early end of the fighting, if possible.

Just within the past two weeks high officials expecting relatively stiff resistance in the approach to the 38th parallel had determined that the line should not be crossed. They took account of the possible cost in United Nations lives and the political advantages which might be gained by remaining on South Korean territory.

ROK Crossing Discounted

The swift pace of the U. N. advance, however, and the need for keeping contact with the enemy has now confronted policy makers with the question whether it may not be advantageous to drive on into North Korea.

From Korea tonight came word that South Korean troops had crossed the 38th parallel on the east coast where enemy opposition has been relatively light or non-existent. Officials here described this as a purely local action of no political significance, independent of the main course of the fighting in the central and western sectors.

The question of pushing on into North Korea as seen here is concerned not with such local action as that on the east coast but with the mass of United Nations troops in Central and Western Korea.

With respect to these forces, the situation is developing so rapidly that a final decision on how far they should go probably will not be made until the exact military and political conditions existing when main U. N. forces get much closer to the 38th parallel are known.

Two Basic Purposes

According to responsible informants the decision then will be reached in the light of two basic purposes:

1. To gain a settlement of the Korean conflict consistent with the United Nation's objective of defeating the Red aggression. That might or might not include prompt arrangements for the unification of all Korea. Some thought has been given by authorities here to the possibility of an agreement which initially would divide the country.

2. To get American forces out of Korea as soon as that can be done without in any way yielding to or encouraging aggression. Obviously that would be possible only after a cease fire and evidence that the Communist assault would not be renewed.

3 Children Die While On Picnic

AMARILLO, Tex., Feb. 11 (AP) — Robert Henry Patten said today three children he took on a picnic in rugged Palo Duro Canyon got sick and died while his car was stuck overnight in a stream bed.

His wife, Eula, 22, became seriously ill. Patten said the picnic food—scrambled eggs and calf brains—made him sick, too.

Justice of the Peace B. F. Manchen of Canyon ordered an autopsy after Patten was questioned by officers.

The dead were Robert Wesley Patten, 3; John Wesley Patten, four months, and Katherine King, 15, Mrs. Patten's sister.

Patten, 34, of Amarillo, said all but the dead baby and another son ate the scrambled eggs and calf brains. He said the baby died after having only bottled milk and prune juice. Another child, Jerry Allen Patten, 18 months, ate only a cookie and did not become ill.

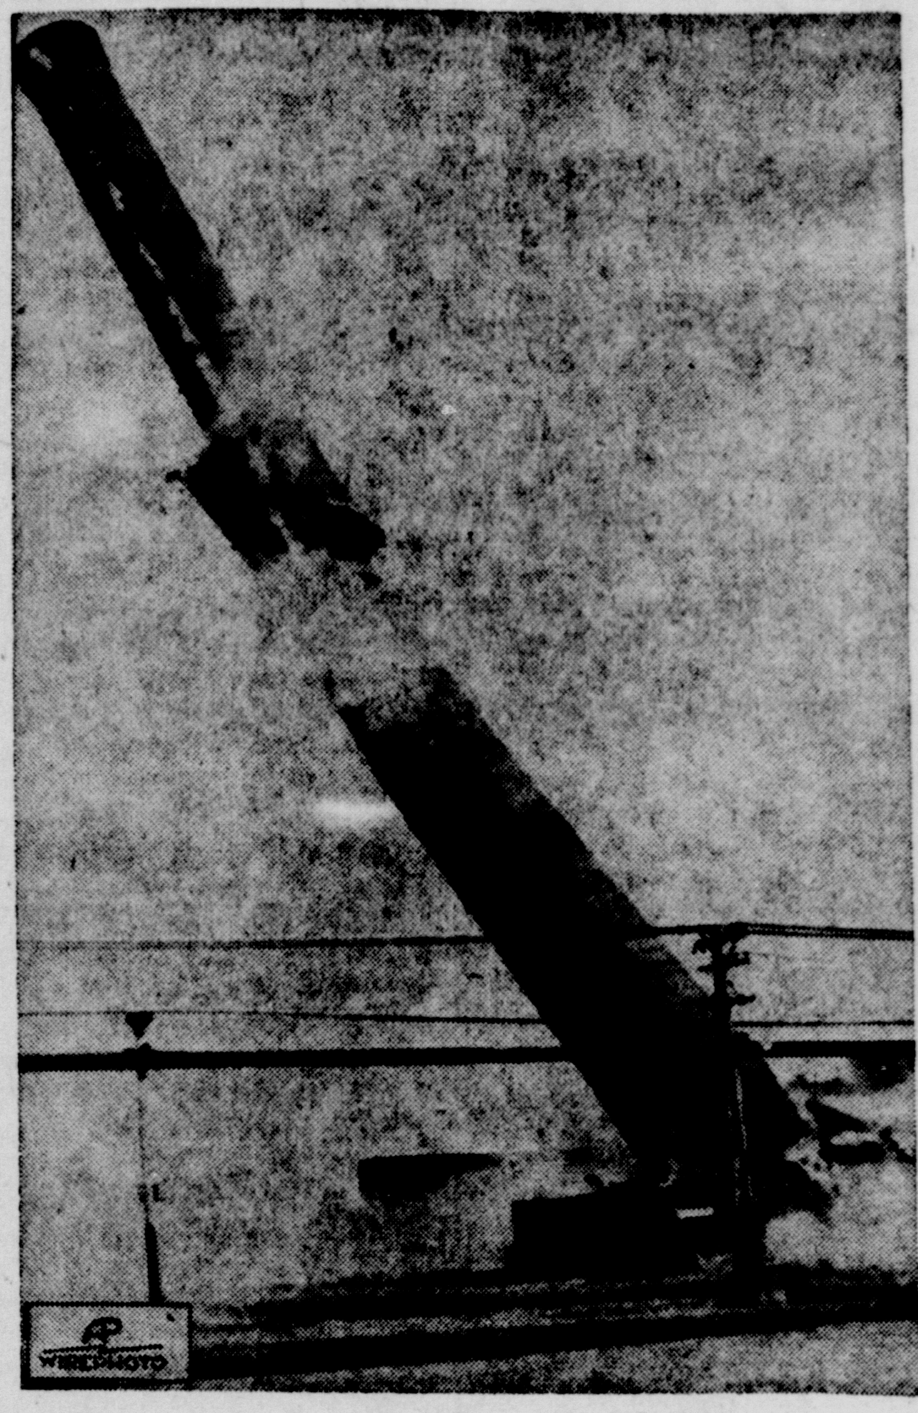
Undertaker Horace Griggs and a doctor who examined the bodies said they were cherry-red in color, indicating possible carbon monoxide poisoning.

Officers said this angle would be checked closely at the autopsy—especially because Patten's car has one window missing and another partly missing. Patten said he didn't run the engine or heater for more than a half hour during the night the family spent in the canyon.

11 Of 22 Escaped Ala. Convicts Recaptured

ATMORE, Ala., Feb. 11 (AP)—Eleven of 22 escaped convicts were captured today only a few miles from the state prison farm from which they fled.

The group, all white, broke out of the prison early yesterday by kicking planks from a temporary barracks and making their way through a locked tunnel under the prison fence.



Landmark Comes Down

A brick chimney topples and cracks in the middle as it is blasted at the old Pure Oil Company plant at Marcus Hook, Pa. The 200-foot stack, erected in 1926, was destroyed to make room for expansion of the Sun Oil Company, which recently purchased the property.

Hundreds Flee Floods In Wash.; Governor Acts

Langlie Proclaims State Of Emergency

SEATTLE, Feb. 11 (AP) — Gov. Arthur B. Langlie proclaimed a state of emergency in Western Washington flood areas today to facilitate cooperative action between federal and state authorities.

The Governor's action came shortly after hundreds fled their homes as the rampant Skagit River punched new holes in dikes near its mouth, bringing the number of flood refugees in Northwest Washington and British Columbia to more than 2,000.

Langlie said that his proclamation merely placed the state in a position to call in federal troops for assistance in the event state resources—the State Patrol and National Guard—become exhausted.

He described his action as "proscribed procedure as the pattern for flood relief had been set up for some time."

Seven hundred persons—the entire population of Conway, 50 miles north of Seattle—were evacuated after a levee break sent dirty, angry water from the rain-choked Skagit coursing hip-deep through the town.

At nearby Stanwood and East Stanwood the riotous Stillaguamish River seeped through dikes and swirled into outskirts of the two communities. Women and children in threatened homes were taken to safety.

In British Columbia, more than 500 persons were made homeless in the Fraser River valley where tributaries were on the rampage. Another 500 were forced to flee from the lower sections of Princeton, B.C., at the junction of the swollen Tulameen and Similkameen Rivers 185 miles east of Vancouver.

Earlier in the three-day floods the 300 residents of Hamilton, on the upper reaches of the Skagit, had been evacuated as water rose to a depth of five feet in all parts of the lowland community.

Scores of other refugees were counted in scattered farm regions of the valleys flooded by half a dozen turbulent Western Washington rivers.

16 Persons Injured In Texas Train Wreck

ROSENBERG, Tex., Feb. 11 (AP)—Sixteen persons, including 15 passengers, suffered minor injuries early today when a streamliner crashed into the caboose of a freight train.

The eastbound number 2 section of the Southern Pacific's Sunset Limited hit the freight train less than a mile west of this Southeast Texas town about 7:41 a. m.

The freight's caboose wah chopped into kindling wood by the two Diesel engines of the Sunset Limited, both of which plunged from the track.

All 13 passenger cars of the luxury train remained on the tracks.

Barber's Nearly Bald Customers Will Have Option

KINGSTEIGNTON, Eng., Feb. 11 (AP)—Barber Ivor Fawcett has grown weary of nearly bald customers complaining about paying as much for haircuts as youths with heavy shocks of hair.

From tomorrow on, his customers will have the option of paying the usual flat rate or a special rate of one and a half cents a minute.

Jobs-For-GI-Jane Survey Planned

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP) — A close survey will be made soon to see how many combat-qualified men can be moved out into the U. S. field forces by giving their jobs to GI Janes, Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) said today.

The Senator told a reporter that will be the next business of his armed Services subcommittee. That group, by a 7-1 vote, has just passed along to the full committee a broad program for building up the fighting forces, including a draft of 18-year-olds. He indicated he expects the full committee to approve that bill, with its provision for universal military service and training (UMST) Tuesday.

"Just as soon as we get this 18-year-old draft out of the way the Preparedness subcommittee will launch a spot check of all air bases, Army posts and Navy and Marine establishments to see how many women can handle military assignments now held by able-bodied combat men," Johnson said.

Couple On Stranded Oil Barge Rescued

BALTIMORE, Feb. 11. (AP) — A Coast Guard cutter tonight rammed through ice and rescued a man and his wife aboard an oil barge in the Chester River.

The cutter Narcissus had the barge in tow, and the barge master, Carlton R. Lane and his wife, were reported safe. The Federalsburg pair had been isolated since Friday.

Youth Confesses He Started Mich. Fire "To Avoid Draft"

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 11 (AP)—A 19-year-old father took full blame today for the $4,000,000 fire that left the upper floors of the huge state office building here a soggy ruin.

Richard C. Shay, a State Highway Department employe, said he touched a match to a map during the lunch hour Thursday on a wild impulse that he could start a "little fire" and escape being drafted.

Calmly he told newsmen of his bizarre reasoning after he had signed a statement confessing the fire. Prosecutor Paul C. Younger said a formal charge of arson will be delayed until Tuesday because tomorrow is a legal holiday.

Questioned by newsmen, the tousle-haired former Eagle Scout was remorseful because he may have disgraced the Boy Scout organization. He said he had been active in the Scouts here and in Cleveland, O., where his father formerly worked.

The prospects of being drafted and leaving his seven-months-old daughter, Christine Ann, and his pretty wife, Roberta, 18, were too much for him, the youth said.

Shay said he was appalled when the fire got out of control because he thought the building fire-proof.

The youth said he understood the Army would not induct any one on probation and he figured being placed on probation for starting a "small fire." He said he was a former Navy reservist but he didn't count on that or the fact he has a wife and a baby to exempt him from the draft.

Two Meat Unions Accept Pay Boost Of 9 Cents An Hour

CHICAGO, Feb. 11. (AP)—Representatives of two big packinghouse unions today approved a wage increase of nine cents an hour expected to set a pattern for 225,000 workers in the industry.

One of the unions, the CIO Packinghouse Workers, voted its leadership "full power and authority to take strike action" if the boost is not approved by the Wage Stabilization Board.

The other, the AFL meatcutters, did not take such action.

The boost affects three of the big four packing companies—Swift, Armour and Cudahy. The fourth, Wilson, was not included.

"The fight now is with the Wage Stabilization Board," declared a spokesman for the CIO union.

He said the union would take its case before the WSB in Washington Monday or Tuesday.

Pa. Town Water Supply Vanishes Due To Ice Jam

Columbia's Burgess Declares Emergency

COLUMBIA, Pa., Feb. 11 (AP) — Their water supply choked to the vanishing point by a massive ice jam, the 12,000 residents of this Susquehanna River town were forced to emergency measures today to find water.

There were few baths for Columbians, few shaves and few were fortunate enough to secure sufficient water to boil coffee.

It was likely that the condition might last indefinitely. The river was frozen solid for eight miles, shore to shore, from Marietta to Washington Boro. Columbia is midway between those two river points.

Emergency Is Declared

The jammed-up ice put the Columbia water works out of commission. Only a trickle got through to residents. Burgess Walter Roye declared a state of emergency, described conditions as "dire."

Most of the help today came in a shuttle service truck service from Lancaster, 12 miles to the west.

Water came into Columbia in tank trucks, normally used to carry 35,000 gallons of milk. Residents brought milk cans to collect water and took it home.

Greatest Fear Is Fire

There wasn't enough to go around that way. And other Columbians went into the farm country nearby to get whatever water they could from springs and wells.

A further emergency measure is scheduled to be put into operation by tomorrow night. This will consist of tapping the water supply of Marietta, four miles to the north.

Whatever water can be secured by Columbians must be boiled under an edict by Burgess Roye, whose greatest fear is fire. He said that "we'd be wiped out by a fire."

Pianist Serkin Given Tractor As Present

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11 (AP) — Pianist Rudolf Serkin, who doubles as a Yankee farmer, rode off the stage at the staid old Academy of Music on a tractor last night to the ringing cheers of thousands of concert-goers.

The tractor was given Serkin, who operates a farm in Vermont in addition to playing on the concert stage and instructing at the Curtis Institute of Music, by the Philadelphia Orchestra Association.

It was presented in thanks for Serkin's services. The pianist had offered to play without pay at the benefit concert by the orchestra last night.

ROKs Occupy Town 5 Miles North Of Line

Red Attacks Force Other Allies Back

TOKYO, Monday, Feb. 12. (AP)—United Nations troops on Korea's east coast marched north across the 38th parallel yesterday and today were operating five miles or more beyond that old dividing line.

In the mountainous Central Korea sector, Communists mounted strong attacks and there were some withdrawals by Republican Korean troops.

In the west, Allied artillery and aircraft again pounded Communist-held Seoul, where small U. N. ground parties ran into stiff defenses.

An Eighth Army communique said Republic of Korea (ROK) forces met only light resistance Sunday as they crossed the one-time boundary between Communist North and Republican South Korea and advanced to the town of Yangyang. Yangyang is five miles north of the parallel.

It was the first time north of the parallel for the United Nations forces since they withdrew southward in the face of the Chinese Communist offensive last month. The South Koreans have been moving up the east coastal road behind bombardments laid down by U. N. warships.

In the mountainous center of the peninsula a strong Red attack forced three U. N. columns back as much as three miles last night and early today.

.. Major Counterblow Possible ..

The Red attack struck north of Hoengsong in the central front area where a Communist buildup has been reported. Chinese have been spotted moving into this area from the western front where Allied forces have massed against the Han River near Seoul.

U. S. Tenth Corps officers said the Communists hit in strong, localized attacks but Associated Press Correspondent John Randolph pointed to the possibility of a major Red counterblow developing.

It was in this sector that the Reds struck last December in a drive that for a time threatened to split the U. N. defense line across the peninsula.

On the western front Allied artillery continued to pound burned and battered Seoul for the third straight day. U. N. troops were against the Han River on the southeast, south, southwest, west and northwest of the old South Korean capital.

But Allied patrols which had penetrated the city were driven back across the Han. Others tried to cross the river but couldn't make it.

Withering Fire Hits Allies

Red self-propelled guns and mortars poured a withering fire on Allied troops testing the defenses of the old South Korean capital.

While the U. S. Eighth Army announced Chinese and North Korean resistance "appeared to have vanished" south and west of Seoul, the Reds apparently did not intend to yield Seoul without a struggle.

At the same time, Chinese Red forces made a general sideslip to the northeast. Their resistance stiffened along the eastern end of the western front and farther east on the central front in mountainous interior Korea.

Associated Press War Correspondent Stan Swinton, in a two-hour flight over Seoul in a light artillery spotter plane Sunday afternoon, reported the battered capital was a "hornets' nest of Communist entrenchments, men and guns."

He said the city was studded with machine-guns, self-propelled guns and antiaircraft batteries.

Trenches twisted for hundreds of yards around clay hills immediately north of the Han River. Foxholes dotted the face of South Mountain inside the city.

Two Suits Against Flynn Dismissed

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11 (AP)—Two paternity suits filed against Actor Errol Flynn more than seven years ago have finally been dismissed for lack of prosecution.

Both suits were filed in 1943 and contained almost identical demands that Flynn pay $1,750 a month for the support of a daughter born to 19-year-old Shirley Evans on Nov. 13, 1940. She is now Mrs. Shirley Evans Hassau, wife of an orchestra leader.

Illegal Trade Reported

BERLIN, Feb. 11 (AP)—A number of West German firms using middlemen in the Allied sectors of Berlin are smuggling quantities of steel, iron, and non-ferrous metals into the Soviet zone, a West Berlin newspaper said today.

The Berliner Stadtblatt cited four West Berlin firms it said served as relay points in the illegal trade.

Local Man Wins First Prize In Art Exhibit

"Winter Scene Along Wills Creek," an oil painting by John M. Hershhiser, 312 Fayette Street, won first prize in the 1951 Tri-State Art Exhibit at Cumberland Free Public Library.

Clyde H. Roberts, art instructor at Hagerstown High School and Junior College, was the one-man jury for the contest, sponsored by the Allegany County Branch, American Association of University Women.

The art exhibition will be open to the public starting today at 7 p.m. and will be open daily during library hours until March 16. The judging was done Saturday.

A close contender for first prize, and awarded second place in the show, is "Storm on Little Savage," an oil by John Carter Shyrock, Frostburg.

A water color by William R. Sanson, Bedford Road, "Autumn Nakedness," won third prize; and Mrs. Ruth Feero's oil, "Vinal Haven," won fourth place. She lives on Hillcrest Drive.

J. Suter Jammer, Cumberland native and a vice president of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, won first prize in the sculpture exhibit for his copper entry, "Piper Fantasy." Mr. Jammer took up painting and sculptoring as a hobby less than two years ago. His sister, Miss Mary I. Jammer, resides at 230 Columbia Street.

Second award in sculptoring went to Mrs. Robert Matlick, 533 Patterson Avenue, for a ceramic figure, "Dreamer," and an honorable mention to Mrs. Herbert Nesbitt, 581 Arnett Terrace, for "Ming Tree and Chinese Figure" (ceramics).

Honorable mentions in painting were given to T. Victor Fier's "Pennsylvania Dutch Farm," a water color, and to Mrs. Dorothy R. Bradsher's oil, "Enchantment." Mrs. Bradsher resides in Westernport.

There are 87 entries in this year's art exhibit, practically all of the works being by native or present residents of Allegany County. Mrs. W. A. Van Newkirk, Frostburg, chairman of the AAUW fine arts department, is in charge of the exhibition.

Let your tape measure tell you the truth about your figure! Here are the beauty standards for comparison.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

DO YOU KNOW the ideal measurements for your figure? They're even more important than your weight. You may be delighted with the figure registered by your scale, yet be mighty unhappy with the one reflected in your mirror. But when your measurements are perfect, your figure and weight are apt to be, too.

There's another reason for wanting to know your ideal measurements. You may be laboring under the impression that your hips are too large, when actually what is wrong with your figure is a too-small waist or bust. In that case, you might undertake the wrong corrections for your figure. Many a woman has. So don't let your eye trick you; check your measurements against those of the ideal figure for your height. Then you'll know just where your figure is out of proportion.

Ideal Measurements

Here are the measurement tables used by the Powers Girls, and if your figure matches them, you've a figure to be proud of. To get a true answer, you must be very careful how you take your measurements. Hold the tape neither tight nor slack; place it around the widest part of each area you measure; subtract one inch from the guide measurement, if you have a small frame, or add one if your frame is larger than average.

If you are a short woman, 5'0"—5'3", your standard proportions are bust, 32"—33"; waist, 22"—23"; hips, 32"—33"; thigh, 18½"; calf, 12½"; ankle, 7½."

For the medium-tall woman of 5'4"—5'6"; bust, 34"—35"; waist, 24"—25"; hips, 34"—35"; thigh, 19"; calf, 13"; ankle, 8."

For those over 5'6"; bust, 35"—37"; waist, 25"—27"; hips, 35"—37"; thigh, 19½"; calf, 13½"; ankle, 8½."

Specialized Help

If you like what your own tape measure tells you, read no farther. But if not, watch for the spot corrective exercises that this column will be featuring from time to time. You'll find the answers that will help you bring your figure to the proportions of beauty. To save yourself pain of following those not intended for you, keep a copy of "Your Ideal Measurements" (to get your copy, see box below) alongside your tape.

There's still time between now and the purchase of the slim new fashions of the season ahead to remodel your figure to perfection!

Tomorrow: More figure wisdom.

Appeal Case Is Lost By Miner

Associate Judge George Henderson has upheld a ruling of the State Industrial Accident Commission in denying compensation to a former miner afflicted by silicosis.

The appeal case of Edward F. Harvey, claimant, against the Davis Coal and Coke Company, the employer, was removed to this Circuit Court from Garrett County.

The accident board found that Harvey had contracted silicosis while working for the Davis Coal and Coke Company.

Judge Henderson's opinion said:

"He (Harvey) first learned that he had silicosis in November, 1947, but he gave the company no notice of this. Nearly a year before that time he had been transferred from the mines to the position of constable and he continued as such until he became totally disabled in June, 1949.

"He then filed his claim with the State Industrial Accident Commission, and the first notice the employer had of his silicosis was a notice from the commission dated August 2, 1949.

"Both parties asked the commission to review these findings; the claimant because the company knew in November, 1947, that the claimant had silicosis; the employer, because the claimant had not filed his claim within one year of the beginning of the disability."

"The commission did not consider the claimant's protest, (Probably because there was no evidence to sustain it,) but disallowed the claim because the claimant failed to file his claim within one year from the time that he had knowledge of his having silicosis.

"It would seem the commission was right in deciding the claim must be disallowed, but wrong in basing it on the failure to file his claim within a year."

Judge Henderson pointed out that the Workmen's Compensation Act does not require the claim to be filed within one year of his knowledge of having the disease.

However, Judge Henderson did say that the claimant did not comply with the provision of the act that says that written notice of any occupational disease must be given by the employe or someone in his behalf within ten days after "the first distinct manifestation thereof."

The judge pointed out that the claimant in his testimony before the commission said he knew that he had the disease, but did not inform the company because "I didn't think it was fair to make any claim for compensation" because he was working at the time he first knew it and was making $150 as a constable for the company.

Edward J. Ryan, attorney, represented Harvey.

Parole Violator Is Sentenced

A Westernport area man pleaded guilty to a charge of violating his probation by drinking and was ordered Saturday in Circuit Court to serve a year's sentence in the House of Correction.

Earl E. Bishop, of Route 1, Westernport, was sentenced on June 12 to serve a year in the House of Correction after being convicted on a charge of burglary.

The sentence was suspended for a period of two years on condition that he refrain from drinking and keep good behavior.

The petition for the hearing filed by State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher states that on December 30 Bishop was arrested on a charge of drunken driving.

January 6 he was convicted by Magistrate John Laughlin at Westernport and sentenced to 40 days in the County Jail.

Associate Judge George Henderson presided at the hearing today.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)

HISTORY HAS no parallel of the magnitude and significance of America's work in the field of atomic energy.

For the first time in the annals of this or any other country we are building the sinews of war and of peace not only simultaneously but by utilizing the same materials. If an atomic war comes, we're more than ready. But, if there is peace, the stuff intended for the A-bombs and the backlog of research in that matter will bring about an era of prosperity unknown even in this country.

If the nations of the world ever reach a true accord, our billions of dollars worth of A-bombs will not have to be dropped into a deep part of the ocean—as were the vast fortunes in poison gas and obselete or damaged warships in the past. And there will be no boneyards and junkpiles made mountainous, previously, by unwanted planes, tanks, shell casings, etc., etc., etc.

The kernels of the A-bombs will be put to work instantly in power plants for commercial shipping, will replace coal and oil in the generators of remote cities and developments, will perhaps heat your house, help cure your medical ills. Because the vastest giant of them all, the bomb, can be harnessed as easily as he is trained and girded to wreak destruction.

• — • — •

The more we concentrate on building increasingly appalling A-bombs (and judging from that last blast in Nevada the boys are coming up with some really hot jobs) the closer we come to providing for the people, in time of peace, untold services of a scientific nature.

The Scientist or nuclear physicist who read in his paper that the light from the last Nevada bomb was seen in Oakland, Cal., and its earth-shudder changed a seven to a crap-out on a dice table in Las Vegas, thinks neither of war nor the frailties of gambling.

He thinks, "if it raised this much hell, well, that means we've found a way to hold the stuff together long enough for more than one tenth of one per cent of it to explode. Now, when we burn it slowly in, say, a peaceful power-plant, it'll be more efficient. . .last longer. . . make the fruit of that power-plant cheaper to buy."

Never heard a physicist talk precisely that way, but it sums up their composite thinking. Some of them, like Klaus Fuchs, let's say, should be taken out and shot. But by and large they are a devoted and loyal bunch, generally conscious of their dual role in the amazing world of uranium-235 and plutonium and whatever else goes into the nugget whose manufacture has changed the course of mankind's thinking.

They agree by and large with T. Keith Glennan of the Atomic Energy Commission. Glennan was asked recently about the enormous amount of time and money and manpower we are putting into work in atomic energy. A fellow wanted to know what the taxpayer was getting out of all of this.

• — • — •

Glennan said, "Perhaps the answer most to the point is that given by Winston Churchill in the House of Commons. In speaking of the atomic bomb, he said: 'It is only the vast superiority of the United States in this awful weapon that gives us any chance of survival.' "

The taxpayer had seen some overpowering figures: The total land area occupied by installations owned by AEC now comprises an area equal in size to the States of Delaware and Rhode Island. We are operating in 19 states, in Eniwetok, and have installations in the Belgian Congo and the Canadian Arctic. By the end of this year about 100,000 workers will be involved with the job.

Glennan, on leave from Case-Institute of Technology, Cleveland, says that the two and a quarter billion dollar installations which house atomic energy work represent a rare bargain, because what happens in them can be utilized almost eternally. He points out that people in this country spent that much on television sets and repairs last year, and just about that much on cigarets and cosmetics.

Besides, atomic energy work will represent a bare fraction of the $60 billion President Truman has asked for defense work in 1951.

Much has been written about the A-bomb, but this point has been neglected. It is something like buying a pair of pants for an older son. The younger son, meaning peace, can always wear 'em when the big kid outgrows 'em.

Railway's Earnings Rise In January

A record for January earnings was established last month by the Western Maryland Railway.

Gross operating revenues were estimated at $4,317,000, a jump of $1,684,000 or 64 per cent over January last year. The best previous January was in 1948 when gross was $3,873,105.

The rise in revenues last month reflected an exceptionally heavy movement of coal and a rush of traffic in steel products, a company official said.

$7,436 Spent For County Road Work

A total of $7,436.44 was expended by the Allegany County Roads Department during the two-week period from January 16 to 31, according to J. Walker Chapman, supervisor of the department.

Labor costs were $5,571.63; materials cost $650.60, and equipment, $1089.41. Sick-leave pay amounted to $124.80.

Snow and removal costs were $1,205.82; a total of $1,265.36 was spent at the county garage for shop work, and various other projects such as stockpiling cinders amounted to $525.95.

Suit Seeks Quash Of Attachment

A suit requesting a partial quashing of an attachment has been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Ernest Guthrie, through his attorney, Thomas Lohr Richards, has laid claim to part of the property attached by the sheriff. He said that through a bill of sale dated April 18, 1949, he obtained a sawmill and accessory parts and a tractor from Junior A. Guthrie for $7,000.

Almost three months later, July 11, 1949, the sheriff attached the property of Junior A. Guthrie, the suit states, including the saw mill and tractor which Ernest Guthrie contends belonged to him.

Suspended Police To Get Hearing

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long announced Saturday that he will request a Civil Service Commission hearing for three probationary patrolmen suspended indefinitely January 30 for "duty unbecoming an officer".

Long said he will undertake the step "in fairness" to Officers Karl W. Frankfort, Vernon E. Browning and Lewis A. Miller.

The trio was suspended from the force following an altercation at Midway Inn on McMullen Highway early January 28. They were off duty at the time and out of full uniform.

As a result of the fracas, Frankfort was handed a 30-day jail sentence last week in Trial Magistrates Court on charges of assaulting William W. Schumaker, 31, of 322 Bond Street. He filed notice of an appeal and was freed under $200 bond.

Browning and Miller were not named in the warrant charging Frankfort with assault.

Local Man Wins First Prize In Art Exhibit

"Winter Scene Along Wills Creek," an oil painting by John M. Hershhiser, 312 Fayette Street, won first prize in the 1951 Tri-State Art Exhibit at Cumberland Free Public Library.

Clyde H. Roberts, art instructor at Hagerstown High School and Junior College, was the one-man jury for the contest, sponsored by the Allegany County Branch, American Association of University Women.

The art exhibition will be open to the public starting today at 7 p.m. and will be open daily during library hours until March 16. The judging was done Saturday.

A close contender for first prize, and awarded second place in the show, is "Storm on Little Savage," an oil by John Carter Shyrock, Frostburg.

A water color by William R. Sanson, Bedford Road, "Autumn Nakedness," won third prize; and Mrs. Ruth Feero's oil, "Vinal Haven," won fourth place. She lives on Hillcrest Drive.

J. Suter Jammer, Cumberland native and a vice president of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, won first prize in the sculpture exhibit for his copper entry, "Piper Fantasy." Mr. Jammer took up painting and sculptoring as a hobby less than two years ago. His sister, Miss Mary I. Jammer, resides at 230 Columbia Street.

Second award in sculptoring went to Mrs. Robert Matlick, 533 Patterson Avenue, for a ceramic figure, "Dreamer," and an honorable mention to Mrs. Herbert Nesbitt, 581 Arnett Terrace, for "Ming Tree and Chinese Figure" (ceramics).

Honorable mentions in painting were given to T. Victor Fier's "Pennsylvania Dutch Farm," a water color, and to Mrs. Dorothy R. Bradsher's oil, "Enchantment." Mrs. Bradsher resides in Westernport.

There are 87 entries in this year's art exhibit, practically all of the works being by native or present residents of Allegany County. Mrs. W. A. Van Newkirk, Frostburg, chairman of the AAUW fine arts department, is in charge of the exhibition.

Let your tape measure tell you the truth about your figure! Here are the beauty standards for comparison.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

DO YOU KNOW the ideal measurements for your figure? They're even more important than your weight. You may be delighted with the figure registered by your scale, yet be mighty unhappy with the one reflected in your mirror. But when your measurements are perfect, your figure and weight are apt to be, too.

There's another reason for wanting to know your ideal measurements. You may be laboring under the impression that your hips are too large, when actually what is wrong with your figure is a too-small waist or bust. In that case, you might undertake the wrong corrections for your figure. Many a woman has. So don't let your eye trick you; check your measurements against those of the ideal figure for your height. Then you'll know just where your figure is out of proportion.

Ideal Measurements

Here are the measurement tables used by the Powers Girls, and if your figure matches them, you've a figure to be proud of. To get a true answer, you must be very careful how you take your measurements. Hold the tape neither tight nor slack; place it around the widest part of each area you measure; subtract one inch from the guide measurement, if you have a small frame, or add one if your frame is larger than average.

If you are a short woman, 5'0"—5'3", your standard proportions are bust, 32"—33"; waist, 22"—23"; hips, 32"—33"; thigh, 18½"; calf, 12½"; ankle, 7½."

For the medium-tall woman of 5'4"—5'6"; bust, 34"—35"; waist, 24"—25"; hips, 34"—35"; thigh, 19"; calf, 13"; ankle, 8."

For those over 5'6"; bust, 35"—37"; waist, 25"—27"; hips, 35"—37"; thigh, 19½"; calf, 13½"; ankle, 8½."

Specialized Help

If you like what your own tape measure tells you, read no farther. But if not, watch for the spot corrective exercises that this column will be featuring from time to time. You'll find the answers that will help you bring your figure to the proportions of beauty. To save yourself pain of following those not intended for you, keep a copy of "Your Ideal Measurements" (to get your copy, see box below) alongside your tape.

There's still time between now and the purchase of the slim new fashions of the season ahead to remodel your figure to perfection!

Tomorrow: More figure wisdom.

Appeal Case Is Lost By Miner

Associate Judge George Henderson has upheld a ruling of the State Industrial Accident Commission in denying compensation to a former miner afflicted by silicosis.

The appeal case of Edward F. Harvey, claimant, against the Davis Coal and Coke Company, the employer, was removed to this Circuit Court from Garrett County.

The accident board found that Harvey had contracted silicosis while working for the Davis Coal and Coke Company.

Judge Henderson's opinion said:

"He (Harvey) first learned that he had silicosis in November, 1947, but he gave the company no notice of this. Nearly a year before that time he had been transferred from the mines to the position of constable and he continued as such until he became totally disabled in June, 1949.

"He then filed his claim with the State Industrial Accident Commission, and the first notice the employer had of his silicosis was a notice from the commission dated August 2, 1949.

"Both parties asked the commission to review these findings; the claimant because the company knew in November, 1947, that the claimant had silicosis; the employer, because the claimant had not filed his claim within one year of the beginning of the disability."

"The commission did not consider the claimant's protest, (Probably because there was no evidence to sustain it,) but disallowed the claim because the claimant failed to file his claim within one year from the time that he had knowledge of his having silicosis.

"It would seem the commission was right in deciding the claim must be disallowed, but wrong in basing it on the failure to file his claim within a year."

Judge Henderson pointed out that the Workmen's Compensation Act does not require the claim to be filed within one year of his knowledge of having the disease.

However, Judge Henderson did say that the claimant did not comply with the provision of the act that says that written notice of any occupational disease must be given by the employe or someone in his behalf within ten days after "the first distinct manifestation thereof."

The judge pointed out that the claimant in his testimony before the commission said he knew that he had the disease, but did not inform the company because "I didn't think it was fair to make any claim for compensation" because he was working at the time he first knew it and was making $150 as a constable for the company.

Edward J. Ryan, attorney, represented Harvey.

Parole Violator Is Sentenced

A Westernport area man pleaded guilty to a charge of violating his probation by drinking and was ordered Saturday in Circuit Court to serve a year's sentence in the House of Correction.

Earl E. Bishop, of Route 1, Westernport, was sentenced on June 12 to serve a year in the House of Correction after being convicted on a charge of burglary.

The sentence was suspended for a period of two years on condition that he refrain from drinking and keep good behavior.

The petition for the hearing filed by State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher states that on December 30 Bishop was arrested on a charge of drunken driving.

January 6 he was convicted by Magistrate John Laughlin at Westernport and sentenced to 40 days in the County Jail.

Associate Judge George Henderson presided at the hearing today.

Long said he will undertake the step "in fairness" to Officers Karl W. Frankfort, Vernon E. Browning and Lewis A. Miller.

The trio was suspended from the force following an altercation at Midway Inn on McMullen Highway early January 28. They were off duty at the time and out of full uniform.

As a result of the fracas, Frankfort was handed a 30-day jail sentence last week in Trial Magistrates Court on charges of assaulting William W. Schumaker, 31, of 322 Bond Street. He filed notice of an appeal and was freed under $200 bond.

Browning and Miller were not named in the warrant charging Frankfort with assault.

Paper Workers Postpone Their Negotiations

Recent Wage Freeze Causes Some Delay

LUKE, Feb. 11—A postponement of the negotiations between the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and the UPA (CIO) Union, representing employees of the Luke, Covington and Williamsburg plants, has been agreed on due to the recent wage freeze by the Federal Government.

A formula for guidance in negotiations is being prepared by the Wage Stabilization Board and a conference will probably be held in about a week after this formula has been announced.

A request for a meeting between company and union officials to discuss the entire wage structure and to negotiate a revision of wage scales for the three mills was made about two weeks ago by Harry Scott, area director for the UPA-CIO. February 6 was named as a tentative date for a conference in Washington. When an announcement of the government freeze order of wages came the meeting was postponed.

Harry McGowan, president, and Eugene Dawson, Byron Green and Wayne Ritchie, committeemen, will represent the Luke Local at the conference.

Progress is being made on the job evaluation survey being made by the McGowan. Some 30 different jobs have been agreed upon for study and evaluation in the three mills.

The barbers union, which had affiliated with the Luke Local, has also joined the international organization. Harry Sayers, Washington, president of the UPA recently approved the acceptance of the barbers on condition that they pay their own per capita dues.

Paper Workers Postpone Their Negotiations

Recent Wage Freeze Causes Some Delay

LUKE, Feb. 11—A postponement of the negotiations between the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and the UPA (CIO) Union, representing employees of the Luke, Covington and Williamsburg plants, has been agreed on due to the recent wage freeze by the Federal Government.

A formula for guidance in negotiations is being prepared by the Wage Stabilization Board and a conference will probably be held in about a week after this formula has been announced.

A request for a meeting between company and union officials to discuss the entire wage structure and to negotiate a revision of wage scales for the three mills was made about two weeks ago by Harry Scott, area director for the UPA-CIO. February 6 was named as a tentative date for a conference in Washington. When an announcement of the government freeze order of wages came the meeting was postponed.

Harry McGowan, president, and Eugene Dawson, Byron Green and Wayne Ritchie, committeemen, will represent the Luke Local at the conference.

Progress is being made on the job evaluation survey being made by the McGowan. Some 30 different jobs have been agreed upon for study and evaluation in the three mills.

The barbers union, which had affiliated with the Luke Local, has also joined the international organization. Harry Sayers, Washington, president of the UPA recently approved the acceptance of the barbers on condition that they pay their own per capita dues.

Abraham Lincoln

There are many sides to the life of Lincoln, but one of the facets is lighted by an unquenchable flame. He loved his country better than any of its component parts.

The country then, as now, was riven by contending factions, pulled this way and that by considerations that were largely selfish. Lincoln's great mind penetrated to the heart of every problem. He was not hampered by thoughts of what a policy would gain for this or that group. He sought the solutions that would strengthen and benefit the nation.

With firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right," he said—and those words still exert upon Americans the force of conscience. Here was no expediency, no thought of what a cute political trick might do to win an election, but a simple, straightforward endeavor to learn what, in his human judgment, the country needed.

Lincoln was constantly hampered by self-seeking leaders, but to the end he hewed to the line of what he construed to be the greatest good to the greatest number.

America today needs men who are statesmen in the true sense of the word, as Lincoln was. It needs them in Washington, in labor, in management. The call is for men who will assay a situation in terms of essential values, and who will act without counting the cost as those deprived of special privilege emit outraged cries.

Lincoln was convinced that right makes might and did not hesitate to act boldly. It is the spirit of Lincoln that the nation applauds on the 142nd anniversary of his birth.

During the next fiscal year the federal government will spend $72,000,000,000 on an income of $55,000,000,000. This is a situation which any white-collar man with a growing family of children will understand perfectly.

Those Nevada explosions were heard for great distances and their echo carried to Moscow.

Butter Or Margarine

When you go into a restaurant, do you receive butter or colored margarine with the bread you are served? You are reasonably sure to get butter in the 14 states that forbid the sale of colored margarine—Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Montana, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin, Wyoming. These 14 states account for one-third of the population of the whole nation. Several other states levy special taxes on colored margarine.

In the other 34 states, the chances are less than 2 to 1 that you get butter, better than 2 to 1 that you get colored margarine without being told it is margarine. At least, these are the findings of an investigation by dairy interests in 12 cities of these 34 states. The margarine interests reply that this is an inadequate sampling and was not conducted by an unbiased body.

To serve colored margarine in restaurants without notice to that effect to the patrons is a violation of the federal act of March 16, 1950, ending the 10 cents a pound federal tax on colored margarine. The act, which went into operation on July 1, 1950, requires eating places serving colored margarine to (1) post a notice to that effect and (2) identify the margarine, when served, by a printed slip or by serving it in a triangular cut. But to enforce this requirement would obviously mean much effort and money, and Congress has appropriated little money for the purpose.

Dairy interests are fighting the agitation in the states with anti-colored margarine laws for the repeal of those laws. Yet, however much the consumption of butter may have been reduced by the repeal of the federal tax on colored margarine, the retail price of butter has not suffered—it was, according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, about one cent higher at the end of 1950 than at the end of 1949.

Nations And Neurotics

To describe a nation, or a government, as neurotic or outright mad is a dangerous use of analogy. The mentally ill are spurred by emotional disturbance which has little relation to the cold calculation of national interest.

There are nevertheless persuasive parallels between the behavior of nations and neurotics, particularly with respect to the reasons they give for behavior that on the face of it is the reverse of altruistic.

Right now Russia is balking at settling her lend-lease account with the United States. Not long ago Moscow agreed to talk it over again. Now the Kremlin is again refusing to settle. The total lend-lease aid Washington provided to help Russia defeat Germany amounts to $10,800,000,000 net—that is, after deducting the value of goods sent by Russia in exchange and the value of the few ships returned.

Washington isn't asking payment for war materials actually used in the war, but the U. S. Government would be willing to settle for any remaining surplus, including 670 ships lent or leased, plus a token payment for articles of definite value to the civilian economy. Russia, however, continues to display the same arrogant refusal to make a part payment on past favors—except at her own price of approximately two cents on the dollar.

The neurotic's claim on others, according to a recent book, are the reverse of the Golden Rule. He feels that his special merits or sufferings entitle him to special privileges. So the Russians are saying that their very real suffering in the war entitle them to run out on the contract they made eagerly at the time, and that the U. S. is to blame anyway for delaying a second front in Europe until 1944 and for subsequent "war-mongering."

It is to be feared, nevertheless, that this is no case for a psychiatrist.

A psychologist says a woman of 40 is never offended when a man whistles at her. Having heard, of course, that life begins at that interesting age.

There are indications in Korea that Russia may be running out of Chinamen.

The Famous Log Cabin Birth

IT was 142 years ago today that Abraham Lincoln was born in Kentucky, under the same unsanitary conditions that the greater part of the human race had come into the world up to that time. This is amazing to modern obstetricians but not so very remarkable considering that childbirth is a natural phenomenon.

The Lincolns were living on the Sinking Spring farm, four miles from Hodgenville in Hardin county. They owned poultry and live stock and their log cabin lacked luxuries but was not uncomfortable. Lincoln's father had consulted a Dr. Daniel B. Potter on several occasions but called the local midwife to attend the confinement. After all, midwifery was popular in those days and the country doctors were not too enthusiastic about obstetrics because it kept them out of contact with their homes and other patients for many hours and sometimes days.

There is no exact record of who was present in the log cabin except that neighbors and relatives usually helped out on such occasions; but according to W. E. Barton, the Lincoln authority, the room must have been crowded. Many decades after Lincoln became famous, Barton made a trip to Hardin county and almost all the inhabitants of the community told him that their grandmothers had been present. This is a variation of the Washington slept here" legend. In all probability Nancy Lincoln's two aunts, the midwife, and a neighbor or two were the only ones on hand.

They kept the fire going, made the necessary hot water, and prepared to care for the newcomer. With the help of these women and their crude obstetrical instruments, one of our most famous Presidents came into the world.

Folklore also has it that a neighbor, Isom Enlow, saved the life of baby Abraham. This man "happened by" and noticed that the infant's face was blue with cold. He rubbed the little body with his warm hands and poured some melted turkey fat, which he carried to oil his gun, into the baby's mouth. This should make modern mothers shudder.

Lincoln's birth is not unusual considering the era in which he arrived. Most deliveries took place in the home because hospitals were few and far between. Even tho one were available, the home was preferred because of convenience and the fact that there was less danger of developing childbed (puerperal) fever. However, the mortality rate was high because little could be done if the birth deviated from normal. The midwife was in no position to cope with hemorrhage or hasten delivery if labor was prolonged or difficult. Toxemia, infections, and lacerations were beyond her skill. When such complications occurred the physician had to be called and, in the absence of modern communications and transportation, it usually was too late by the time he got there.

In the last 142 years much progress has been made. Every years the number of babies born in hospitals increases. Statistics in Illinois, for example, show that, in 1948, 93.7 per cent of the total births were hospital deliveries. This is because of the increasing confidence that parents have in hospitals. Much of the improvement stems from the segregation of the obstetrical departments from the remainder of the hospital along with better delivery room technic. Furthermore, physicians, interns, and nurses are available and can be called at a moment's notice to cope with any complications. Nowadays it would be impossible for a well meaning neighbor to get his hands on a newborn; even the father is forced to view his offspring thru a glass partition.

A circulatory disturbance or a fungous infection may be responsible. Examination would be needed to determine the basis of this difficulty.

HEREDITY AND BLEEDERS

Mrs. T. writes: My husband's brother's wife bore a child who is a bleeder. There is no record of hemophilia in the family. Would there be any possibility that a child born to us would be so affected.

You are safe because hemophilia is transmitted thru the mother, even though it affects only males. But not all "bleeders" are hemophiliacs and to answer your question the exact diagnosis must be known.

Friendship Toys Sail For Europe; German-Swiss Dye Firm Becomes Pawn Of Democratic Politics; Business Tycoons Help Truman Campaign Fund

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Today the SS Aagtedyk sails from Philadelphia, city of brotherly love, bearing the first cargo of the Tide of Toys to Europe. This is a friendship cargo which the American Legion has painstakingly collected from all parts of the U.S.A. for the children of Europe and for the families of American GI's in Korea.

Last year the Legion sent 3,000,000 toys to Europe. Frequently drives of this kind slacken after the first year. People get tired or discouraged, figure the need isn't quite so great. But the Legion has reversed this trend, and the amazing total of 7,000,000 toys has now been contributed by children who could spare a toy from under their own Christmas tree.

What the Legion and its friends have realized is that money cannot buy friendship. Nor can the shipment of arms build friendship. Nor can the rebuilding of European factories, important as that is, build friendship. It is the people-to-people understanding, such as comes through a gift of a toy bearing a message from one child to another, which really builds the kind of enduring friendship we need.

NOTE—The Legion did such a good job collecting friendship toys this year that the cost of shipping became much greater than last year. Whereupon a group of patriotic businessmen in New York, led by Lewis Rosenstiel, stepped in to raise $50,000 to cover overhead expenses.

Alien Property Politics

One of the little-noticed but festering political sores of Washington is General Aniline and Film, the giant German-Swiss chemical corporation, formerly affiliated with the notorious I. G. Farben Cartel and now a pawn in the cutthroat game of Democratic politics.

If a Senate committee ever pries into the political ramifications of General Aniline and Film it will make the current probe of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation seem pallid by comparison. Technically, the German-Swiss company is supposed to be operated by the Alien Property Custodian of the U. S. Justice Department. But the Justice Department has farmed direction of the company to various friends who helped Harry Truman get where he is.

First of all, shrewd, farsighted Victor Emanuel, tycoon of the American Aviation Company, appointed Leo Crowley as head of his Standard Gas and Electric Co., when Leo was a power in the Roosevelt Administration. At that time—1939 and the years following—Crowley had the unique privilege of drawing $75,000 from Standard Gas and Electric at the very same time he was working for U. S. taxpayers as head of Federal Deposit Insurance and as Alien Property Custodian.

An indication that Crowley was serving two masters came later when he rewarded the man who paid him $75,000 annually by making Victor Emanuel a director of the giant German firm, General Aniline and Film. As Alien Property Custodian, Crowley could appoint the directors of this German firm, and he appointed not only Emanuel, but Emanuel's close friend, George Allen.

Profitable Back-Scratching

After Crowley stepped down as Alien Property Custodian, he placed his own friend and assistant, Jim Markham, in this key position. And Markham, in turn, appointed another friend of Victor Emanuel's, Louey Johnson, on the board of General Aniline and Film. Johnson became not only a director, but general counsel at a retainer of $37,500 annually.

Later, when Markham stepped out as Alien Property Custodian, he got a job in Louey Johnson's law firm. Thus, everybody scratched each other's back all the way round.

However, a lot of politicians had their eyes on the giant German-Swiss firm. Manufacturing as it does Ansco film, hormones, and 1,000 different synthetic dyes, it was the juiciest property seized by the government during the war. Its factories spread out from Grasselli, N. J., to Binghamton and Johnson City, N. Y., and a total of $1,000,000 a year was paid out to top executives and directors.

So, in 1947, Bob Hannegan of Democratic National Committee fame, induced Attorney General Tom Clark to appoint Jack Frye as head of General Aniline. Frye, a party faithful, had been eased out of his job as head of Trans World Airlines, but now stepped into the presidency of the giant German-Swiss firm at $72,000.

Battle Of Tycoons

About that time Victor Emanuel's influence began to wane, and the influence of rival tycoon, Floyd Odlum, began to increase. Both, incidentally, had carefully sweetened the kitty of the Democratic party, but in 1948 Odlum had gone down the line for Truman while Emanuel flirted with the Republicans.

At any rate, today finds Richard C. Patterson, a satellite of Floyd Odlum's, on the board of General Aniline, and significantly appointed as U. S. ambassador to Switzerland. Patterson has no outstanding qualification for the U. S. ambassadorship to Switzerland, having recently served in an opposite area of the world—Guatemala. However, it may or may not be a coincidence that the Swiss are now doing their best to take over General Aniline, in fact, have sued the U. S. Government, while the Swiss Government has made representations to the State Department on behalf of the European investors in General Aniline.

So naturally the question is being asked as to whether a Floyd Odlum man as ambassador to Switzerland could not perhaps intervene in this delicate, difficult situation.

Songbird Director

Other interesting political appointments to the board of General Aniline, made by a politically minded Justice Department, are: Morton Downey, the Coca-Cola singer, who is a delightful personality but knows little about dyestuffs; Colvin Brown, publisher of the Motion Picture Daily and great friend of ex-Postmaster General Frank Walker; William J. Mahaney of San Francisco, who gave $5,000 to the Democrats; and Donald Lincoln, law partner of Louey Johnson, who contributed $1,000 to the Democrats.

Meanwhile, General Aniline's earnings have dropped. Meanwhile, also, the U. S. Government has followed a general policy of selling off other German property seized during the war. General-Aniline and Film, however, remains unsold, and the juciest industrial pawn in all party politics.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The False Whiskers Problem

WASHINGTON

The right way to deal with future acts of aggression by Soviet satellites may become a really serious issue. Since the Korean experience, American leaders are pretty well agreed that hereafter we must "brush away the false whiskers," and penalize the satellites' masters in the Kremlin. But inter-governmental discussions of the satellite threat to Yugoslavia have already developed some sentiment across the Atlantic for what looks, for the short run, like a more cautious plan.

Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria are to be treated as independent states. They, not Moscow, are to be warned that the Western powers will not tolerate any new aggression in Europe. It is even said that they may be moved by such a warning to resist Moscow's commands.

The appropriate commentary on this scheme for encouraging satellite independence by pretending that it exists has already been provided by the disappearance from Prague of the former Czech Foreign Minister, V. Clementis, who has probably taken refuge in the American zone of Germany. Czechoslovakia was formerly allowed immeasurably more freedom than any of the satellites in the Balkans. But the flight of Clementis, a faithful Communist whose sole crimes were a trace of national feeling and an ability to converse with Westerners, shows how even Czechoslovakia has now been reduced to the status of a Soviet province.

A Ruthless Job

The job has been done with perfect ruthlessness. As a safeguard against nationalist impulses, control of the Communist party in Bohemia has been transferred to non-Czechs, like the Sudeten Germans, Germinder and Koehler. In Slovakia, similarly, the men on top now are Hungarians, Siroky and Battovansky. Widespread purges have sapped the power of the former top party leader, President Gottwald. Gottwald's humiliation by the new, Moscow-approved chief, Slansky, was even, as it were, officially announced a couple of months ago, when the leading newspaper, "Rude Pravo," a Gottwald stronghold, was rebuked for errors and deviations.

Inevitably, this process has included transfer of control over the police from Gottwald's ally, Nosek, to a Slansky man, Kopriva. And to finish the job, the Czech army has been purged from top to bottom. The army is now virtually under the command of the head of the Russian military mission to Prague, Colonel General Gusev, whose huge staff works with Czech units of all levels.

In the Balkans, of course, the same job was begun much earlier. In Bulgaria, the aging Georgyi Dimitrov was ordered to Moscow in February, 1949, and murdered there in July. Shortly thereafter, Dimitrov's deputy, Traicho Kostov, disappeared from view, to reappear on trial as a Tito-ist at the end of the year. Since then at least 60 per cent of the Bulgarian Communists of any importance, including almost the whole top leadership, have been purged privately or in public. The Prime Minister, Chervenkov, is the most notorious Moscow stooge in any satellite state, and the new chief of army general staff, Gen-

Stringent Regimentation Only Cure For Inflation

By ROGER W. BABSON

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 11—There is no more certain way of wrecking our economy and our democracy than by allowing the value of our dollar to continue to decline. Many are finding it extremely difficult today to make ends meet with a 57 cents dollar in this most prosperous era America has ever known.

Inflation Marches On

In 1940, a friend of mine got an air mail letter from Greece. The amount of postage on the envelope was 30 drachmas, or about 65 cents. Just the other day, he received an air mail letter of the same weight from Athens. He counted the postage—9700 drachmas—323 times as much as it took in 1940! How would you like to hold life insurance policies in an Athenian company, or to have bought Greek government bonds in 1940? Both are being paid as they become due; but in almost worthless money.

It can't happen here? It already has happened. By the time you get around to cash your 1953 Series E bonds which you bought in 1943, you will have lost an appreciable amount of money in terms of what your dollars can buy. It already takes twice as many dollars as in 1940 to buy the average car. Food costs are up over 100 per cent; clothing costs by about 95 per cent; and rent costs by about 20 per cent. Almost anything you can name has spiralled since Korea. The Air Force alone reports that the decline in the dollar has eaten out of its budget 750 jet fighters.

Some Causes Of Decline

Management blames the decline of the dollar on wage raises. The wage earner blames management for price hiking in a seller's market. Both groups are at fault. But the real difficulty lies with the fact that the production of goods is not keeping up with the demand. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reveals an average hourly pay rise in the manufacturing industries from a low of $1 in 1946 to $1.50 in 1950, or 50 per cent. During the same time, the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Consumer Index rose 36.9 per cent. This meant an average hourly increase of around 10 per cent in actual purchasing power of workers.

From 1946 to 1950, corporate profits rose, before taxes, from 23.6 billion to around 37 billion in 1950, or an approximate 57 per cent increase. After paying taxes, however, 1946 corporate gains were 13.6 billion, and rose to 21.5 billion in 1950 and compare fairly well with the increase in wages and prices. This is a good illustration of the law of supply and demand—action and reaction—which ultimately takes care of unbalances. The desire of all of us for more play and less work is the real cause of our declining dollar. The Korean war simply brought our precarious economic status into sharper focus.

More Controls Coming

I hate the idea of more government in business. I always will be vigorously opposed to unnecessary government controls. We can no more control inflation voluntarily with our present government in a wartime economy than we can raise a 10 million man army voluntarily. It is, therefore, with reluctance that I have come to the conclusion that the only cure for inflation is through stringent regimentation of our economy—but only for as long as war lasts.

This means stiff taxes and a big reduction of all expenditures not required by the war preparations, in order to put the war on a pay-as-you-go basis. It means prices, wages, and profits must be controlled. It means an end to all subsidies to farmers, laborers, and businessmen. It means unloading the billions of dollars of farm inventories now stockpiled by the government. It means a drastic reduction in the heavily overloaded executive branch of the government. It means all-out mobilization, not a piecemeal mobilization which encourages inflation. Unless we immediately take these drastic steps, unpleasant as they may be, our dollar may become worth only 25 cents.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Lincoln And Disloyalty

AS THE years pass, Abraham Lincoln is not being remembered as the President who controlled our destinies during the War between the States, nor even as the President who issued the Emancipation Proclamation.

Rather do Washington and Lincoln stand high above all the men who have sat in the President's chair, and their greatness lies in their selfless devotion to the nation. It is said that President Truman has taken Jackson as his model, which is unfortunate because it can only justify in his own mind a cantankerousness that approaches a distorted ego. Franklin D. Roosevelt employed no model, for he was his own model, naturally.

Lincoln could not have understood disloyalty. Even as we today are faced by disloyalty, by those who can and do serve an enemy, overtly and in secret, so was he faced with the same problem. In a proclamation, issued on March 10, 1863, he said:

"Whereas evil-disposed and disloyal persons at sundry places have enticed and procured soldiers to desert and absent themselves from their regiments, thereby weakening the strength of the armies and prolonging the war, giving aid and comfort to the enemy, and cruelly exposing the gallant and faithful soldiers remaining in the ranks to increased hardships and danger:

"I do therefore call upon all patriotic and faithful citizens to oppose and resist the aforementioned dangerous and treasonable crimes, and to aid in restoring to their regiments all soldiers absent without leave, and to assist in the execution of the Act of Congress 'for enrolling and calling out the national forces, and for other purposes,' and to support the proper authorities in the prosecution and punishment of offenders against said act and in suppressing the insurrection and rebellion."

He called upon the people to aid in this, whereas in our era disloyalty has become so much a political issue that the executive branch of the government has consistently since 1934, when the Harold Ware Communist cell was organized, aided, defended, protected and whitewashed the disloyal.

It is not only a matter of Alger Hiss and William W. Remington, who was convicted on Wednesday of last week, after having been cleared on several occasions by so-called loyalty boards. It is much more than that. It is a general attitude that loyalty is a private matter and that high officials, even in so important an agency as the State Department, may have private judgment as to whether the United States must be preserved as a sovereign state or shall become absorbed in some vast international congeries of states which live upon its strength while humiliating and shaming its traditions and conduct.

Lincoln would not have tolerated disloyalty. And even in his proclamation pardoning all who had taken up arms against this government and restoring to them their property, except slaves, he still insisted upon a loyalty oath, to wit:

"I, ..., do solemnly swear, in presence of Almighty God, that I will henceforth faithfully support, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States and the union of the states thereunder; and that I will in like manner abide by and faithfully support all acts of Congress passed during the existing rebellion with reference to slaves, so long and so far as not repealed, modified, or held void by Congress or by decision of the Supreme Court; and that I will in like manner abide by and faithfully support all proclamations of the President made during the existing rebellion having reference to slaves, so long and so far as not modified or declared void by decision of the Supreme Court. So help me God."

There was an unerring greatness in this simple man which stands like a beacon in our era of intellectual and spiritual pigmies. He placed country above party; he placed principle above self. And because he so believed, he was assassinated.

It was unfortunate that he was followed by lesser men who dared not understand that the essence of reconstruction was malice toward none. They gave this country many unfortunate years.

No country can survive inadequate leadership; no nation can survive disloyalty. We need a Lincoln and a Robert E. Lee today to rescue America from a morass of mediocrity. On Lincoln's birthday this is something to think about.

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

FELLOWSHIP WITH JESUS
To Be With Him

And he ordained twelve, that they should be with him, and that he might send them forth to preach. Mark 3:14 (K. J. V.). Read Matthew 4:18-25.

What a motley crowd of men! They quarreled, were jealous of each other, wanted the chief seats, were afraid, and ran away at the crucial hour of their Master's need.

But he loved them. He chose them not for what they were, but for what they could become. They had spiritual capacity, and if once released they would turn the world upside down. They had open hearts and minds, into which he could plant a truth. They were learners, and they would never turn their backs upon what they had learned.

The Church needs that kind of men. The preacher needs them. Not perfect men, but men who are teachable, who are eager to learn the values of Jesus. Men who stand by when the going gets hard for the preacher. Men who shoulder responsibility. Men who measure the success of the Church, not only by the number of members it receives, or the amount of money it raises, but by the manner in which it projects its life into the total life of the world.

LET US PRAY: We would stand by, O Lord, not merely watching thee in thine agony, but sharing it. Teach us to become thy ministering servants to a world that desperately needs thy forgiveness. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Abraham Lincoln

There are many sides to the life of Lincoln, but one of the facets is lighted by an unquenchable flame. He loved his country better than any of its component parts.

The country then, as now, was riven by contending factions, pulled this way and that by considerations that were largely selfish. Lincoln's great mind penetrated to the heart of every problem. He was not hampered by thoughts of what a policy would gain for this or that group. He sought the solutions that would strengthen and benefit the nation.

With firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right," he said—and those words still exert upon Americans the force of conscience. Here was no expediency, no thought of what a cute political trick might do to win an election, but a simple, straightforward endeavor to learn what, in his human judgment, the country needed.

Lincoln was constantly hampered by self-seeking leaders, but to the end he hewed to the line of what he construed to be the greatest good to the greatest number.

America today needs men who are statesmen in the true sense of the word, as Lincoln was. It needs them in Washington, in labor, in management. The call is for men who will assay a situation in terms of essential values, and who will act without counting the cost as those deprived of special privilege emit outraged cries.

Lincoln was convinced that right makes might and did not hesitate to act boldly. It is the spirit of Lincoln that the nation applauds on the 142nd anniversary of his birth.

During the next fiscal year the federal government will spend $72,000,000,000 on an income of $55,000,000,000. This is a situation which any white-collar man with a growing family of children will understand perfectly.

Those Nevada explosions were heard for great distances and their echo carried to Moscow.

Butter Or Margarine

When you go into a restaurant, do you receive butter or colored margarine with the bread you are served? You are reasonably sure to get butter in the 14 states that forbid the sale of colored margarine—Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Montana, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin, Wyoming. These 14 states account for one-third of the population of the whole nation. Several other states levy special taxes on colored margarine.

In the other 34 states, the chances are less than 2 to 1 that you get butter, better than 2 to 1 that you get colored margarine without being told it is margarine. At least, these are the findings of an investigation by dairy interests in 12 cities of these 34 states. The margarine interests reply that this is an inadequate sampling and was not conducted by an unbiased body.

To serve colored margarine in restaurants without notice to that effect to the patrons is a violation of the federal act of March 16, 1950, ending the 10 cents a pound federal tax on colored margarine. The act, which went into operation on July 1, 1950, requires eating places serving colored margarine to (1) post a notice to that effect and (2) identify the margarine, when served, by a printed slip or by serving it in a triangular cut. But to enforce this requirement would obviously mean much effort and money, and Congress has appropriated little money for the purpose.

Dairy interests are fighting the agitation in the states with anti-colored margarine laws for the repeal of those laws. Yet, however much the consumption of butter may have been reduced by the repeal of the federal tax on colored margarine, the retail price of butter has not suffered—it was, according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, about one cent higher at the end of 1950 than at the end of 1949.

Alfred Krupp, German munitions maker, has been turned loose with a new suit of clothes and $7,000,000. At least he should be able to start a new factory without calling on the RFC for a loan.

When communication with the moon is established, it will be possible to ask the old boy why he prefers night work.

Nations And Neurotics

To describe a nation, or a government, as neurotic or outright mad is a dangerous use of analogy. The mentally ill are spurred by emotional disturbance which has little relation to the cold calculation of national interest.

There are nevertheless persuasive parallels between the behavior of nations and neurotics, particularly with respect to the reasons they give for behavior that on the face of it is the reverse of altruistic.

Right now Russia is balking at settling her lend-lease account with the United States. Not long ago Moscow agreed to talk it over again. Now the Kremlin is again refusing to settle. The total lend-lease aid Washington provided to help Russia defeat Germany amounts to $10,800,000,000 net—that is, after deducting the value of goods sent by Russia in exchange and the value of the few ships returned.

Washington isn't asking payment for war materials actually used in the war, but the U. S. Government would be willing to settle for any remaining surplus, including 670 ships lent or leased, plus a token payment for articles of definite value to the civilian economy. Russia, however, continues to display the same arrogant refusal to make a part payment on past favors—except at her own price of approximately two cents on the dollar.

The neurotic's claim on others, according to a recent book, are the reverse of the Golden Rule. He feels that his special merits or sufferings entitle him to special privileges. So the Russians are saying that their very real suffering in the war entitle them to run out on the contract they made eagerly at the time, and that the U. S. is to blame anyway for delaying a second front in Europe until 1944 and for subsequent "war-mongering."

It is to be feared, nevertheless, that this is no case for a psychiatrist.

The Famous Log Cabin Birth

IT was 142 years ago today that Abraham Lincoln was born in Kentucky, under the same unsanitary conditions that the greater part of the human race had come into the world up to that time. This is amazing to modern obstetricians but not so very remarkable considering that childbirth is a natural phenomenon.

The Lincolns were living on the Sinking Spring farm, four miles from Hodgenville in Hardin county. They owned poultry and live stock and their log cabin lacked luxuries but was not uncomfortable. Lincoln's father had consulted a Dr. Daniel B. Potter on several occasions but called the local midwife to attend the confinement. After all, midwifery was popular in those days and the country doctors were not too enthusiastic about obstetrics because it kept them out of contact with their homes and other patients for many hours and sometimes days.

There is no exact record of who was present in the log cabin except that neighbors and relatives usually helped out on such occasions; but according to W. E. Barton, the Lincoln authority, the room must have been crowded. Many decades after Lincoln became famous, Barton made a trip to Hardin county and almost all the inhabitants of the community told him that their grandmothers had been present. This is a variation of the Washington slept here" legend. In all probability Nancy Lincoln's two aunts, the midwife, and a neighbor or two were the only ones on hand.

They kept the fire going, made the necessary hot water, and prepared to care for the newcomer. With the help of these women and their crude obstetrical instruments, one of our most famous Presidents came into the world.

Folklore also has it that a neighbor, Isom Enlow, saved the life of baby Abraham. This man "happened by" and noticed that the infant's face was blue with cold. He rubbed the little body with his warm hands and poured some melted turkey fat, which he carried to oil his gun, into the baby's mouth. This should make modern mothers shudder.

Lincoln's birth is not unusual considering the era in which he arrived. Most deliveries took place in the home because hospitals were few and far between. Even tho one were available, the home was preferred because of convenience and the fact that there was less danger of developing childbed (puerperal) fever. However, the mortality rate was high because little could be done if the birth deviated from normal. The midwife was in no position to cope with hemorrhage or hasten delivery if labor was prolonged or difficult. Toxemia, infections, and lacerations were beyond her skill. When such complications occurred the physician had to be called and, in the absence of modern communications and transportation, it usually was too late by the time he got there.

In the last 142 years much progress has been made. Every years the number of babies born in hospitals increases. Statistics in Illinois, for example, show that, in 1948, 93.7 per cent of the total births were hospital deliveries. This is because of the increasing confidence that parents have in hospitals. Much of the improvement stems from the segregation of the obstetrical departments from the remainder of the hospital along with better delivery room technic. Furthermore, physicians, interns, and nurses are available and can be called at a moment's notice to cope with any complications. Nowadays it would be impossible for a well meaning neighbor to get his hands on a newborn; even the father is forced to view his offspring thru a glass partition.

AIR SWALLOWERS

M. L. writes: My physician tells me that I must not swallow air. How can I stop this habit?

Most air swallowers are relieved when they eat and drink slowly. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this subject.

TOE NAIL DISORDER

W. C. writes: What causes new toe nails to grow in on top of the old? The old ones are thick and discolored.

A circulatory disturbance or a fungous infection may be responsible. Examination would be needed to determine the basis of this difficulty.

HEREDITY AND BLEEDERS

Mrs. T. writes: My husband's brother's wife bore a child who is a bleeder. There is no record of hemophilia in the family. Would there be any possibility that a child born to us would be so affected.

REPLY

You are safe because hemophilia is transmitted thru the mother, even though it affects only males. But not all "bleeders" are hemophiliacs and to answer your question the exact diagnosis must be known.

Friendship Toys Sail For Europe; German-Swiss Dye Firm Becomes Pawn Of Democratic Politics; Business Tycoons Help Truman Campaign Fund

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Today the SS Aagtedyk sails from Philadelphia, city of brotherly love, bearing the first cargo of the Tide of Toys to Europe. This is a friendship cargo which the American Legion has painstakingly collected from all parts of the U.S.A. for the children of Europe and for the families of American GI's in Korea.

Last year the Legion sent 3,000,000 toys to Europe. Frequently drives of this kind slacken after the first year. People get tired or discouraged, figure the need isn't quite so great. But the Legion has reversed this trend, and the amazing total of 7,000,000 toys has now been contributed by children who could spare a toy from under their own Christmas tree.

What the Legion and its friends have realized is that money cannot buy friendship. Nor can the shipment of arms build friendship. Nor can the rebuilding of European factories, important as that is, build friendship. It is the people-to-people understanding, such as comes through a gift of a toy bearing a message from one child to another, which really builds the kind of enduring friendship we need.

NOTE—The Legion did such a good job collecting friendship toys this year that the cost of shipping became much greater than last year. Whereupon a group of patriotic businessmen in New York, led by Lewis Rosenstiel, stepped in to raise $50,000 to cover overhead expenses.

Alien Property Politics

One of the little-noticed but festering political sores of Washington is General Aniline and Film, the giant German-Swiss chemical corporation, formerly affiliated with the notorious I. G. Farben Cartel and now a pawn in the cutthroat game of Democratic politics.

If a Senate committee ever pries into the political ramifications of General Aniline and Film it will make the current probe of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation seem pallid by comparison. Technically, the German-Swiss company is supposed to be operated by the Alien Property Custodian of the U. S. Justice Department. But the Justice Department has farmed direction of the company to various friends who helped Harry Truman get where he is.

First of all, shrewd, farsighted Victor Emanuel, tycoon of the American Aviation Company, appointed Leo Crowley as head of his Standard Gas and Electric Co., when Leo was a power in the Roosevelt Administration. At that time—1939 and the years following—Crowley had the unique privilege of drawing $75,000 from Standard Gas and Electric at the very same time he was working for U. S. taxpayers as head of Federal Deposit Insurance and as Alien Property Custodian.

An indication that Crowley was serving two masters came later when he rewarded the man who paid him $75,000 annually by making Victor Emanuel a director of the giant German firm, General Aniline and Film. As Alien Property Custodian, Crowley could appoint the directors of this German firm, and he appointed not only Emanuel, but Emanuel's close friend, George Allen.

Profitable Back-Scratching

After Crowley stepped down as Alien Property Custodian, he placed his own friend and assistant, Jim Markham, in this key position. And Markham, in turn, appointed another friend of Victor Emanuel's, Louey Johnson, on the board of General Aniline and Film. Johnson became not only a director, but general counsel at a retainer of $37,500 annually.

Later, when Markham stepped out as Alien Property Custodian, he got a job in Louey Johnson's law firm. Thus, everybody scratched each other's back all the way round.

However, a lot of politicians had their eyes on the giant German-Swiss firm. Manufacturing as it does Ansco film, hormones, and 1,000 different synthetic dyes, it was the juiciest property seized by the government during the war. Its factories spread out from Grasselli, N. J., to Binghamton and Johnson City, N. Y., and a total of $1,000,000 a year was paid out to top executives and directors.

So, in 1947, Bob Hannegan of Democratic National Committee fame, induced Attorney General Tom Clark to appoint Jack Frye as head of General Aniline. Frye, a party faithful, had been eased out of his job as head of Trans World Airlines, but now stepped into the presidency of the giant German-Swiss firm at $72,000.

Battle Of Tycoons

About that time Victor Emanuel's influence began to wane, and the influence of rival tycoon, Floyd Odlum, began to increase. Both, incidentally, had carefully sweetened the kitty of the Democratic party, but in 1948 Odlum had gone down the line for Truman while Emanuel flirted with the Republicans.

At any rate, today finds Richard C. Patterson, a satellite of Floyd Odlum's, on the board of General Aniline, and significantly appointed as U. S. ambassador to Switzerland. Patterson has no outstanding qualification for the U. S. ambassadorship to Switzerland, having recently served in an opposite area of the world—Guatemala. However, it may or may not be a coincidence that the Swiss are now doing their best to take over General Aniline, in fact, have sued the U. S. Government, while the Swiss Government has made representations to the State Department on behalf of the European investors in General Aniline.

So naturally the question is being asked as to whether a Floyd Odlum man as ambassador to Switzerland could not perhaps intervene in this delicate, difficult situation.

Songbird Director

Other interesting political appointments to the board of General Aniline, made by a politically minded Justice Department, are: Morton Downey, the Coca-Cola singer, who is a delightful personality but knows little about dyestuffs; Colvin Brown, publisher of the Motion Picture Daily and great friend of ex-Postmaster General Frank Walker; William J. Mahaney of San Francisco, who gave $5,000 to the Democrats; and Donald Lincoln, law partner of Louey Johnson, who contributed $1,000 to the Democrats.

Meanwhile, General Aniline's earnings have dropped. Meanwhile, also, the U. S. Government has followed a general policy of selling off other German property seized during the war. General - Aniline and Film, however, remains unsold, and the juciest industrial pawn in all party politics.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The False Whiskers Problem

WASHINGTON

The right way to deal with future acts of aggression by Soviet satellites may become a really serious issue. Since the Korean experience, American leaders are pretty well agreed that hereafter we must "brush away the false whiskers," and penalize the satellites' masters in the Kremlin. But inter-governmental discussions of the satellite threat to Yugoslavia have already developed some sentiment across the Atlantic for what looks, for the short run, like a more cautious plan.

Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria are to be treated as independent states. They, not Moscow, are to be warned that the Western powers will not tolerate any new aggression in Europe. It is even said that they may be moved by such a warning to resist Moscow's commands.

The appropriate commentary on this scheme for encouraging satellite independence by pretending that it exists has already been provided by the disappearance from Prague of the former Czech Foreign Minister, V. Clementis, who has probably taken refuge in the American zone of Germany. Czechoslovakia was formerly allowed immeasurably more freedom than any of the satellites in the Balkans. But the flight of Clementis, a faithful Communist whose sole crimes were a trace of national feeling and an ability to converse with Westerners, shows how even Czechoslovakia has now been reduced to the status of a Soviet province.

A Ruthless Job

The job has been done with perfect ruthlessness. As a safeguard against nationalist impulses, control of the Communist party in Bohemia has been transferred to non-Czechs, like the Sudeten Germans, Germinder and Koehler. In Slovakia, similarly, the men on top now are Hungarians, Siroky and Battovansky. Widespread purges have sapped the power of the former top party leader, President Gottwald. Gottwald's humiliation by the new, Moscow-approved chief, Slansky, was even, as it were, officially announced a couple of months ago, when the leading newspaper, "Rude Pravo," a Gottwald stronghold, was rebuked for errors and deviations.

Inevitably, this process has included transfer of control over the police from Gottwald's ally, Nosek, to a Slansky man, Kopriva. And to finish the job, the Czech army has been purged from top to bottom. The army is now virtually under the command of the head of the Russian military mission to Prague, Colonel General Gusev, whose huge staff works with Czech units of all levels.

In the Balkans, of course, the same job was begun much earlier. In Bulgaria, the aging Georgyi Dimitrov was ordered to Moscow in February, 1949, and murdered there in July. Shortly thereafter, Dimitrov's deputy, Traicho Kostov, disappeared from view, to reappear on trial as a Tito-ist at the end of the year. Since then at least 60 per cent of the Bulgarian Communists of any importance, including almost the whole top leadership, have been purged privately or in public. The Prime Minister, Chervenkov, is the most notorious Moscow stooge in any satellite state, and the new chief of army general staff, Gen-

Stringent Regimentation Only Cure For Inflation

By ROGER W. BABSON

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 11—There is no more certain way of wrecking our economy and our democracy than by allowing the value of our dollar to continue to decline. Many are finding it extremely difficult today to make ends meet with a 57 cents dollar in this most prosperous era America has ever known.

Inflation Marches On

In 1940, a friend of mine got an air mail letter from Greece. The amount of postage on the envelope was 30 drachmas, or about 65 cents. Just the other day, he received an air mail letter of the same weight from Athens. He counted the postage—9700 drachmas—323 times as much as it took in 1940! How would you like to hold life insurance policies in an Athenian company, or to have bought Greek government bonds in 1940? Both are being paid as they become due; but in almost worthless money.

It can't happen here? It already has happened. By the time you get around to cash your 1953 Series E bonds which you bought in 1943, you will have lost an appreciable amount of money in terms of what your dollars can buy. It already takes twice as many dollars as in 1940 to buy the average car. Food costs are up over 100 per cent; clothing costs by about 95 per cent; and rent costs by about 20 per cent. Almost anything you can name has spiralled since Korea. The Air Force alone reports that the decline in the dollar has eaten out of its budget 750 jet fighters.

Some Causes Of Decline

Management blames the decline of the dollar on wage raises. The wage earner blames management for price hiking in a seller's market. Both groups are at fault. But the real difficulty lies with the fact that the production of goods is not keeping up with the demand. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reveals an average hourly pay rise in the manufacturing industries from a low of $1 in 1946 to $1.50 in 1950, or 50 per cent. During the same time, the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Consumer Index rose 36.9 per cent. This meant an average hourly increase of around 10 per cent in actual purchasing power of workers.

From 1946 to 1950, corporate profits rose, before taxes, from 23.6 billion to around 37 billion in 1950, or an approximate 57 per cent increase. After paying taxes, however, 1946 corporate gains were 13.6 billion, and rose to 21.5 billion in 1950 and compare fairly well with the increase in wages and prices. This is a good illustration of the law of supply and demand—action and reaction—which ultimately takes care of unbalances. The desire of all of us for more play and less work is the real cause of our declining dollar. The Korean war simply brought our precarious economic status into sharper focus.

More Controls Coming

I hate the idea of more government in business. I always will be vigorously opposed to unnecessary government controls. We can no more control inflation voluntarily with our present government in a wartime economy than we can raise a 10 million man army voluntarily. It is, therefore, with reluctance that I have come to the conclusion that the only cure for inflation is through stringent regimentation of our economy—but only for as long as war lasts.

This means stiff taxes and a big reduction of all expenditures not required by the war preparations, in order to put the war on a pay-as-you-go basis. It means prices, wages, and profits must be controlled. It means an end to all subsidies to farmers, laborers, and businessmen. It means unloading the billions of dollars of farm inventories now stockpiled by the government. It means a drastic reduction in the heavily overloaded executive branch of the government. It means all-out mobilization, not a piecemeal mobilization which encourages inflation. Unless we immediately take these drastic steps, unpleasant as they may be, our dollar may become worth only 25 cents.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Lincoln And Disloyalty

AS THE years pass, Abraham Lincoln is not being remembered as the President who controlled our destinies during the War between the States, nor even as the President who issued the Emancipation Proclamation.

Rather do Washington and Lincoln stand high above all the men who have sat in the President's chair, and their greatness lies in their selfless devotion to the nation. It is said that President Truman has taken Jackson as his model, which is unfortunate because it can only justify in his own mind a cantankerousness that approaches a distorted ego. Franklin D. Roosevelt employed no model, for he was his own model, naturally.

Lincoln could not have understood disloyalty. Even as we today are faced by disloyalty, by those who can and do serve an enemy, overtly and in secret, so was he faced with the same problem. In a proclamation, issued on March 10, 1863, he said:

"Whereas evil-disposed and disloyal persons at sundry places have enticed and procured soldiers to desert and absent themselves from their regiments, thereby weakening the strength of the armies and prolonging the war, giving aid and comfort to the enemy, and cruelly exposing the gallant and faithful soldiers remaining in the ranks to increased hardships and danger:

"I do therefore call upon all patriotic and faithful citizens to oppose and resist the aforementioned dangerous and treasonable crimes, and to aid in restoring to their regiments all soldiers absent without leave, and to assist in the execution of the Act of Congress 'for enrolling and calling out the national forces, and for other purposes,' and to support the proper authorities in the prosecution and punishment of offenders against said act and in suppressing the insurrection and rebellion."

He called upon the people to aid in this, whereas in our era disloyalty has become so much a political issue that the executive branch of the government has consistently since 1934, when the Harold Ware Communist cell was organized, aided, defended, protected and whitewashed the disloyal.

It is not only a matter of Alger Hiss and William W. Remington, who was convicted on Wednesday of last week, after having been cleared on several occasions by so-called loyalty boards. It is much more than that. It is a general attitude that loyalty is a private matter and that high officials, even in so important an agency as the State Department, may have private judgment as to whether the United States must be preserved as a sovereign state or shall become absorbed in some vast international congeries of states which live upon its strength while humiliating and shaming its traditions and conduct.

Lincoln would not have tolerated disloyalty. And even in his proclamation pardoning all who had taken up arms against this government and restoring to them their property, except slaves, he still insisted upon a loyalty oath, to wit:

"I, ..., do solemnly swear, in presence of Almighty God, that I will henceforth faithfully support, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States and the union of the states thereunder; and that I will in like manner abide by and faithfully support all acts of Congress passed during the existing rebellion with reference to slaves, so long and so far as not repealed, modified, or held void by Congress or by decision of the Supreme Court; and that I will in like manner abide by and faithfully support all proclamations of the President made during the existing rebellion having reference to slaves, so long and so far as not modified or declared void by decision of the Supreme Court. So help me God."

There was an unerring greatness in this simple man which stands like a beacon in our era of intellectual and spiritual pigmies. He placed country above party; he placed principle above self. And because he so believed, he was assassinated.

It was unfortunate that he was followed by lesser men who dared not understand that the essence of reconstruction was malice toward none. They gave this country many unfortunate years.

No country can survive inadequate leadership; no nation can survive disloyalty. We need a Lincoln and a Robert E. Lee today to rescue America from a morass of mediocrity. On Lincoln's birthday this is something to think about.

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

FELLOWSHIP WITH JESUS
To Be With Him

And he ordained twelve, that they should be with him, and that he might send them forth to preach. Mark 3:14 (K. J. V.). Read Matthew 4:18-25.

What a motley crowd of men! They quarreled, were jealous of each other, wanted the chief seats, were afraid, and ran away at the crucial hour of their Master's need.

But he loved them. He chose them not for what they were, but for what they could become. They had spiritual capacity, and if once released they would turn the world upside down. They had open hearts and minds, into which he could plant a truth. They were learners, and they would never turn their backs upon what they had learned.

The Church needs that kind of men. The preacher needs them. Not perfect men, but men who are teachable, who are eager to learn the values of Jesus. Men who stand by when the going gets hard for the preacher. Men who shoulder responsibility. Men who measure the success of the Church, not only by the number of members it receives, or the amount of money it raises, but by the manner in which it projects its life into the total life of the world.

LET US PRAY: We would stand by, O Lord, not merely watching thee in thine agony, but sharing it. Teach us to become thy ministering servants to a world that desperately needs thy forgiveness. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Mrs. Roeder Commends City Street Workers

Cites Good Job During Storms

Special commendation for the "good job" done by Street Department workers since February 1, when one of the worst storms of the season hit this city, has been given by Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of Streets and Public Property.

Mrs. Roeder said the loyalty of the city employes, in working around the clock when the storm first struck, was a big factor in fighting the effects of the storm.

All available crews worked for almost a week in a seemingly hopeless attempt to keep catch basins open as the six inch snowfall thawed.

The job was usually under control by dark, officials said, but each night as the temperature dropped, channels to the catch basins froze over and the job had to be done over again.

Mrs. Roeder also praised the scores of citizens who cooperated in keeping the water and slush flowing into the storm sewers near their homes.

Without such help, she added, the conditions on some streets would have been worse, since it was impossible for city crews to be everywhere at once.

Non-Hungarian Leaders

In Hungary, the chief national-minded Communist, Raik, was also tried and found guilty long ago, and all his followers have since been purged. More recently, the President of Hungary, Szakasits, the Judas goat who led the Hungarian Social Democratic party into its alliance with the Communists, has himself been sent to the slaughter-house, or at least he has disappeared. The leading men in the government, Rakosy, Gero and Zold, are all non-Hungarians, and the Commander of the Army, General Vata, is believed to be Russian.

In Romania, no less than 192,000 members of the Communist party had been purged, by official figures, by the end of 1950. Last year the celebrated Communist chieftainess of Romania, Ana Pauker, and her deputy, Georghiu Dej, were called to Moscow, brutally disciplined, and returned wholly submissive. Here again, Russian control is most overt in the army, and the Soviets have openly transformed the main Romanian port, Constanza, into a Russian naval base. As for Poland, Marshal of the Red Army Rokossovsky now controls not only the national military forces, but the whole apparatus of the party and the state.

In the face of this sort of evidence, treating the satellites as independent is a polite but dangerous farce. If the Texas and California National Guard divisions attacked Mexico, the Mexican protests would not be addressed to Austin and Sacramento. If Moscow's European satellites embark on a career of aggression, the blame will not be theirs, and if future aggressions are to be deterred, the deterrents must be aimed at Moscow where the power lies.

U. S. Commission Moving To Bonn

FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 11 (AP)—U. S. authorities disclosed today that construction of a new multi-million dollar American occupation headquarters near Bonn will start this month.

It will overlook the Rhine River between Bonn and Bad Godesberg and will house the U. S. High Commission offices now in Frankfurt.

American officials said a complete American community to include several modern residential projects, offices and a shopping center will be constructed.

U. S. counterpart funds — west marks derived from dollar aid to the West German economy — will finance the new project. American authorities stressed that none of the expense will be charged to German taxpayers as occupation costs.

U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy ordered the transfer of his headquarters to Bonn to simplify working relations with the Germans and to prepare for the establishment of an American embassy there.

Reuther Urges Fairchild Talks

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Feb. 11 (AP)—Walter Reuther, president of the CIO United Automobile Workers Union, said today he is willing to sit in on talks to end the Fairchild aircraft workers' strike "any day of the week that management wants to negotiate."

He invited Richard S. Boutelle, president of Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp., to do the same.

The fiery UAW-CIO leader declared that Boutelle had not spent any time in negotiations to end the walkout of 4,700 workers at the Fairchild aircraft division here. Boutelle could not be reached for comment.

The stumbling block to an agreement in the five-week-old strike is the company's method of wage increases. Local 842 of the UAW-CIO wants a system of automatic wage increases from minimum to maximum wage scales within the labor grades.

The company is insisting on maintaining its merit wage system.

On the national scene, Reuther asserted that the federal government had frozen prices "in the stratosphere."

He said that the UAW-CIO wants to work with existing wage and price regulations to halt an inflationary trend. But after that, he added, the union will fight to change the law "wherever necessary to plug loop holes" in the present wage structure.

Stephen Mach, local president of the International Longshoremen Association, AFL, said the dockmen had changed their minds about handling the cargo when the State Department sent a telegram saying the goods were essential to the country's defense effort.

Income Tax Primer

Form 1040-A Is Simplest—If You're Permitted To Use It

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Most wage earners with incomes under $5,000 make their tax returns on form 1040-A, the yellow sheet.

Using form 1040-A is the simplest way to make out a tax return—if you are permitted to use it. Some taxpayers are not allowed to use 1040-A.

You are allowed to use 1040-A as a return only if you can answer "no" to all of these three questions:

1. Did your income in 1950 amount to $5,000 or more?

2. Did you get more than $100 from dividends, interest and wages not subject to withholding?

3. Besides wages, dividends and interest, did you have any other income?

If you can't answer "no" to all three questions, then you must use form 1040, the white sheet, as a return.

Even if you can use the easy form 1040-A, you still may want to use short form 1040 or long form 1040.

Here are two reasons why you may prefer to use short form 1040:

1. You had out of town travel expenses or "reimbursed expenses" in connection with your work and want to deduct those expenses in order to reduce your taxable income. (You can deduct "reimbursed expenses" when they are reported as part of your income.

In this case you would use form 1040 because there is no place on 1040-A to list such expenses.

2. You may want to know the amount of your tax at once instead of waiting for the collector's notice on it.

On short form 1040 you find your tax in the table on page 4 of the form. When you use 1040-A the collector figures your tax and sends you a bill or a refund.

Wage earners who will benefit by using long form 1040 instead of 1040-A or short form 1040 are those whose allowable non-business deductions total more than 10 per cent of their income. It will pay them to itemize them instead of taking the 10 per cent deduction allowance.

Among allowable deductions are various tax and interest payments, uninsured losses from fire, storm and theft, and medical expenses which exceed five per cent of your income. Also necessary expenses paid by a wage earner in connection with his work and for the benefit of his employer, such as purchase of tools.

If you itemize such deductions you must make your return on long form 1040. There is no place for them on form 1040-A or on short form 1040.

If you are married and use the yellow form 1040-A, make out a joint return. Write the names of both husband and wife at top of the return and be sure that both sign it at the bottom.

You can make a joint return for 1950 even if your wife died in January 1950 or if you were married on Dec. 31, 1950. But if you were divorced as of Dec. 31, you cannot make a joint return because the tax law then regards you as single for the entire year.

If you make a joint return on form 1040-A, the collector will figure your tax by both the joint and separate methods and give you the smaller tax.

THE NATIONAL GAS SHORTAGE

What We Are Doing About It In Your Community And How You Can Help

The whole country has been experiencing an almost unprecedented cold wave. Gas wells, even in Texas, have frozen and become unworkable. Millions of people have suffered.

The Columbia Gas System and your gas company are doing everything possible to get more gas to you. As soon as we can squeeze another cubic foot out of our pipes, you'll get it.

Every man in the gas industry is working with every means in his power to bring more gas to you.

Gas for industrial and commercial purposes has been drastically curtailed in order to provide the utmost gas for you.

In the meantime, here's how you can help:

1. Shut off heat in and close every possible spare room.
2.. Keep room temperatures at a very minimum.
3. Postpone any washing, laundering or ironing requiring use of gas.
4. Use cooking ranges as little as possible—not for room-heating purposes.

* * *

What Caused This Gas Shortage In Your Area?

1. Average temperatures are running 8 to 10 degrees below normal.
2. Over 12 billion cubic feet of gas expected from suppliers in Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma were not received due to unavoidably delayed construction of pipelines from these areas.
3. The war in Korea caused industrial requirements alone to run at over 50,000,000 cubic feet per day more than expected.
4. Therefore, our gas stored underground is over 30 billion cubic feet less than needed.
5. Because of the railroad strike we have been unable to replenish immediately our supplies of propane gas used for just such emergencies. These are now near exhaustion.

These are the conditions, all beyond our control, which have caused your local gas shortage.

Mrs. Roeder Commends City Street Workers

Cites Good Job During Storms

Special commendation for the "good job" done by Street Department workers since February 1, when one of the worst storms of the season hit this city, has been given by Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of Streets and Public Property.

Mrs. Roeder said the loyalty of the city employes, in working around the clock when the storm first struck, was a big factor in fighting the effects of the storm.

All available crews worked for almost a week in a seemingly hopeless attempt to keep catch basins open as the six inch snowfall thawed.

The job was usually under control by dark, officials said, but each night as the temperature dropped, channels to the catch basins froze over and the job had to be done over again.

Mrs. Roeder also praised the scores of citizens who cooperated in keeping the water and slush flowing into the storm sewers near their homes.

Without such help, she added, the conditions on some streets would have been worse, since it was impossible for city crews to be everywhere at once.

Matter Of Fact

eral Panchevsky, is a former colonel in the Red Army.

Non-Hungarian Leaders

In Hungary, the chief national-minded Communist, Raik, was also tried and found guilty long ago, and all his followers have since been purged. More recently, the President of Hungary, Szakasits, the Judas goat who led the Hungarian Social Democratic party into its alliance with the Communists, has himself been sent to the slaughter-house, or at least he has disappeared. The leading men in the government, Rakosy, Gero and Zold, are all non-Hungarians, and the Commander of the Army, General Vata, is believed to be Russian.

In Romania, no less than 192,000 members of the Communist party had been purged, by official figures, by the end of 1950. Last year the celebrated Communist chieftainess of Romania, Ana Pauker, and her deputy, Georghiu Dej, were called to Moscow, brutally disciplined, and returned wholly submissive. Here again, Russian control is most overt in the army, and the Soviets have openly transformed the main Romanian port, Constanza, into a Russian naval base. As for Poland, Marshal of the Red Army Rokossovsky now controls not only the national military forces, but the whole apparatus of the party and the state.

In the face of this sort of evidence, treating the satellites as independent is a polite but dangerous farce. If the Texas and California National Guard divisions attacked Mexico, the Mexican protests would not be addressed to Austin and Sacramento. If Moscow's European satellites embark on a career of aggression, the blame will not be theirs, and if future aggressions are to be deterred, the deterrents must be aimed at Moscow where the power lies.

U. S. Commission Moving To Bonn

FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 11 (AP)—U. S. authorities disclosed today that construction of a new multi-million dollar American occupation headquarters near Bonn will start this month.

It will overlook the Rhine River between Bonn and Bad Godesberg and will house the U. S. High Commission offices now in Frankfurt.

American officials said a complete American community to include several modern residential projects, offices and a shopping center will be constructed.

U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy ordered the transfer of his headquarters to Bonn to simplify working relations with the Germans and to prepare for the establishment of an American embassy there.

Reuther Urges Fairchild Talks

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Feb. 11 (AP)—Walter Reuther, president of the CIO United Automobile Workers Union, said today he is willing to sit in on talks to end the Fairchild aircraft workers' strike "any day of the week that management wants to negotiate."

He invited Richard S. Boutelle, president of Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp., to do the same.

The fiery UAW-CIO leader declared that Boutelle had not spent any time in negotiations to end the walkout of 4,700 workers at the Fairchild aircraft division here. Boutelle could not be reached for comment.

The stumbling block to an agreement in the five-week-old strike is the company's method of wage increases. Local 842 of the UAW-CIO wants a system of automatic wage increases from minimum to maximum wage scales within the labor grades.

The company is insisting on maintaining its merit wage system.

On the national scene, Reuther asserted that the federal government had frozen prices "in the stratosphere."

He said that the UAW-CIO wants to work with existing wage and price regulations to halt an inflationary trend. But after that, he added, the union will fight to change the law "wherever necessary to plug loop holes" in the present wage structure.

Baltimore Dockers To Unload China Cargo

BALTIMORE, Feb. 11 (AP)—The unloading of a Norwegian freighter carrying cargo from Communist China will begin Tuesday or Wednesday, a longshoremen's union official said today.

The 3,141-ton freighter Lisholt has been lying here since yesterday with more than 520 tons of cargo consigned to Baltimore, which stevedores refused to handle.

Stephen Mach, local president of the International Longshoremen Association, AFL, said the dockmen had changed their minds about handling the cargo when the State Department sent a telegram saying the goods were essential to the country's defense effort.

Area Video Enthusiast Gets National Salute

Cumberland gets "poor to nothing" in television reception, but a Cumberlander, Virgil H. Ruppenthal, is rated one of the two outstanding TV enthusiasts in the United States.

Last Thursday night he was honored by a special salute from WFIL-TV (Philadelphia) on a national hookup. Cumberland came in for some favorable publicity because of Ruppy's TV Heaven on the top of Dan's Mountain, about 15 miles from here. Long engaged in the juke box business here, Ruppenthal is a 292 pound video fan of the first rank.

Income Tax Primer

Form 1040-A Is Simplest—If You're Permitted To Use It

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Most wage earners with incomes under $5,000 make their tax returns on form 1040-A, the yellow sheet.

Using form 1040-A is the simplest way to make out a tax return—if you are permitted to use it. Some taxpayers are not allowed to use 1040-A.

You are allowed to use 1040-A as a return only if you can answer "no" to all of these three questions:

1. Did your income in 1950 amount to $5,000 or more?

2. Did you get more than $100 from dividends, interest and wages not subject to withholding?

3. Besides wages, dividends and interest, did you have any other income?

If you can't answer "no" to all three questions, then you must use form 1040, the white sheet, as a return.

Even if you can use the easy form 1040-A, you still may want to use short form 1040 or long form 1040.

Here are two reasons why you may prefer to use short form 1040:

1. You had out of town travel expenses or "reimbursed expenses" in connection with your work and want to deduct those expenses in order to reduce your taxable income. (You can deduct "reimbursed expenses" when they are reported as part of your income.

In this case you would use form 1040 because there is no place on 1040-A to list such expenses.

2. You may want to know the amount of your tax at once instead of waiting for the collector's notice on it.

On short form 1040 you find your tax in the table on page 4 of the form. When you use 1040-A the collector figures your tax and sends you a bill or a refund.

Wage earners who will benefit by using long form 1040 instead of 1040-A or short form 1040 are those whose allowable non-business deductions total more than 10 per cent of their income. It will pay them to itemize them instead of taking the 10 per cent deduction allowance.

Among allowable deductions are various tax and interest payments, uninsured losses from fire, storm and theft, and medical expenses which exceed five per cent of your income. Also necessary expenses paid by a wage earner in connection with his work and for the benefit of his employer, such as purchase of tools.

If you itemize such deductions you must make your return on long form 1040. There is no place for them on form 1040-A or on short form 1040.

If you are married and use the yellow form 1040-A, make out a joint return. Write the names of both husband and wife at top of the return and be sure that both sign it at the bottom.

You can make a joint return for 1950 even if your wife died in January 1950 or if you were married on Dec. 31, 1950. But if you were divorced as of Dec. 31, you cannot make a joint return because the tax law then regards you as single for the entire year.

If you make a joint return on form 1040-A, the collector will figure your tax by both the joint and separate methods and give you the smaller tax.

THE NATIONAL GAS SHORTAGE

What We Are Doing About It In Your Community And How You Can Help

The whole country has been experiencing an almost unprecedented cold wave. Gas wells, even in Texas, have frozen and become unworkable. Millions of people have suffered.

The Columbia Gas System and your gas company are doing everything possible to get more gas to you. As soon as we can squeeze another cubic foot out of our pipes, you'll get it.

Every man in the gas industry is working with every means in his power to bring more gas to you.

Gas for industrial and commercial purposes has been drastically curtailed in order to provide the utmost gas for you.

In the meantime, here's how you can help:

1. Shut off heat in and close every possible spare room.
2. Keep room temperatures at a very minimum.
3. Postpone any washing, laundering or ironing requiring use of gas.
4. Use cooking ranges as little as possible—not for room-heating purposes.

★ ★ ★

What Caused This Gas Shortage In Your Area?

1. Average temperatures are running 8 to 10 degrees below normal.
2. Over 12 billion cubic feet of gas expected from suppliers in Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma were not received due to unavoidably delayed construction of pipelines from these areas.
3. The war in Korea caused industrial requirements alone to run at over 50,000,000 cubic feet per day more than expected.
4. Therefore, our gas stored underground is over 30 billion cubic feet less than needed.
5. Because of the railroad strike we have been unable to replenish immediately our supplies of propane gas used for just such emergencies. These are now near exhaustion.

These are the conditions, all beyond our control, which have caused your local gas shortage.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD
By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11 (INS)—In spite of the big pan the critics gave Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis' comedy, "At War With The Army," it's tops at the box office. The public likes it and falls in the aisles after seeing it.

Dean and Jerry may have their private problems, battles with their agent, and Dean worrying over money and alimony problems—but this comedy is lifting their stock high as entertainers.

So, it's interesting news today that Norman Taurog is the lucky boy who gets the directing job of "The Stooge," their next comedy. Maybe I should say the luck's on the other side, for Norman has made so many fine Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures in the many years he has been there. His last, "Young, Rich And Pretty" was finished on Saturday, and tomorrow morning he reports to his new boss, Hal Wallis.

Prince Otto Hapsburg, son of the last emperor of Austria, and who has many friends in Hollywood, is marrying Princess Regina of Saxony-Meiningen soon. Empress Zita, his mother, who has been living in Canada, is on her way to Europe to attend the ceremony.

There had been rumors that after Prince Otto's marriage she will become a nun in a Benedictine convent in France. Several people who know her doubt this, however, because even though she is a very devout Catholic, her children have tried to persuade her not to enter a convent.

Prince Otto, the godfather of little Stephanie Farrow, daughter of Maureen O'Sullivan and John Farrow, is charming.

Chit Chat:

Elizabeth Taylor can only wonder why the Harvard Lampoon so suddenly changed its mind about her.

Last fall they invited her to be honorary cheer leader at their big football game. When she was invited she was told she was their most popular actress.

Now the boys turn around and award her the Roscoe for so gallantly persisting in her career despite a total inability to act. That might not be so bad, but they also cite her as the most objectionable ingenue and one of the two most objectionable movie children. How can they change so quickly?

Deborah Kerr has a sprained ankle received while skiing. The studios, more and more, are trying to keep their stars off skis.

Congratulations to Agent Harold Rose. After 15 years of marriage, he and his wife expect their first baby in August. Mrs. Rose is a cousin of David Selznick.

Producer Stanley Rubin gets his answer from Coleen Gray soon, and it's my guess it will be yes.

At the Cafe Gala Doris Duke and Gilbert Roland with a party of friends.

Barbara Stanwyck has sold the Holmby Hills house where she and Robert Taylor lived for the past few years, and has taken an apartment. This is sad because it seems to be really the end of Barbara and Bob's marriage.

Mickey Rooney's new girl friend is Kay Brown, shorter than he is. That's the first time Mickey has been interested in any girl who wasn't an Amazon.

The manager of the all-star basketball team with which Glenn Davis went to Hawaii, flew in all the white orchids for Glenn's wedding to Terry Moore on Friday.

Carmen Miranda and Ronald Reagan are the first guests on Don McNeil's first Hollywood Breakfast Club TV show.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

I got a Fresh Start with a cash loan at HFC

"Ever get in a spot where you needed extra cash fast? I guess we all do at one time or another. Well, I needed $300 to clean up some old bills. I was plenty worried—until a friend of mine recommended Household Finance. So I phoned HFC. I got a pleasant surprise. I found I could borrow three ways—on my signature, car or furniture. And I could get as little as $20 or as much as $1000 and repay it in monthly instalments. Best of all, I didn't need endorsers or guarantors.

"And talk about service! Take my word for it, HFC is really a friendly, helpful place to do business. And HFC specializes in fast service. I got money I needed right then, without the slightest embarrassment.

"If you need money for any good purpose—do as I and thousands of others do. Get a fresh start now at HFC—Household Finance Corporation. Why not call HFC today?"

SNEAK!

The word has an ugly sound which is far from reality when it is applied to the showing of a new Movie. What is a SNEAK-PRE-VUE? Frequently the booking department of a Theater Circuit is faced with the problem of how best to book an unusual motion picture.

Always it is one of the bigger and better films, which for various reason, needs "word-of-mouth" publicity, plus a testing ground for audience reaction. Therefore we periodically "SNEAK" prevue a big picture without advertising the title . . . it offers YOU an opportunity to enjoy the picture far in advance of it's scheduled dating at the theater in addition to the current show.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11 (INS)—In spite of the big pan the critics gave Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis' comedy, "At War With The Army," it's tops at the box office. The public likes it and falls in the aisles after seeing it.

Dean and Jerry may have their private problems, battles with their agent, and Dean worrying over money and alimony problems—but this comedy is lifting their stock high as entertainers.

So, it's interesting news today that Norman Taurog is the lucky boy who gets the directing job of "The Stooge," their next comedy. Maybe I should say the luck's on the other side, for Norman has made so many fine Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures in the many years he has been there. His last, "Young, Rich And Pretty" was finished on Saturday, and tomorrow morning he reports to his new boss, Hal Wallis.

Prince Otto Hapsburg, son of the last emperor of Austria, and who has many friends in Hollywood, is marrying Princess Regina of Saxony-Meiningen soon. Empress Zita, his mother, who has been living in Canada, is on her way to Europe to attend the ceremony.

There had been rumors that after Prince Otto's marriage she will become a nun in a Benedictine convent in France. Several people who know her doubt this, however, because even though she is a very devout Catholic, her children have tried to persuade her not to enter a convent.

Prince Otto, the godfather of little Stephanie Farrow, daughter of Maureen O'Sullivan and John Farrow, is charming.

Chit Chat:

Elizabeth Taylor can only wonder why the Harvard Lampoon so suddenly changed its mind about her.

Last fall they invited her to be honorary cheer leader at their big football game. When she was invited she was told she was their most popular actress.

Now the boys turn around and award her the Roscoe for so gallantly persisting in her career despite a total inability to act. That might not be so bad, but they also cite her as the most objectionable ingenue and one of the two most objectionable movie children. How can they change so quickly?

Deborah Kerr has a sprained ankle received while skiing. The studios, more and more, are trying to keep their stars off skis.

Congratulations to Agent Harold Rose. After 15 years of marriage, he and his wife expect their first baby in August. Mrs. Rose is a cousin of David Selznick.

Producer Stanley Rubin gets his answer from Coleen Gray soon, and it's my guess it will be yes.

At the Cafe Gala Doris Duke and Gilbert Roland with a party of friends.

Barbara Stanwyck has sold the Holmby Hills house where she and Robert Taylor lived for the past few years, and has taken an apartment. This is sad because it seems to be really the end of Barbara and Bob's marriage.

Mickey Rooney's new girl friend is Kay Brown, shorter than he is. That's the first time Mickey has been interested in any girl who wasn't an Amazon.

The manager of the all-star basketball team with which Glenn Davis went to Hawaii, flew in all the white orchids for Glenn's wedding to Terry Moore on Friday.

Carmen Miranda and Ronald Reagan are the first guests on Don McNeil's first Hollywood Breakfast Club TV show.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Postpone Fight

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11 (AP)—Ike Williams' 10-round non-title fight with Joe Miceli has been postponed to Feb. 19 at the lightweight champion's request.

I got a Fresh Start with a cash loan at HFC

"Ever get in a spot where you needed extra cash fast? I guess we all do at one time or another. Well, I needed $300 to clean up some old bills. I was plenty worried—until a friend of mine recommended Household Finance. So I phoned HFC. I got a pleasant surprise. I found I could borrow three ways—on my signature, car or furniture. And I could get as little as $20 or as much as $1000 and repay it in monthly instalments. Best of all, I didn't need endorsers or guarantors.

"And talk about service! Take my word for it, HFC is really a friendly, helpful place to do business. And HFC specializes in fast service. I got money I needed right then, without the slightest embarrassment.

"If you need money for any good purpose—do as I and thousands of others do. Get a fresh start now at HFC—Household Finance Corporation. Why not call HFC today?"

Saturday—Wheeling at Altoona.
Sunday—Beaver Falls at Cumberland; Wheeling at Erie.

Twenty-one field goals on 47 shots in the first half and sensational foul shooting that netted the locals 25 points in 28 tries, highlighted the 97 to 83 victory the Cumberland Spas scored over the Altoona Flyers last night in an All-American League game staged at SS. Peter and Paul gym before 381 cash customers.

The 93 points amassed on 36 field goals in 98 tries and the 25 singletons represented the highest score credited to the Spas in 20 games played this season by the local aggregation.

Tie 3rd Place Tommies

Making a sweep of the two-game series, which included a 64-59 decision over Bobby Artman's club Saturday night in Altoona, sent the Cumberland pros into third place in a tie with the Beaver Falls Tommies. The Spas have won nine and lost nine and are now 3½ games behind the pace-setting Wheeling Blues. Beaver Falls, which plays here next Sunday, has an 8-8 record.

In the initial period the locals, in charge of John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, pinch-hitting for Coach Bill Keegan who was attending the Dapper Dan Club banquet in Pittsburgh, connected for nine goals in 22 tries and grabbed the long end of a 24-12 count at the end of 12 minutes of play.

Outscoring the Flyers, 27-24, the home team held a 15-point advantage at intermission, 51-36. When the third quarter was concluded the Spas were out in front by 22 points —74 to 52. Altoona outpointed the locals in the final stanza, 31-23, when Mike Bytzura scored five of his twelve field goals.

Trio Gets 68 Points

Bob Pence, Lou Bell and George Geatz were the Spas' chief bombers and racked 68 of the victors' 97 markers.

Pence banged in 11 fielders and 5 for 5 at the foul line for 27 tallies. Bell had a number of sensational shots, collected nine goals and 4-4 in fouls for 22 points and Geatz with seven double-deckers and 5-7 at the charity line registered a total of 19.

Mike Bytzura scored 12 goals and 26 points to spark the Pennsylvanians. Eight of his goals were tossed in the second half.

Altoona connected for 34 goals in 102 shots and meshed 15 of 28 charity tosses.

Twenty-four personal fouls were called on Cumberland and 22 on the Spas but no players were ejected.

Make 1st 13 Fouls

The Spas meshed their first 13 free throws before Geatz missed on the 14th try. Geatz also blew the 21st shot and "Whitey" Mathewson missed the 27th. It was one of the best foul tossing exhibitions ever given in a league game here by a local club.

In the role of substitute coach, "Bobby" Cavanaugh returned to the pro cage wars after an absence of three years. The Fort Hill High mentor, whose team is undefeated in 15 games played to date, coached the Cumberland Amvets when pro basketball was revived here during the 1946-47 season.

The fans were yelling for the Spas to make 100 points in last night's game but the team fell three short of that mark. Lineups:

Andersen Takes World's Speed Skating Crown

DAVOS, Switzerland, Feb. 11 (AP)—Hjalmar Andersen, powerful 29-year-old Norwegian truck driver, skated through snow and slush today to win the world speed skating championship for the second straight year.

Andersen clinched the title by winning the 10,000 meter event after finishing second in the 1,500 meter race in the morning. The Norwegian star won the 5,000 meter grind Saturday.

Andersen finished with a point total of 200.147. Johnny D. Cronshey of England wound up second with a point total of 204.033. Lowest score determines the winner.

The Norse ace completed the 10,000 meters under difficult weather conditions in 19 minutes, 31.8 seconds. Andersen set the world record here in 1949 in this event at 16 minutes, 57.4 seconds.

LaSalle League Bowlers Hang Up Two New Marks

The high-flying Steelers of the LaSalle High Bowling League took three more games yesterday from the cellar-dwelling Bears on the Club Recreation lanes.

The leaders wrote a new league high team game, firing a 836 in the second game. Jack "Junior" Vocke topped the winners' attack with a 200 single game and 526 series total. Jerry Loibel led the losers with 145-419.

In the other tussle, the second place Redskins stayed hot on the tail of the league leaders dumping the Eagles, 3-0. Three bowlers shared the limelight, Charles "Duke" Hinea, Joe Fair, and Jack Stegmaier with respective totals of 485, 445, and 429. Incidentally, Charles Hinea placed a new third high game into the records with 198. "Big Jim" Connelly topped the Birds' offensive with 160-413. The Redskins set a new high team series total, pushing over 2,389 maples in all. The standings:

Texas Open Golf Tourney Ends In Tie

Harrison, Ford Post 265s; Playoff Today

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 11 (AP)—E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, the old Arkansas traveler, and youthful Doug Ford of Briarcliff, N. Y., romped in with a tie for first place in the $10,000 Texas Open today and will play it off tomorrow. Each had a 72-hole total of 265.

All the drama of the tournament was wrapped up in the action on the final green as the veteran and the upstart of the links trail closed out in the last threesome of the day.

Harrison got a par 3 on the eighteenth when he was off the green on his tee shot. Ford was just 10 feet away. The handsome young New Yorker then calmly stroked the ball into the cup as the crowd of 6,000 gathered around the green roared.

Harrison, who registers from St. Andrews, Ill., had a seven-under-par 64 over Brackenridge Park's 6,400-yard course. Ford, the undisputed leader at the end of the third round yesterday with 197 for 54 holes, did a 68 today.

Harrison and Ford will play 18 holes tomorrow starting at 1 p. m. with the winner taking $2,000 first money and the loser $1,400.

Jack Burke, Jr., of Houston wound up third in the tournament when he registered a 67 today to make his total 267. Fourth was Al Brosch, the red-haired veteran from Garden City, N. Y., who yesterday set an all-time PGA tournament record with a round of 60. Brosch was much cooler today—he had a one-under-par 70 for a 72-hole total of 268.

Harrison last won a tournament at Wilmington, Del., in 1950, but Ford never has taken first money. He is just now completing his first year on the golf tour. At present he is attached to no club.

Harrison won the Texas Open in 1939.

The 265 is one over the record for the Texas Open set in 1946 by Ben Hogan and equalled by Sam Snead in 1948.

When Barton High School trounced Allegany on Friday night in Barton it marked the first victory for the Braves over the Blue and White since Barton's 1926 championship team featuring the Schramms turned the trick.

Since the teams meet twice annually this would indicate that Barton lost 49 consecutive games to Allegany in 25 years.

Walter L. Bowers came to AHS in the fall of 1926 and took over the reins of the basketball team in 1927. Friday night was the first time during Bowers' career that Barton refused to give up and play dead.

"I didn't see Barton when they had the Schramm boys but I did see the Kirk Brothers on Friday night," Bowers remarked.

West Virginia University's first 11 basketball games at home this season attracted 61,200 spectators—an average attendance of 5,563 per contest.

In nine road appearances, the Mountaineers drew 43,500 for an average of 4,833.

They ask what's wrong with boxing?

How about this.

Fitzy Fitzpatrick, 170-pounder from Oak Hill, W. Va., was all washed up as a fighter several years ago. He tried a comeback the other night at Huntington, W. Va., and was stopped in the first round by a guy named Herman Harris of Asheville, N. C.

Wonder how Fitzy got by the West Virginia boxing solons? He was barred there several years ago for his own good.

Once upon a time Fitzpatrick attended the West Virginia School for the Deaf (Romney) and fought in several prelims here for Vic Ricker.

In 1945 he drew with Lee Oma. In 1947 he stopped Pat Valentino and Rusty Payne and decisioned Lee Savold. Then he started hitting the canvas. He was belted out twice by Ezzard Charles, twice by Leonard Morrow and once each by Bob Foxworth and Rusty Payne.

Fitzy started fighting nine years ago.

Quite a number of basketball fans have asked when Fort Hill and Moorefield meet in a return game.

The schools will not meet again this season as only one game was scheduled—Fort Hill winning that, the only loss in 18 games for the Yellow Jackets this season.

We believe the average of 23 points a game for 17 games credited to Carl Hartman, Ridgeley High sharpshooter, is the highest mark ever attained by a schoolboy basketeer in the tri-state district.

All the coaches we've talked to regarding Hartman seem to agree that the Blackhawk star is a top-notch ballplayer.

Ward Sullivan, lusty clouter of the Merrick A. C., who scored a KO in his only appearance in a Cumberland amateur show, is a finalist in the Washington (D.C.) Golden Gloves Tournament.

He whipped Tommy Williams before 2,500 fans at Uline Arena the other night.

Sullivan's opponent in the 147-pound title match is a tough customer — Willie Davis of the National Guard, last year's lightweight champion.

Robert V. "Sparky" Chisholm, who is attending Bill McGowan's Umpires' School, writes from Daytona Beach, Fla., that he had the pleasure of meeting Fred Merkle, New York Giants' star first sacker of yesteryear who told a number of yarns about the late John J. McGraw and the other oldtimers.

"Lefty" Grove was the best left-hander he had ever seen, Merkle told "Sparky."

Which reminds us of the one Paul Gallen tells about the ex-major league ace from Lonaconing.

It seems that someone told "Lefty" that he was the greatest pitcher in the history of the major leagues and Grove held up his hand and replied:

"Stop, I've heard that one before. You know darned well that Walter Johnson was the greatest of all pitchers!"

First Lt. Carlo Ortenzi, former Western Maryland College football and boxing star, has been reported missing in Korea since December 2.

Carlo's brother, Lt. Col. Tony Ortenzi, also an ex-Green Terror grid and ring luminary, is currently on inactive duty and is studying at the University of Southern California.

Carlo was attached to an infantry regiment of the 7th Division. His wife, a native of Virginia, is living in Japan.

Collegiate careers of the brothers were closely parallel. Tony was graduated in 1938, was a guard for three seasons and was Eastern Intercollegiate 175-pound boxing champ.

Carlo was graduated a decade later. He played tackle and guard and also was a light-heavyweight boxer.

Johnstown (Pa.) High School's Trojans need a home football game for Sept. 20, 1952.

Here's a chance for local schools to line up a good Class "A" opponent next year.

Johnstown and Allegany were keen rivals in football but they haven't met since the 1920s.

Indiana, Bradley And Villanova Cagers Jolted

Illini Tops Big Ten, Columbia Is Now 15-0

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—With Kentucky and Oklahoma A&M still riding high at the top of the college basketball heap, attention turned today toward unsettled conference races and the sad fate of three of the top 10 teams.

Indiana, the No. 3 team in last week's AP poll, was nudged out of the Big Ten Conference lead by losing to Minnesota 61-54; Bradley just about lost all chance of another Missouri Valley title when St. Louis trimmed the Braves 72-69; and Toledo surprised Villanova, a leading eastern independent, 62-57.

Bradley was the No. 5 team last week, while St. Louis was No. 8, and Villanova, No. 9. Could be this week's poll will show a few changes.

Several conference leaders, such as Kentucky in the Southeast, Columbia of the Ivy League, and North Carolina State in the Southern, are virtually "in" as champions.

Illinois Takes Lead

But the jolting handed Indiana reminds that plenty can happen before most conference races wind up in three weeks. Illinois, which beat Purdue earlier last week, hopped into first place in the Big Ten by clipping Wisconsin, 63-52. Last week, the Illini ranked No. 16 in the poll.

Illinois can strengthen its lead tomorrow night when it plays Ohio State. The Illini, with a 7-1 conference mark, play Purdue again Saturday. Indiana, now 6-1, and 13-2 for the year, meets dangerous Iowa tomorrow, and Northwestern Saturday.

Kentucky (19-1) walloped Georgia Tech in its only game of the week, and the nation's No. 1 team has an 11-0 mark in the Southeastern circuit. Kentucky meets Xavier and Tennessee this week, teams the Wildcats defeated earlier in the season.

Aggies Win 21

Oklahoma A&M, No. 2, had a rugged but successful week, turning back Kansas and Oklahoma in close ones, then taking Drake Saturday, 60-46. The Aggies (21-1) lead the Missouri Valley with a 6-0 mark, followed by St. Louis, 8-1.

This week Oklahoma A&M meets Tulsa and Detroit, while St. Louis plays Notre Dame and Wichita. Bradley, now 5-3 in the conference, plays Wichita, Ripon and Drake this week.

Kansas State, No. 4 in the poll, remains No. 1 in the big seven with a 7-0 record. Kansas State (17-2) wound up the week by defeating Missouri, 75-64, and plays only one game this week—at Oklahoma Saturday.

Columbia Is 15-0

The nation's only undefeated major team, Columbia, stretched its unblemished skein to 15-0, downing three Ivy League rivals during the week. After tripping Harvard and Dartmouth, Columbia bumped Cornell Saturday, 54-44, and has an 8-0 stranglehold on the Eastern League title. The Lions play Yale and Harvard again this week.

North Carolina State, No. 10 in the poll, strengthened its Southern Conference lead (11-1) by defeating Duke Saturday, 75-65. N. C. State, now with a 21-4 mark, plays Louisville, a non-conference team, Tuesday, and has a league affair with North Carolina Saturday.

In the Southwest Conference, Texas took sole possession of first place by defeating Rice, 77-51. The Longhorns lead (6-1) followed by Texas A&M, 6-2, and Texas Christian, 5-2. Texas plays at Texas Christian tomorrow and at Southern Methodist Friday.

Brigham Young (20-4) and ranked No. 14 last week, polished off Colorado A&M twice to make an 11-2 lead in the Skyline Six. BYU plays Utah two games at Salt Lake City Friday and Saturday, and that should settle the conference squabble.

Southern Cal Nears Title

In the Southern Division of the Pacific Coast Conference, Southern California (18-2), took a big stride toward the title by beating Stanford twice, including a 72-45 conquest Saturday. Now at 5-1 in the conference, the Trojans must hurdle California at Berkeley Friday and Saturday.

Southern California was No. 15 last week in the poll.

The up and down battle for the lead in the PCC's northern division finds Washington State ahead with a 5-3 mark, followed by Oregon and Washington, both 6-4. Washington state and Oregon split in two games last week, but the heavy action starts for WSC Tuesday. Washington State invades Oregon Tuesday and Wednesday, then plays at Oregon State Friday and Saturday. Washington is at Idaho Friday and Saturday.

Arizona, heading for the Border Conference title, beat Hardin-Simmons and Arizona State of Tempe, to run its league mark to 9-0. The No. 13 team in last week's poll, Arizona has an 18-3 season record.

Fuchs' Goal Is 60 Feet

Shot Putting Champ Says It Can Be Done

NEW YORK, Feb. 10 (AP)—Jim Fuchs, the former Yale muscle man —who can throw a 16-pound iron ball further than your wife can toss a potato, said today he believes he will reach the storied 60-foot mark in the shotput.

If his efforts in the New York Athletic Club Games last night are any criterion, Fuchs very well might do it—and in the near future. In the process of beating his own accepted indoor world record with a mighty throw of 58 feet 3½ inches, he shared the limelight with Don Gehrmann, who won the Baxter Mile in 4:08.2 beating Fred Wilt by a scant four feet.

"Personally," said Fuchs, who now is a rug salesman, "I didn't think I'd get off as good a toss as I did. I haven't been training constantly of late.

"My lack of training makes me hesitant of when I'll hit the 60 foot mark, but I feel confident that eventually I can do it."

His listed world standard is 57 feet 7¾ inches, and if he can beat that without practice, he ought to be able to throw the shot right out of Madison Square Garden if he works out on schedule.

There aren't any opponents' records left for Fuchs to break. He owns them all. His outdoor mark of 58 feet 10⅝ probably will be accepted this year . . . but what's the difference. He holds the accepted mark anyhow, 58 feet 4¾ inches.

Sugar Robinson Is 3-1 Favorite In LaMotta Bout

Middleweight Title At Stake Wednesday

CHICAGO, Feb. 11 (AP)—What a difference four years — and television—can make in the enthusiasm of a boxing fan.

One of the year's best scraps, Jake LaMotta's defense of his middleweight crown against Sugar Ray Robinson, the welterweight king, will attract a gate of approximately $150,000 at the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night. That means about 10,000 or 12,000 fans will be on hand.

On July 16, 1947, in the very same arena, Rocky Graziano knocked out Tony Zale for the middleweight crown before 18,009 fans who paid $422,009, largest indoor gate in boxing's history.

The lure of the LaMotta-Robinson tangle, pitting two world champions who ascended their respective thrones after five previous meetings, undoubtedly is as great as the Zale-Graziano ring vendetta was.

But the third man in the ring this time is television and it has knocked Chicago area fight fans into their arm-chairs by the thousands. No use climbing into the upper reaches of the stadium for five or 10 bucks when a flick of the video dial puts you at ringside.

Gets $75,000 Guarantee

LaMotta, who reportedly has a $75,000 guarantee from the television kitty arranged between a sponsoring brewing company and the International Boxing Club, thinks it's only a matter of a few years before all title fights will be held in a studio or small auditorium.

LaMotta has been a sort of triple personality in training for Robinson. LaMotta, the fighter, takes advice from LaMotta, the trainer, and fills in sports writers as LaMotta, the public relations man.

He caused a flurry of excitement at noon today when he called a press conference for his hotel quarters at 1:30 p. m. There was speculation that LaMotta was ill, or realized he could not make the required 160 pounds.

When press photographers and reporters squeezed into Jake's quarters, he relieved the tension by bluntly announcing that he would do no more training in public and might not do any more training at all. He said he was living, day by day, by the scales and didn't want to reduce too much.

Robinson yesterday was reported to be weighing 152 pounds and his Manager George Gainford said "I think he's ready now, but he has to keep boxing, maybe as late as tomorrow to keep his battle edge. He could get in the ring against LaMotta tomorrow."

Sugar Is Favorite

The vanguard of more than 200 out-of-town newspapermen began arriving today for the fight which will be both broadcast and televised beginning at 10 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, Wednesday.

Although Robinson has been rated a 3 to 1 favorite, Sugar Ray is battling the only man who ever beat him in 123 professional fights. That was in their second meeting, Feb. 5, 1943. Jake has knocked him down twice. LaMotta has never been knocked off his feet in 95 fights.

Saturday—Wheeling at Altoona.
Sunday—Beaver Falls at Cumberland; Wheeling at Erie.

Twenty-one field goals on 47 shots in the first half and sensational foul shooting that netted the locals 25 points in 28 tries, highlighted the 97 to 83 victory the Cumberland Spas scored over the Altoona Flyers last night in an All-American League game staged at SS. Peter and Paul gym before 381 cash customers.

The 93 points amassed on 36 field goals in 98 tries and the 25 singletons represented the highest score credited to the Spas in 20 games played this season by the local aggregation.

Tie 3rd Place Tommies

Making a sweep of the two-game series, which included a 64-59 decision over Bobby Artman's club Saturday night in Altoona, sent the Cumberland pros into third place in a tie with the Beaver Falls Tommies. The Spas have won nine and lost nine and are now 3½ games behind the pace-setting Wheeling Blues. Beaver Falls, which plays here next Sunday, has an 8-8 record.

In the initial period the locals, in charge of John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, pinch-hitting for Coach Bill Keegan who was attending the Dapper Dan Club banquet in Pittsburgh, connected for nine goals in 22 tries and grabbed the long end of a 24-12 count at the end of 12 minutes of play.

Outscoring the Flyers, 27-24, the home team held a 15-point advantage at intermission, 51-36. When the third quarter was concluded the Spas were out in front by 22 points —74 to 52. Altoona outpointed the locals in the final stanza, 31-23, when Mike Bytzura scored five of his twelve field goals.

Trio Gets 68 Points

Bob Pence, Lou Bell and George Geatz were the Spas' chief bombers and racked 68 of the victors' 97 markers.

Pence banged in 11 fielders and 5 for 5 at the foul line for 27 tallies. Bell had a number of sensational shots, collected nine goals and 4-4 in fouls for 22 points and Geatz with seven double-deckers and 5-7 at the charity line registered a total of 19.

Mike Bytzura scored 12 goals and 26 points to spark the Pennsylvanians. Eight of his goals were tossed in the second half.

Altoona connected for 34 goals in 102 shots and meshed 15 of 28 charity tosses.

Twenty-four personal fouls were called on Cumberland and 22 on the Spas but no players were ejected.

Make 1st 13 Fouls

The Spas meshed their first 13 free throws before Geatz missed on the 14th try. Geatz also blew the 21st shot and "Whitey" Mathewson missed the 27th. It was one of the best foul tossing exhibitions ever given in a league game here by a local club.

In the role of substitute coach, "Bobby" Cavanaugh returned to the pro cage wars after an absence of three years. The Fort Hill High mentor, whose team is undefeated in 15 games played to date, coached the Cumberland Amvets when pro basketball was revived here during the 1946-47 season.

The fans were yelling for the Spas to make 100 points in last night's game but the team fell three short of that mark. Lineups:

Andersen Takes World's Speed Skating Crown

DAVOS, Switzerland, Feb. 11 (AP)—Hjalmar Andersen, powerful 29-year-old Norwegian truck driver, skated through snow and slush today to win the world speed skating championship for the second straight year.

Andersen clinched the title by winning the 10,000 meter event after finishing second in the 1,500 meter race in the morning. The Norwegian star won the 5,000 meter grind Saturday.

Andersen finished with a point total of 200.147. Johnny D. Cronshey of England wound up second with a point total of 204.033. Lowest score determines the winner.

The Norse ace completed the 10,000 meters under difficult weather conditions in 19 minutes, 31.8 seconds. Andersen set the world record here in 1949 in this event at 16 minutes, 57.4 seconds.

Texas Open Golf Tourney Ends In Tie

Harrison, Ford Post 265s; Playoff Today

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 11 (AP)—E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, the old Arkansas traveler, and youthful Doug Ford of Briarcliff, N. Y., romped in with a tie for first place in the $10,000 Texas Open today and will play it off tomorrow. Each had a 72-hole total of 265.

All the drama of the tournament was wrapped up in the action on the final green as the veteran and the upstart of the links trail closed out in the last threesome of the day.

Harrison got a par 3 on the eighteenth when he was off the green on his tee shot. Ford was just 10 feet away. The handsome young New Yorker then calmly stroked the ball into the cup as the crowd of 6,000 gathered around the green roared.

Harrison, who registers from St. Andrews, Ill., had a seven-under-par 64 over Brackenridge Park's 6,400-yard course. Ford, the undisputed leader at the end of the third round yesterday with 197 for 54 holes, did a 68 today.

Harrison and Ford will play 18 holes tomorrow starting at 1 p. m. with the winner taking $2,000 first money and the loser $1,400.

Jack Burke, Jr., of Houston wound up third in the tournament when he registered a 67 today to make his total 267. Fourth was Al Brosch, the red-haired veteran from Garden City, N. Y., who yesterday set an all-time PGA tournament record with a round of 60. Brosch was much cooler today—he had a one-under-par 70 for a 72-hole total of 268.

Harrison last won a tournament at Wilmington, Del., in 1950, but Ford never has taken first money. He is just now completing his first year on the golf tour. At present he is attached to no club.

Harrison won the Texas Open in 1939.

The 265 is one over the record for the Texas Open set in 1946 by Ben Hogan and equalled by Sam Snead in 1948.

When Barton High School trounced Allegany on Friday night in Barton it marked the first victory for the Braves over the Blue and White since Barton's 1926 championship team featuring the Schramms turned the trick.

Since the teams meet twice annually this would indicate that Barton lost 49 consecutive games to Allegany in 25 years.

Walter L. Bowers came to AHS in the fall of 1926 and took over the reins of the basketball team in 1927. Friday night was the first time during Bowers' career that Barton refused to give up and play dead.

"I didn't see Barton when they had the Schramm boys but I did see the Kirk Brothers on Friday night," Bowers remarked.

West Virginia University's first 11 basketball games at home this season attracted 61,200 spectators—an average attendance of 5,563 per contest.

In nine road appearances, the Mountaineers drew 43,500 for an average of 4,833.

They ask what's wrong with boxing?

How about this.

Fitzy Fitzpatrick, 170-pounder from Oak Hill, W. Va., was all washed up as a fighter several years ago. He tried a comeback the other night at Huntington, W. Va., and was stopped in the first round by a guy named Herman Harris of Asheville, N. C.

Wonder how Fitzy got by the West Virginia boxing solons? He was barred there several years ago for his own good.

Once upon a time Fitzpatrick attended the West Virginia School for the Deaf (Romney) and fought in several prelims here for Vic Ricker.

In 1945 he drew with Lee Oma. In 1947 he stopped Pat Valentino and Rusty Payne and decisioned Lee Savold. Then he started hitting the canvas. He was belted out twice by Ezzard Charles, twice by Leonard Morrow and once each by Bob Foxworth and Rusty Payne.

Fitzy started fighting nine years ago.

Quite a number of basketball fans have asked when Fort Hill and Moorefield meet in a return game.

The schools will not meet again this season as only one game was scheduled—Fort Hill winning that, the only loss in 18 games for the Yellow Jackets this season.

We believe the average of 23 points a game for 17 games credited to Carl Hartman, Ridgeley High sharpshooter, is the highest mark ever attained by a schoolboy basketeer in the tristate district.

All the coaches we've talked to regarding Hartman seem to agree that the Blackhawk star is a top-notch ballplayer.

Ward Sullivan, lusty clouter of the Merrick A. C., who scored a KO in his only appearance in a Cumberland amateur show, is a finalist in the Washington (D.C.) Golden Gloves Tournament.

He whipped Tommy Williams before 2,500 fans at Uline Arena the other night.

Sullivan's opponent in the 147-pound title match is a tough customer — Willie Davis of the National Guard, last year's lightweight champion.

Robert V. "Sparky" Chisholm, who is attending Bill McGowan's Umpires' School, writes from Daytona Beach, Fla., that he had the pleasure of meeting Fred Merkle, New York Giants' star first sacker of yesteryear who told a number of yarns about the late John J. McGraw and the other oldtimers.

"Lefty" Grove was the best lefthander he had ever seen, Merkle told "Sparky."

Which reminds us of the one Paul Gallen tells about the ex-major league ace from Lonaconing.

It seems that someone told "Lefty" that he was the greatest pitcher in the history of the major leagues and Grove held up his hand and replied:

"Stop, I've heard that one before. You know darned well that Walter Johnson was the greatest of all pitchers!"

First Lt. Carlo Ortenzi, former Western Maryland College football and boxing star, has been reported missing in Korea since December 2.

Carlo's brother, Lt. Col. Tony Ortenzi, also an ex-Green Terror grid and ring luminary, is currently on inactive duty and is studying at the University of Southern California.

Carlo was attached to an infantry regiment of the 7th Division. His wife, a native of Virginia, is living in Japan.

Collegiate careers of the brothers were closely parallel. Tony was graduated in 1938, was a guard for three seasons and was Eastern Intercollegiate 175-pound boxing champ.

Carlo was graduated a decade later. He played tackle and guard and also was a light-heavyweight boxer.

Johnstown (Pa.) High School's Trojans need a home football game for Sept. 20, 1952.

Here's a chance for local schools to line up a good Class "A" opponent next year.

Johnstown and Allegany were keen rivals in football but they haven't met since the 1920s.

Illini Tops Big Ten, Columbia Is Now 15-0

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—With Kentucky and Oklahoma A&M still riding high at the top of the college basketball heap, attention turned today toward unsettled conference races and the sad fate of three of the top 10 teams.

Indiana, the No. 3 team in last week's AP poll, was nudged out of the Big Ten Conference lead by losing to Minnesota 61-54; Bradley just about lost all chance of another Missouri Valley title when St. Louis trimmed the Braves 72-69; and Toledo surprised Villanova, a leading eastern independent, 62-57.

Bradley was the No. 5 team last week, while St. Louis was No. 8, and Villanova, No. 9. Could be this week's poll will show a few changes.

Several conference leaders, such as Kentucky in the Southeast, Columbia of the Ivy League, and North Carolina State in the Southern, are virtually "in" as champions.

Illinois Takes Lead

But the jolting handed Indiana reminds that plenty can happen before most conference races wind up in three weeks. Illinois, which beat Purdue earlier last week, hopped into first place in the Big Ten by clipping Wisconsin, 63-52. Last week, the Illini ranked No. 16 in the poll.

Illinois can strengthen its lead tomorrow night when it plays Ohio State. The Illini, with a 7-1 conference mark, play Purdue again Saturday. Indiana, now 6-1, and 13-2 for the year, meets dangerous Iowa tomorrow, and Northwestern Saturday.

Kentucky (19-1) walloped Georgia Tech in its only game of the week, and the nation's No. 1 team has an 11-0 mark in the Southeastern circuit. Kentucky meets Xavier and Tennessee this week, teams the Wildcats defeated earlier in the season.

Aggies Win 21

Oklahoma A&M, No. 2, had a rugged but successful week, turning back Kansas and Oklahoma in close ones, then taking Drake Saturday, 60-46. The Aggies (21-1) lead the Missouri Valley with a 6-0 mark, followed by St. Louis, 8-1.

This week Oklahoma A&M meets Tulsa and Detroit, while St. Louis plays Notre Dame and Wichita. Bradley, now 5-3 in the conference, plays Wichita, Ripon and Drake this week.

Kansas State, No. 4 in the poll, remains No. 1 in the big seven with a 7-0 record. Kansas State (17-2) wound up the week by defeating Missouri, 75-64, and plays only one game this week—at Oklahoma Saturday.

Columbia Is 15-0

The nation's only undefeated major team, Columbia, stretched its unblemished skein to 15-0, downing three Ivy League rivals during the week. After tripping Harvard and Dartmouth, Columbia bumped Cornell Saturday, 54-44, and has an 8-0 stranglehold on the Eastern League title. The Lions play Yale and Harvard again this week.

North Carolina State, No. 10 in the poll, strengthened its Southern Conference lead (11-1) by defeating Duke Saturday, 75-65. N. C. State, now with a 21-4 mark, plays Louisville, a non-conference team, Tuesday, and has a league affair with North Carolina Saturday.

In the Southwest Conference, Texas took sole possession of first place by defeating Rice, 77-51. The Longhorns lead (6-1) followed by Texas A&M, 6-2, and Texas Christion, 5-2. Texas plays at Texas Christian tomorrow and at Southern Methodist Friday.

Brigham Young (20-4) and ranked No. 14 last week, polished off Colorado A&M twice to make an 11-2 lead in the Skyline Six. BYU plays Utah two games at Salt Lake City Friday and Saturday, and that should settle the conference squabble.

Southern Cal Nears Title

In the Southern Division of the Pacific Coast Conference, Southern California (18-2), took a big stride toward the title by beating Stanford twice, including a 72-45 conquest Saturday. Now at 5-1 in the conference, the Trojans must hurdle California at Berkeley Friday and Saturday.

Southern California was No. 15 last week in the poll.

The up and down battle for the lead in the PCC's northern division finds Washington State ahead with a 5-3 mark, followed by Oregon and Washington, both 6-4. Washington state and Oregon split in two games last week, but the heavy action starts for WSC Tuesday. Washington State invades Oregon Tuesday and Wednesday, then plays at Oregon State Friday and Saturday. Washington is at Idaho Friday and Saturday.

Arizona, heading for the Border Conference title, beat Hardin-Simmons and Arizona State of Tempe, to run its league mark to 9-0. The No. 13 team in last week's poll, Arizona has an 18-3 season record.

Fuchs' Goal Is 60 Feet

Shot Putting Champ Says It Can Be Done

NEW YORK, Feb. 10 (AP)—Jim Fuchs, the former Yale muscle man —who can throw a 16-pound iron ball further than your wife can toss a potato, said today he believes he will reach the storied 60-foot mark in the shotput.

If his efforts in the New York Athletic Club Games last night are any criterion, Fuchs very well might do it—and in the near future. In the process of beating his own accepted indoor world record with a mighty throw of 58 feet 3½ inches, he shared the limelight with Don Gehrmann, who won the Baxter Mile in 4:08.2 beating Fred Wilt by a scant four feet.

"Personally," said Fuchs, who now is a rug salesman, "I didn't think I'd get off as good a toss as I did. I haven't been training constantly of late.

"My lack of training makes me hesitant of when I'll hit the 60 foot mark, but I feel confident that eventually I can do it."

His listed world standard is 57 feet 7¾ inches, and if he can beat that without practice, he ought to be able to throw the shot right out of Madison Square Garden if he works out on schedule.

There aren't any opponents' records left for Fuchs to break. He owns them all. His outdoor mark of 58 feet 10⅝ probably will be accepted this year . . . but what's the difference. He holds the accepted mark anyhow, 58 feet 4¾ inches.

Sugar Robinson Is 3-1 Favorite In LaMotta Bout

Middleweight Title At Stake Wednesday

CHICAGO, Feb. 11 (AP)—What a difference four years — and television—can make in the enthusiasm of a boxing fan.

One of the year's best scraps, Jake LaMotta's defense of his middleweight crown against Sugar Ray Robinson, the welterweight king, will attract a gate of approximately $150,000 at the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night. That means about 10,000 or 12,000 fans will be on hand.

On July 16, 1947, in the very same arena, Rocky Graziano knocked out Tony Zale for the middleweight crown before 18,009 fans who paid $422,009, largest indoor gate in boxing's history.

The lure of the LaMotta-Robinson tangle, pitting two world champions who ascended their respective thrones after five previous meetings, undoubtedly is as great as the Zale-Graziano ring vendetta was.

But the third man in the ring this time is television and it has knocked Chicago area fight fans into their arm-chairs by the thousands. No use climbing into the upper reaches of the stadium for five or 10 bucks when a flick of the video dial puts you at ringside.

Gets $75,000 Guarantee

LaMotta, who reportedly has a $75,000 guarantee from the television kitty arranged between a sponsoring brewing company and the International Boxing Club, thinks it's only a matter of a few years before all title fights will be held in a studio or small auditorium.

LaMotta has been a sort of triple personality in training for Robinson. LaMotta, the fighter, takes advice from LaMotta, the trainer, and fills in sports writers as LaMotta, the public relations man.

He caused a flurry of excitement at noon today when he called a press conference for his hotel quarters at 1:30 p. m. There was speculation that LaMotta was ill, or realized he could not make the required 160 pounds.

When press photographers and reporters squeezed into Jake's quarters, he relieved the tension by bluntly announcing that he would do no more training in public and might not do any more training at all. He said he was living, day by day, by the scales and didn't want to reduce too much.

Robinson yesterday was reported to be weighing 152 pounds and his Manager George Gainford said "I think he's ready now, but he has to keep boxing, maybe as late as tomorrow to keep his battle edge. He could get in the ring against LaMotta tomorrow."

Sugar Is Favorite

The vanguard of more than 200 out-of-town newspapermen began arriving today for the fight which will be both broadcast and televised beginning at 10 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, Wednesday.

Although Robinson has been rated a 3 to 1 favorite, Sugar Ray is battling the only man who ever beat him in 123 professional fights. That was in their second meeting, Feb. 5, 1943. Jake has knocked him down twice. LaMotta has never been knocked off his feet in 95 fights.

GOOD ENOUGH FOR ME—
BUT NOT FOR YOU, SON!

"If I were still driving, I'd carry a lot more Auto Insurance now than I did. Why, just the other day I read that the average damage award from a recent group of lawsuits resulting from auto accidents topped $28,000 apiece! Your generation is a lot more 'claim-conscious' than mine ever was.

"Take a tip, son; get your agent to increase your Hartford Automobile Insurance before another day passes — it's the sensible thing to do."

In Memoriam

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear husband and father, Charles I. Seggie, Midlothian, Md., who passed away one year ago today, Feb. 12, 1950.

When evening shadows fall
And we're sitting all alone
In our hearts there comes a longing
If you only could come home.
Often and often our thoughts do wander
To your grave so far away
Where we laid you dearest father
One year ago today.

Sadly missed by Wife, Sisters, Children and Grandchildren

In Memoriam

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear husband and father, Charles I. Seggie, Midlothian, Md., who passed away one year ago today, Feb. 12, 1950.

When evening shadows fall
And we're sitting all alone
In our hearts there comes a longing
If you only could come home.
Often and often our thoughts do wander
To your grave so far away
Where we laid you dearest father
One year ago today.

Sadly missed by Wife, Sisters, Children and Grandchildren

False Alarms Plague Road Officials

J. Walker Chapman, supervisor of the County Roads Department, informed the Allegany County Board of Commissioners Saturday that erroneous reports of school busses being stalled on icy roads has created a problem for his department.

Three more volunteer fire companies submitted reports to the board on expenditures during the period between September, 1948 and October, 1950.

The Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company listed its expenditures at $12,059.18 during the period. This included heavy outlays for a new building and fire truck as well as maintenance and other costs.

The Ellerslie Volunteer Fire Company report showed expenditures for each of the years during the period. During 1948 the cost was $2,040.09; in 1949 expenditures were $2,409.65 while in 1950 they were $1,156.84.

Chapel Hill Hose Company No. 6, this city, which is not an active group such as the other companies, listed expenses at $606.59 for the three year period. The fire company building is used for meetings of various groups.

Employers Must Report SS Taxes

James S. Getty, manager of the Cumberland office of the Social Security Administration, said that amendments to the act require employers to withhold taxes and report wages of all employes without regard to age.

Getty pointed out today that the original act provided that employers did not have to continue to report workers after they reached age 65. Now, however, the law has been amended and employers are required to report all employes regardless of age.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Television In Crisis

WHAT WILL the draft and the re-armament program do to the $3,000,000,000 television industry — its programs, its TV set sales, its growth as measured by new stations and increased audience and its present audience of roughly 35,000,000?

John Crosby

In the first place—the manufacture of sets. TV sets are studded with critical materials, specifically cobalt, copper and nickel. The Korean War had barely begun before the engineers had devised substitutes for the metals they knew would be in short supply. Today, most manufacturers are using 90 per cent less cobalt and about 40 per cent less of all critical materials in set manufacture. Production has dipped very little so far, but will probably dip sharply the last half of this year. Good guess as to this year's production: about half of last year's record 7,500,000 sets.

• — • — •

In the last war, production of radio sets was stopped entirely by the government. The industry believes that there won't be any government stoppage of TV set manufacture in the foreseeable future because there wouldn't be much sense to it. The re-armament program will need the electronics industry as badly as it did in the last war, but right now government orders are not nearly large enough to keep the plants busy. As a matter of fact, there will probably be some unemployment in the industry by early summer because of lack of materials.

Demands for sets is still so high that, if production stopped tomorrow (which it won't), the dealers would be pretty well stripped of sets overnight. High demand and short supply spells black market in any language. But there probably aren't many dealers storing away sets for future under-the-counter sale. Television sets cost a lot of money and, with present credit restrictions, the dealers can't afford to keep a lot of sets on the shelf (or in the basement) for any length of time. But sets, especially the big-name sets, are going to be hard to get.

• — • — •

As for new TV stations, their construction was halted a long time ago by the FCC freeze, which hasn't anything to do with the war. If the freeze were lifted tomorrow, a prospective station-builder would run into terrible material shortages. The National Production Authority has not banned the building of new TV stations, but the station-owner would have to locate his own scarce materials. Transmitters are almost solidly constructed of critical metals. The big manufacturers of transmitting equipment (RCA, General Electric, Du Mont) have about twenty-five complete transmitters tucked away in storehouses. Most of them are already spoken for—if and when the FCC lifts the freeze. There may not be many more built.

Programs: Advertisers had a moment of panic and slashed ad budgets sharply. The panic has ended and the advertisers are pouring as much—and a little more—money into television programming as ever. They'll continue to do so, even if they have no products to sell, as they did in the last war. The amount of money they spend on programs will be determined exactly by the proportion of excess profits they are allowed to spend on advertising. In general, though, the sponsor is making out his budget on a quarterly, rather than an annual basis; he doesn't want to contract for a whole year of Perry Como for fear the government will suddenly tell him how much or how little he can spend on advertising.

Television is a young man's game; its production and technical staffs are stuffed with draft-eligible youngsters, many of them with skills which the Army, Navy and Air Force badly need. All the networks expect to be hit badly by draft or reserve-officer calls by March or April. One network may lose 60 per cent of its TV directors and assistant directors to the services. Technical manpower is already a problem, with production heads scouring the town for good engineering staffs.

• — • — •

While radio was allowed to boom in the last war as a morale factor, television is a rather different proposition. The ratio of manpower between radio and TV is about one to six. "Stop The Music," for example, requires the services of forty men, exclusive of talent. A baseball game needs about eleven technicians, a director and assistant director, and two or three announcers. If manpower gets tight, how long will the government permit these huge production staffs—even if the networks can find them?

The broadcaster hopes that television will be officially encouraged by Washington not only as a morale factor but also as a national asset in a period of emergency. Even in the last war, when TV was still an experiment, television was used in New York police stations to train air raid wardens. With 10,000,000 sets in American homes, it could be invaluable as a training device.

Production standards may suffer not only from inexperienced technicians but also from material shortages. Replacements for camera tubes are already terribly hard to get; the film supply for kinescope is very tight, and film may disappear from the market soon unless the government allocates a certain amount to TV as it did to the movies in the last war.

That's the situation as it looks today. It could change tomorrow.

4 Selectees Get 'Reprieve' From Military Duty

Four Cumberlanders scheduled to leave February 19 for induction into the Army at Martinsburg, W. Va., have been granted "reprieves" due to changes in Selective Service regulations.

P. Emmett Fahey, clerk coordinator of draft boards here, said the quartet will be replaced by three volunteers and a registrant in the 120-day physical examination category.

Under new orders, Fahey explained, men who have already been examined or assume they will be called soon, can volunteer for immediate duty and be placed on top of the eligible draftee list.

Volunteers filled in for three of the men slated to depart this week.

The fourth replacement is William H. Hiner, Jr., son of Mrs. Estella E. Hiner, 502 Bedford Street. More than 120 days ago he received his pre-induction physical, and under old SS regulations he had to be re-examined before receiving notice to report for induction.

Granted temporary "reprieves" were Richard William Schupfer, 708 Columbia Avenue; Cloyd Raymond True, 703 North Mechanic Street; Ronald Lawrence Sheally, Route 3, Valley Road, and Ray Eugene DeHaven, 644 Columbia Avenue, all of Board No. 28.

Frostburg Board No. 30 will send 15 men to Martinsburg today for induction. Leaving Queen City Station here at 5:55 a. m. will be:

Joseph E. Hunt and James J. Murray, Midland; Melvin L. Bobo and Don C. Bateson, Westernport; James W. Witt, Jr., and James Uhl, Mt. Savage; John L. Stark and John A. Pratt, Eckhart; Julius J. Budries, Nikep; Austin R. Scheermesser, Luke; Richard E. Festerman, John L. Sullivan, John H. Preston, Robert L. Harden and John G. Barry, all of Frostburg.

Fifteen other registrants of the same board will accompany the group for physical examinations.

Civil Defense Officers Needed

More applicants for the posts of civil defense officers are needed here immediately, Arthur B. Gibson, city civil defense director, said yesterday.

Gibson said the number of applications received to date has been far below those needed to fill the various capacities on the zone defense system.

Both women and men may apply, he said, adding that several clubs and groups have offered their services. However, the director said he would appreciate individual applications rather than as a group since the program here will be set up on that basis. The latest club offer came from the Arbee Club of Rosenbaums, Eleanor Rice, president.

Applications are available at the four fire stations and should be mailed to Gibson at the City Hall.

Three Judges Named In 'First Lady' Contest

The Cumberland City Council of Beta Sigma Phi has named three judges who will supervise the city's "First Lady of 1950" contest. This year 12 nominees will appear on the ballot, and approximately 100 organizations have been invited to express their preference.

The three judges are Paul M. Fletcher, state's attorney; J. William Hunt, editor of the Sunday Times, and Robert Little Ebert, of the S. T. Little Jewelry Company.

Ballots will be mailed early this week to the fraternal orders, luncheon clubs and other organizations that are invited to participate in the balloting. Deadline for returns is March 17.

The Cumberlander selected as "1950 First Lady" will be honored at a dinner late in March, arrangements for which are under the direction of Miss Margaret Lester. William A. Gunter has accepted an invitation to be the principal speaker at the affair.

Chairman Named In Woman's Division Of Red Cross Drive

Appointment of Mrs. Charles F. Helmrich as chairman of the Woman's Division of the 1951 Allegany County Red Cross Chapter Campaign has been announced by William C. Walsh, general campaign chairman.

Mrs. Helmrich, who resides with her husband on LeFevre Road in Cumberland, has been active in Red Cross work in Allegany county since the beginning of World War II, serving principally as a staff assistant in the local chapter's offices in the Post Office Building.

Mrs. Helmrich announced that she would name a co-chairman of her group within a few days in order that work may begin immediately on the job of organizing the Woman's Division. This division will start its active solicitation when the general Red Cross campaign gets underway on Monday, March 5, with a total campaign goal of $26,796.

In her capacity as staff assistant, Mrs. Helmrich has been responsible for interviewing service men and their families who turn to the Red Cross for assistance in time of need.

Red Cross workers are concentrating on national defense in line with the present campaign slogan of "Mobilize for Defense," there has been no lessening of their continued efforts to help war veterans and their families.

"For today's more than 19,000,000 living veterans, hundreds of thousands of whom are disabled to some degree," Mrs. Helmrich said, "the Red Cross has a three-point program which includes: (1) Home Service workers in 3,788 chapters to provide counseling; (2) A staff of over 200 field directors stationed in some 80 Veterans Administration offices to assist chapters in processing claims; and (3) women field directors and Volunteer Service workers located in approximately 140 Veterans Administration hospital to coordinate the efforts of thousands of trained volunteer workers. Allegany County is participating in all these services and deriving benefits from them. It behooves all women of the county who are asked to serve on this campaign to volunteer their services without question in our annual campaign of mercy."

False Alarms Plague Road Officials

J. Walker Chapman, supervisor of the County Roads Department, informed the Allegany County Board of Commissioners Saturday that erroneous reports of school busses being stalled on icy roads has created a problem for his department.

Three more volunteer fire companies submitted reports to the board on expenditures during the period between September, 1948 and October, 1950.

The Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company listed its expenditures at $12,059.18 during the period. This included heavy outlays for a new building and fire truck as well as maintenance and other costs.

The Ellerslie Volunteer Fire Company report showed expenditures for each of the years during the period. During 1948 the cost was $2,040.09; in 1949 expenditures were $2,409.65 while in 1950 they were $1,156.84.

Chapel Hill Hose Company No. 6, this city, which is not an active group such as the other companies, listed expenses at $606.59 for the three year period. The fire company building is used for meetings of various groups.

Employers Must Report SS Taxes

James S. Getty, manager of the Cumberland office of the Social Security Administration, said that amendments to the act require employers to withhold taxes and report wages of all employes without regard to age.

Getty pointed out today that the original act provided that employers did not have to continue to report workers after they reached age 65. Now, however, the law has been amended and employers are required to report all employes regardless of age.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Television In Crisis

WHAT WILL the draft and the re-armament program do to the $3,000,000,000 television industry — its programs, its TV set sales, its growth as measured by new stations and increased audience and its present audience of roughly 35,000,000?

In the first place—the manufacture of sets. TV sets are studded with critical materials, specifically cobalt, copper and nickel. The Korean War had barely begun before the engineers had devised substitutes for the metals they knew would be in short supply. Today, most manufacturers are using 90 per cent less cobalt and about 40 per cent less of all critical materials in set manufacture. Production has dipped very little so far, but will probably dip sharply the last half of this year. Good guess as to this year's production: about half of last year's record 7,500,000 sets.

In the last war, production of radio sets was stopped entirely by the government. The industry believes that there won't be any government stoppage of TV set manufacture in the foreseeable future because there wouldn't be much sense to it. The re-armament program will need the electronics industry as badly as it did in the last war, but right now government orders are not nearly large enough to keep the plants busy. As a matter of fact, there will probably be some unemployment in the industry by early summer because of lack of materials.

Demands for sets is still so high that, if production stopped tomorrow (which it won't), the dealers would be pretty well stripped of sets overnight. High demand and short supply spells black market in any language. But there probably aren't many dealers storing away sets for future under-the-counter sale. Television sets cost a lot of money and, with present credit restrictions, the dealers can't afford to keep a lot of sets on the shelf (or in the basement) for any length of time. But sets, especially the big-name sets, are going to be hard to get.

As for new TV stations, their construction was halted a long time ago by the FCC freeze, which hasn't anything to do with the war. If the freeze were lifted tomorrow, a prospective station-builder would run into terrible material shortages. The National Production Authority has not banned the building of new TV stations, but the station-owner would have to locate his own scarce materials. Transmitters are almost solidly constructed of critical metals. The big manufacturers of transmitting equipment (RCA, General Electric, Du Mont) have about twenty-five complete transmitters tucked away in storehouses. Most of them are already spoken for—if and when the FCC lifts the freeze. There may not be many more built.

Programs: Advertisers had a moment of panic and slashed ad budgets sharply. The panic has ended and the advertisers are pouring as much—and a little more—money into television programming as ever. They'll continue to do so, even if they have no products to sell, as they did in the last war. The amount of money they spend on programs will be determined exactly by the proportion of excess profits they are allowed to spend on advertising. In general, though, the sponsor is making out his budget on a quarterly, rather than an annual basis; he doesn't want to contract for a whole year of Perry Como for fear the government will suddenly tell him how much or how little he can spend on advertising.

Television is a young man's game; its production and technical staffs are stuffed with draft-eligible youngsters, many of them with skills which the Army, Navy and Air Force badly need. All the networks expect to be hit badly by draft or reserve-officer calls by March or April. One network may lose 60 per cent of its TV directors and assistant directors to the services. Technical manpower is already a problem, with production heads scouring the town for good engineering staffs.

While radio was allowed to boom in the last war as a morale factor, television is a rather different proposition. The ratio of manpower between radio and TV is about one to six. "Stop The Music," for example, requires the services of forty men, exclusive of talent. A baseball game needs about eleven technicians, a director and assistant director, and two or three announcers. If manpower gets tight, how long will the government permit these huge production staffs—even if the networks can find them?

The broadcaster hopes that television will be officially encouraged by Washington not only as a morale factor but also as a national asset in a period of emergency. Even in the last war, when TV was still an experiment, television was used in New York police stations to train air raid wardens. With 10,000,000 sets in American homes, it could be invaluable as a training device.

Production standards may suffer not only from inexperienced technicians but also from material shortages. Replacements for camera tubes are already terribly hard to get; the film supply for kinescope is very tight, and film may disappear from the market soon unless the government allocates a certain amount to TV as it did to the movies in the last war.

That's the situation as it looks today. It could change tomorrow.

4 Selectees Get 'Reprieve' From Military Duty

Four Cumberlanders scheduled to leave February 19 for induction into the Army at Martinsburg, W. Va., have been granted "reprieves" due to changes in Selective Service regulations.

P. Emmett Fahey, clerk coordinator of draft boards here, said the quartet will be replaced by three volunteers and a registrant in the 120-day physical examination category.

Under new orders, Fahey explained, men who have already been examined or assume they will be called soon, can volunteer for immediate duty and be placed on top of the eligible draftee list.

Volunteers filled in for three of the men slated to depart this week. The fourth replacement is William H. Hiner, Jr., son of Mrs. Estella E. Hiner, 502 Bedford Street. More than 120 days ago he received his pre-induction physical, and under old SS regulations he had to be re-examined before receiving notice to report for induction.

Granted temporary "reprieves" were Richard William Schupfer, 708 Columbia Avenue; Cloyd Raymond True, 703 North Mechanic Street; Ronald Lawrence Shealy, Route 3, Valley Road, and Ray Eugene DeHaven, 644 Columbia Avenue, all of Board No. 28.

Frostburg Board No. 30 will send 15 men to Martinsburg today for induction. Leaving Queen City Station here at 5:55 a. m. will be: Joseph E. Hunt and James J. Murray, Midland; Melvin L. Bobo and Don C. Bateson, Westernport; James W. Witt, Jr., and James Uhl, Mt. Savage; John L. Stark and John A. Pratt, Eckhart; Julius J. Budries, Nikep; Austin R. Scheermesser, Luke; Richard E. Festerman, John L. Sullivan, John H. Preston, Robert L. Harden and John G. Barry, all of Frostburg.

Fifteen other registrants of the same board will accompany the group for physical examinations.

Civil Defense Officers Needed

More applicants for the posts of civil defense officers are needed here immediately, Arthur B. Gibson, city civil defense director, said yesterday.

Gibson said the number of applications received to date has been far below those needed to fill the various capacities on the zone defense system.

Both women and men may apply, he said, adding that several clubs and groups have offered their services. However, the director said he would appreciate individual applications rather than as a group since the program here will be set up on that basis. The latest club offer came from the Arbee Club of Rosenbaums, Eleanor Rice, president.

Applications are available at the four fire stations and should be mailed to Gibson at the City Hall.

Three Judges Named In 'First Lady' Contest

The Cumberland City Council of Beta Sigma Phi has named three judges who will supervise the city's "First Lady of 1950" contest. This year 12 nominees will appear on the ballot, and approximately 100 organizations have been invited to express their preference.

The three judges are Paul M. Fletcher, state's attorney; J. William Hunt, editor of the Sunday Times, and Robert Little Ebert, of the S. T. Little Jewelry Company.

Ballots will be mailed early this week to the fraternal orders, luncheon clubs and other organizations that are invited to participate in the balloting. Deadline for returns is March 17.

The Cumberlander selected as "1950 First Lady" will be honored at a dinner late in March, arrangements for which are under the direction of Miss Margaret Lester. William A. Gunter has accepted an invitation to be the principal speaker at the affair.

Chairman Named In Woman's Division Of Red Cross Drive

Appointment of Mrs. Charles F. Helmrich as chairman of the Woman's Division of the 1951 Allegany County Red Cross Chapter Campaign has been announced by William C. Walsh, general campaign chairman.

Mrs. Helmrich, who resides with her husband on LeFevre Road in Cumberland, has been active in Red Cross work in Allegany county since the beginning of World War II, serving principally as a staff assistant in the local chapter's offices in the Post Office Building.

Mrs. Helmrich announced that she would name a co-chairman of her group within a few days in order that work may begin immediately on the job of organizing the Woman's Division. This division will start its active solicitation when the general Red Cross campaign gets underway on Monday, March 5, with a total campaign goal of $26,796.

In her capacity as staff assistant, Mrs. Helmrich has been responsible for interviewing service men and their families who turn to the Red Cross for assistance in time of need.

Red Cross workers are concentrating on national defense in line with the present campaign slogan of "Mobilize for Defense," there has been no lessening of their continued efforts to help war veterans and their families.

"For today's more than 19,000,000 living veterans, hundreds of thousands of whom are disabled to some degree," Mrs. Helmrich said, "the Red Cross has a three-point program which includes: (1) Home Service workers in 3,788 chapters to provide counseling; (2) A staff of over 200 field directors stationed in some 80 Veterans Administration offices to assist chapters in processing claims; and (3) women field directors and Volunteer Service workers located in approximately 140 Veterans Administration hospital to coordinate the efforts of thousands of trained volunteer workers. Allegany County is participating in all these services and deriving benefits from them. It behooves all women of the county who are asked to serve on this campaign to volunteer their services without question in our annual campaign of mercy."

Comics Delayed

The News regrets that it is unable to give its readers the regular complement of comics today.

Most of the comics for this week have been delayed in transit because of the switchmen's strike and efforts to obtain them have not yet borne fruit.

The regular News comics will be resumed just as soon as possible. We hope you will bear with us in the meantime.

$12,000 Damage Caused By Fire In Piedmont

Four Area Companies Respond To Blaze

Damages estimated at up to $12,000 resulted when fire started yesterday at 2:45 a. m. in the cellar of the Hanna Apartments, 56 Ashfield Street, Piedmont, W. Va.

Flames quickly spread through the structure and gutted the interior of the three story frame building owned by Stanley E. Hanna, Keyser.

Four volunteer fire companies fought the stubborn blaze for several hours in near zero weather before bringing the flames under control.

The Tri-Towns Fire Company was assisted by companies from Westernport, Luke and Bloomington.

Flames Spread Quickly

The fire was discovered shortly before 3 o'clock by Mrs. Arthur Hott, a tenant of the second floor, who notified the rest of the occupants in the apartments. The bedroom and pantry furnishings in the Hott apartment were damaged extensively by fire and water.

Flames spread from the basement up through the partitions. Heaviest damage was on the third floor, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Johnson and sons, Montgomery and Ronnie. They were forced to flee dressed only in night clothes. All their belongings and furnishings were badly damaged.

The apartment of Mrs. Katherine Kight, on the first floor, was damaged by water. She is visiting the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lininger, Norfolk, Va.

The beauty shop on the first floor operated by Miss Rita Welsh was damaged by water but she was able to get most of her equipment to safety.

The apartment of Mrs. Michael J. Fahey and daughters, Marie and Marguerite, also was damaged by water. Ironically, the Faheys had most of their belongings packed and had anticipated moving in the near future.

Fire Chief Is Hurt

Fire Chief Vernon Hamilton, of the Tri-Towns Fire Company, who suffered a sprained left leg while directing the fire fighting, said the fire began in the roof of the basement. Investigation indicated the fire was caused by defective wiring in the cellar, officials said.

The Johnston family is temporarily residing with Mrs. Thomas Dailey, Main Street, Westernport; Mr. and Mrs. Hott are staying with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mellor, Ashfield Street, Piedmont; Mrs. Fahey and daughters are at the home of the former's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Fahey, Church Street, Westernport.

The building, the former home of Dr. and Mrs. Z. T. Kalbaugh, was purchased from the estate of Mrs. Katherine Kalbaugh about four four years ago and converted into an apartment house. Hanna said that the structure was covered by insurance but was unable to say just how much of the tenants belongings were protected.

Hanna plans to restore the building to its former condition as soon as possible.

Dangers Of Raw Milk Cited By Health Dept.

The Cumberland Health Department has received a directive from the Public Health Service emphasizing the dangers of drinking unpasteurized milk.

Dr. Leonard A. Scheele, surgeon general, pointed out two approved home pasteurization methods to provide safeguards against disease in the directive.

"Too many communities in the United States drink raw milk regularly despite its recognized threat to health," Dr. Scheele said.

The two methods of pasteurization are boiling in a pan while stirring constantly, then cool by placing pan in cold water while still stirring and boiling in a pan placed in hot water for 10 minutes.

Today's Sermonette

Then was Jesus led up of the spirit unto the wilderness.
Matthew 4:1

By REV. H. MAUNSELL RICHARDSON

Today's sermonette is a digest of the Communion meditation preached at the early service yesterday at Emmanuel Episcopal Church by the rector, Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

LED UP of the spirit into the wilderness ... How often does this type of experience happen to us? How often do we find ourselves surrounded, encompassed about with all of the grasping elements of life gone "wild"? At some time or other, even in the midst of complete civilization, we all have experienced the sudden shock of changed conditions which seemingly have made that which surrounds us a "wilderness." Perhaps this experience has been the death of a loved one, perhaps it has been a personal problem suddenly magnified out of all true proportion, perhaps it has been part of our living which has gone wrong, these or other things do happen to human beings and make of our cultured, civilized world an abyss best called a "wilderness."

Rev. Richardson

Most of us do not believe that these are the deliberate actions of God engineered for our testing, but we do know that they do, or can, happen to us personally. We know that the serenity of our lives can be shattered and that we shall find ourselves in a veritable wilderness. How shall we cope with it? How shall we act then?

Lent is a time set aside for the express purpose of giving us an opportunity to prepare ourselves for the emergencies of life. Lent is a time for throwing out our anchors and catching hold of the depths of life that we might have resources at our command which will hold us steadfast, come what may. Lent is a time when we allow the spirit of God to drive us in a wilderness of grappling devoutly and deliberately with the basic matters of life and death, with faith and its implications for this life and the life to come.

Practically every phase of Christendom recognizes the value of Lent, of a definite period when Christian people withdraw from all else for a conscious self-discipline for a higher cause. Yet, it is all too true that this is not popularly received.

Witness the events of last Wednesday evening, the first day of Lent: While a large number of churches were having their services recalling Christian people to the basic principles which they profess, there was also going on in Cumberland a Boy Scout pageant, a meeting of a women's civic organization, a high school basketball game, a big "dress rehearsal" night for a school play, and at least one meeting of county or city officials. All of this in so-called "Christian" Cumberland.

Some time ago, the U.S.S. Missouri ran aground on the mud flats of the Chesapeake. It was a great scandal and people shook their heads in dismay at such carelessness and laxity in our Navy. The Missouri was stuck on false depths, and was in danger of irreparable damage.

Any community, any people which cannot find time during Lent for searching out the true depths of life runs aground just as surely and just as expensively in human terms as did the Missouri.

Railroad Freight Traffic Shows Big Boost Here

A heavy increase in freight traffic through here was reported over the weekend on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad by Chester F. Williams, Cumberland Division superintendent, with the virtual end of the switchmen's "sick call" strike.

"There was almost a continuous flow of freight traffic through Cumberland Saturday and Sunday," Williams stated. "We expect it to continue for another two or three days until conditions get back to normal." Most of the freight was east-bound and was coming from Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati, where it had been tied up by the work stoppage.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the Western Maryland Railroad here said that freight operations returned to normal over the weekend. Although no Western Maryland switchmen were involved in the work stoppage, there was a considerable drop in freight handled from connecting railroads.

Dr. Pullen Urges $500 Pay Raises For Teachers

Construction And Libraries In Plan

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 11 (AP) — Across-the-board $500 pay raises for school teachers, bigger subsidies for school construction and more state aid for county library systems are part of a program proposed by Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of schools.

The cost was set at approximately $45,000,000, of which nearly $10,000,000 would recur annually in the budget.

Dr. Pullen presented the program to Gov. McKeldin yesterday with the accompanying statement that school construction is urgently required because of expanding enrollment. The $500 yearly raises for teachers are needed, he said, to head off what could become an exodus of teachers of "enormous proportions" to better-paying jobs.

A 15-year $35,000,000 bond issue for school construction is the major item of the program. It would provide outright grants to county and city school construction funds at the rate of $100 per pupil.

Also proposed is an increase from the present $10 per pupil to $15 as the maximum on the incentive fund for school construction. Dr. Pullen estimated the cost to the state would be about $1,775,000 annually.

The Department of Education figured the proposed teachers' pay raises would add up to $7,300,000 a year. In addition, the state would be required to contribute $668,000 more into the retirement fund.

A total of $800,000 annually now and $913,000 a year eventually would be expended under the proposed library program which calls for an added subsidy of 40 cents per person in each area of a county-wide library system.

The school construction is urgent, Dr. Pullen said. He pointed out that enrollment had increased 44,030 from 1945 to 1950 and that within the next seven years the increase is expected to be 115,679 more.

County Farmers Should Plan For Future Need

O'Neal Gives Advice Concerning Pasture

"In planning crops to meet defense needs this year, Allegany county farmers should remember that the needs for the future may be just as great as for this year," Albert O'Neal, chairman of the County Production and Marketing Administration Committee, said yesterday.

Every farmer should do his utmost to produce needed crops, but increases in cultivated crops should be made where they will not impair future production, O'Neal asserted.

"Good productive pasture should not be plowed up to obtain increases of other crops when the other crops will not contribute more to defense than the production which comes from the pasture."

As O'Neal sees it, the formula is simple:

"Keep up the fertility of the land. Conserve all possible moisture. Use grass and legumes to restore and maintain the organic matter in the soil."

O'Neal also called attention to the fact that the 1951 Agricultural Conservation Program is particularly emphasizing the use of grasses and legumes to protect the soil for continued abundance. To this end, assistance is provided for seeding grasses and legumes and for practices which assure good stands and good growth. Where lime or phosphate is needed before the farmer can obtain a good stand of clover or alfalfa, the program provides for sharing the cost of materials.

The program is available to all farmers this year, not only to help produce what is needed for defense but also to keep the land in condition for continued production. The County PMA office, where information about 1951 practices can be obtained, is located at 37 Washington Street.

Revision In CWA By-Laws Will Be Discussed Here

Communication Local Will Meet Tonight

Important changes in the by-laws and structure of the local organization will be discussed tonight at 8 o'clock at a meeting of Cumberland Area, Western Maryland Local Division 34 Communications Workers of America (CIO), at Textile Hall, according to an announcement by Robert O. Slemmer, president.

Highlighting the meeting will be the reading of proposed by-laws for the "two-level" structure which will become effective April 2, under which Division 34 will be dissolved and become Local 2105, CWA-CIO.

Slemmer will give a complete report on grievances that have been placed before the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company. A discussion will follow.

Presentation of the charter for the new organization will be deferred until later.

The recent membership and dues structure drive has resulted in 98 per cent of all workers in the Cumberland area being signed up, according to Slemmer. He said negotiations are at a standstill with the telephone company concerning wage adjustments requested last October.

At a recent meeting of the Local's executive committee in Hagerstown, Slemmer was elected delegate to the international convention in Grand Rapids, Mich., April 2. Victor J. Crist, Jr., and E. P. Robertson both of Hagerstown, were elected alternate delegates.

Slemmer and Crist were also chosen delegates to the Maryland State Convention in Baltimore, February 24.

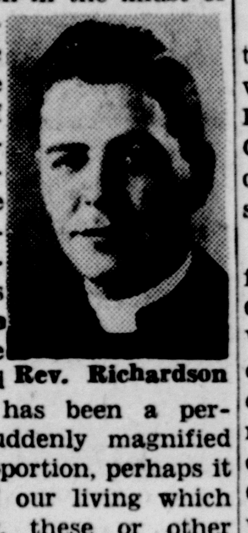
Today's Sermonette

Then was Jesus led up of the spirit unto the wilderness.
Matthew 4:1

By REV. H. MAUNSELL RICHARDSON

Today's sermonette is a digest of the Communion meditation preached at the early service yesterday at Emmanuel Episcopal Church by the rector, Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

LED UP of the spirit into the wilderness ... How often does this type of experience happen to us? How often do we find ourselves surrounded, encompassed about with all of the grasping elements of life gone "wild"? At some time or other, even in the midst of complete civilization, we all have experienced the sudden shock of changed conditions which seemingly have made that which surrounds us a "wilderness." Perhaps this experience has been the death of a loved one, perhaps it has been a personal problem suddenly magnified out of all true proportion, perhaps it has been part of our living which has gone wrong, these or other things do happen to human beings and make of our cultured, civilized world an abyss best called a "wilderness."



Rev. Richardson

Most of us do not believe that these are the deliberate actions of God engineered for our testing, but we do know that they do, or can, happen to us personally. We know that the serenity of our lives can be shattered and that we shall find ourselves in a veritable wilderness. How shall we cope with it? How shall we act then?

Lent is a time set aside for the express purpose of giving us an opportunity to prepare ourselves for the emergencies of life. Lent is a time for throwing out our anchors and catching hold of the depths of life that we might have resources at our command which will hold us steadfast, come what may. Lent is a time when we allow the spirit of God to drive us in a wilderness of grappling devoutly and deliberately with the basic matters of life and death, with faith and its implications for this life and the life to come.

Practically every phase of Christendom recognizes the value of Lent, of a definite period when Christian people withdraw from all else for a conscious self-discipline for a higher cause. Yet, it is all too true that this is not popularly received.

Witness the events of last Wednesday evening, the first day of Lent: While a large number of churches were having their services recalling Christian people to the basic principles which they profess, there was also going on in Cumberland a Boy Scout pageant, a meeting of a women's civic organization, a high school basketball game, a big "dress rehearsal" night for a school play, and at least one meeting of county or city officials. All of this in so-called "Christian" Cumberland.

Some time ago, the U.S.S. Missouri ran aground on the mud flats of the Chesapeake. It was a great scandal and people shook their heads in dismay at such carelessness and laxity in our Navy. The Missouri was stuck on false depths, and was in danger of irreparable damage.

Any community, any people which cannot find time during Lent for searching out the true depths of life runs aground just as surely and just as expensively in human terms as did the Missouri.

Railroad Freight Traffic Shows Big Boost Here

A heavy increase in freight traffic through here was reported over the weekend on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad by Chester F. Williams, Cumberland Division superintendent, with the virtual end of the switchmen's "sick call" strike.

"There was almost a continuous flow of freight traffic through Cumberland Saturday and Sunday," Williams stated. "We expect it to continue for another two or three days until conditions get back to normal." Most of the freight was east-bound and was coming from Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati, where it had been tied up by the work stoppage.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the Western Maryland Railroad here said that freight operations returned to normal over the weekend. Although no Western Maryland switchmen were involved in the work stoppage, there was a considerable drop in freight handled from connecting railroads.

Dr. Pullen Urges $500 Pay Raises For Teachers

Construction And Libraries In Plan

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 11 (AP) — Across-the-board $500 pay raises for school teachers, bigger subsidies for school construction and more state aid for county library systems are part of a program proposed by Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of schools.

The cost was set at approximately $45,000,000, of which nearly $10,000,000 would recur annually in the budget.

Dr. Pullen presented the program to Gov. McKeldin yesterday with the accompanying statement that school construction is urgently required because of expanding enrollment. The $500 yearly raises for teachers are needed, he said, to head off what could become an exodus of teachers of "enormous proportions" to better-paying jobs.

A 15-year $35,000,000 bond issue for school construction is the major item of the program. It would provide outright grants to county and city school construction funds at the rate of $100 per pupil.

Also proposed is an increase from the present $10 per pupil to $15 as the maximum on the incentive fund for school construction. Dr. Pullen estimated the cost to the state would be about $1,775,000 annually.

The Department of Education figured the proposed teachers' pay raises would add up to $7,300,000 a year. In addition, the state would be required to contribute $668,000 more into the retirement fund.

A total of $800,000 annually now and $913,000 a year eventually would be expended under the proposed library program which calls for an added subsidy of 40 cents per person in each area of a county-wide library system.

The school construction is urgent, Dr. Pullen said. He pointed out that enrollment had increased 44,030 from 1945 to 1950 and that within the next seven years the increase is expected to be 115,679 more.

County Farmers Should Plan For Future Need

O'Neal Gives Advice Concerning Pasture

"In planning crops to meet defense needs this year, Allegany county farmers should remember that the needs for the future may be just as great as for this year," Albert O'Neal, chairman of the County Production and Marketing Administration Committee, said yesterday.

Every farmer should do his utmost to produce needed crops, but increases in cultivated crops should be made where they will not impair future production, O'Neal asserted.

"Good productive pasture should not be plowed up to obtain increases of other crops when the other crops will not contribute more to defense than the production which comes from the pasture."

As O'Neal sees it, the formula is simple:

"Keep up the fertility of the land. Conserve all possible moisture. Use grass and legumes to restore and maintain the organic matter in the soil."

O'Neal also called attention to the fact that the 1951 Agricultural Conservation Program is particularly emphasizing the use of grasses and legumes to protect the soil for continued abundance. To this end, assistance is provided for seeding grasses and legumes and for practices which assure good stands and good growth. Where lime or phosphate is needed before the farmer can obtain a good stand of clover or alfalfa, the program provides for sharing the cost of materials.

The program is available to all farmers this year, not only to help produce what is needed for defense but also to keep the land in condition for continued production. The County PMA office, where information about 1951 practices can be obtained, is located at 37 Washington Street.

U. N. TROOPS CROSS PARALLEL 38

Dewey, Disagreeing With Taft, Hoover, Assails Isolationism, Idea Of "Fortress America"

"Folly" To Think U. S. Can Be Defended By Air-Sea Without Large Ground Force

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Thomas E. Dewey struck sharply tonight against isolationism and the idea of a "fortress America."

It is "the utmost of folly" to think this country can be defended by air and sea power without large ground forces, he said.

The New York Governor, twice candidate for president on the Republican ticket, expressed a viewpoint differing widely from the stands taken in recent weeks by former President Herbert Hoover and by Republican Sen. Taft of Ohio.

Taft said earlier in the day that he may propose limiting American troops for Europe's defenses to a fixed percentage of the nation's ground strength. He has challenged President Truman's right to put any American soldiers into the new Western European army without Congress' consent.

Appears On TV Show

Hoover put forward the idea of a "Western Hemisphere Gibraltar" in a speech last December. In likening America to a "Western Hemisphere Gibraltar of western civilization," Hoover noted that he did not mean withdrawing inside this country or this hemisphere alone. Instead he said we could hold the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, that our western frontier should be on Britain if she cooperated, and our eastern frontier in Japan, Formosa and the Philippines.

Last Friday night Hoover spoke out again, saying the United States should put stress on air and naval strength and munitions — not on land armies.

Dewey didn't mention either Hoover or Taft in his remarks, made in answer to questions on the NBC "Meet The Press" television show.

But he said:

"Anyone who thinks that you can defend the United States or any substantial portion of the world with any two out of the three branches of military service is ignoring every lesson of both modern and ancient history."

Cites Korean Conflict

"I thought that everybody had learned that in Korea," he said. "We had absolute undisputed command of the air, and yet we nearly got driven off of Korea."

He said he thought troops should be sent to Europe if European nations raise "many more" than we send.

"I'm sure they will," he added.

Dewey said the question of where American troops should be sent is "a job for experts" and should not be for Congress to decide.

And "isolationist" utterances, he asserted, are "a great aid to Stalin."

"Any good isolationist speech made by anybody," Dewey said, "enlarges the area of those in Europe who say 'we have been run over twice, our cities decimated, our children murdered; let's be neutral and let America and Russia fight it out.'"

Western Germans Plan Anti-Moscow Communist Party

RATINGEN, Germany, Feb. 11 (AP) — An anti-Moscow Communist Party will be founded in Western Germany next Easter, it was announced here today.

Josef Schappe, who until 1949 was chief editor of Freies Volk, main newspaper of the West German Communist Party, said the new political group will be called the Independent Workers' Party (UAP). Schappe said UAP will demand socialization of all German industries, free speech and free press but will reject "Soviet bureaucracy and American imperialism, which both are not in the interest of German workers."

Tax Hike Before July 1 Unlikely, Rep. Kean Says

Predicts Adoption Of One-Bill Approach

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Rep. Kean of New Jersey, a ranking Republican tax writer, declared today there is hardly a chance of any new federal tax increase before July 1.

Certainly, he told reporters, there is no possibility of a retroactive increase against individual income taxpayers unless a bill is perfected in the next few weeks. That seems out of the question, he added.

GOP Favors Single Bill

Kean is one of the senior Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee which just wound up its first week of hearings on the administration's two-package 1951 revenue plan.

President Truman and Treasury Secretary Snyder have called for an extra $10,000,000,000 in taxes as soon as possible, to be followed by another bill later in the year. The latter would bring in an additional $6,500,000,000, or whatever it takes to finish financing the administration's $71,600,000,000 spending program for the new fiscal year which begins July 1.

Kean said, however, there seems to be overwhelming sentiment among the Republicans for gathering all the extra taxes needed in a single bill. He said this feeling is shared by a sizable number of Democrats. He predicted that the single-package approach will be adopted.

Tax Take "Underestimated"

Neither is Kean convinced it will take $16,500,000,000 additional revenue to put the immense preparedness program on a pay-as-we-go basis.

He said the Treasury consistently has underestimated the probable tax take in recent years. He believes it has done so again in estimating a $3,000,000,000 deficit in mid-1951. He said that by April 1 Congress should have a better picture of probable revenue.

In addition, Kean said it is likely the appropriations asked by Mr. Truman can be trimmed by several billion dollars.

"Frozen Woman" Feels "Fairly Well"

CHICAGO, Feb. 11 (AP) — Mrs. Dorothy Mae Stevens, the "frozen woman" said today "I'm feeling fairly well."

The 23-year-old negro woman was found literally frozen stiff in a south side alley three days ago. Exposure in the sub-zero cold had thickened her blood to a sludge.

Her temperature when she reached Michael Reese Hospital was 64 degrees—34.6 degrees below normal. The American Medical Association said it had no record of a human surviving with a body temperature lower than 75 degrees.

Mrs. Stevens rested well today, taking a high-caloric liquid diet through a tube inserted in her throat.

M'Arthur Reportedly Wants More Troops

TOKYO, Feb. 11 (INS)—Informed sources in Tokyo told International News Service today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur wants all the American troops he can get to reinforce the U. S. Eighth Army in Korea.

There is also a strong unofficial feeling among American observers in Tokyo that it would be wiser to dispatch troops to Asia where fighting now is raging, rather than to Europe where a defensible position is not expected to be attained for two years.

Reds Accuse Norway

Iran's Shah Will Wed 19-Year-Old Beauty Today

Egyptian King Marks Engagement, Birthday

TEHRAN, Iran, Feb. 11 (AP)—The Shah of Iran marries the beautiful granddaughter of a once-rebellious Persian tribal chieftain tomorrow in a ceremony only faintly reminiscent of the glitter and pomp of former Persian royal weddings.

The 32-year-old king of kings, Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, will be wed in a Moslem ceremony to 19-year-old Soraya Esfandiari, whom he met at a party in Paris two years ago.

It is the second marriage for the handsome Shah. His first marriage to Princess Fawzia, sister of Egypt's King Farouk, was dissolved by decree in 1948. By coincidence, King Farouk, whose own marriage was dissolved at the same time, became engaged yesterday to 17-year-old Narriman Sadek.

The serious-minded Shah, deeply concerned with international war fears and social unrest and poverty in Iran, has ordered a comparatively austere wedding. He decreed that the traditional week-long celebration usually following such palace fetes be cut to one day—the day of the wedding. And he has requested that his subjects give money to a special fund he has set up for charity rather than the usual lavish presents to him.

But there will be some glittering presents from heads of friendly nations. And the ceremony in the marble palace, though simple, will be attended by bejeweled and bedecked royalty, including the fabulously wealthy leader of the Ismaili sect of Moslems, the Aga Khan.

Farouk Engaged To Commoner

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 11 (AP)—The engagement of beautiful, 17-year-old Narriman Sadek to King Farouk and the King's 31st birthday were celebrated tonight at a brilliant reception for the King, the royal family and the cream of Cairo society.

The party at the Sadek family villa in suburban Heliopolis was attended by Prince Mohammed Aly, the King's 75-year-old cousin and heir presumptive to the throne; the Princesses Fawzia, Faiza and Faika, the King's sisters; other members of the royal family, Prime Minister Mustafa El Nahas Pasha, and palace officials.

News of the King's engagement to a commoner was released by the palace officially last night, when the foreign press was permitted to send it abroad. Egyptians learned of it from their newspapers this morning.

Gains Force U.S. Strategy Reassessment

Aimed At Early End Of War If Possible

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Enemy weakness in Korea the last few days has forced a reassessment of the American strategy aimed at an early end of the fighting, if possible.

Just within the past two weeks high officials expecting relatively stiff resistance in the approach to the 38th parallel had determined that the line should not be crossed. They took account of the possible cost in United Nations lives and the political advantages which might be gained by remaining on South Korean territory.

ROK Crossing Discounted

The swift pace of the U. N. advance, however, and the need for keeping contact with the enemy has now confronted policy makers with the question whether it may not be advantageous to drive on into North Korea.

From Korea tonight came word that South Korean troops had crossed the 38th parallel on the east coast where enemy opposition has been relatively light or non-existent. Officials here described this as a purely local action of no political significance, independent of the main course of the fighting in the central and western sectors.

The question of pushing on into North Korea as seen here is concerned not with such local action as that on the east coast but with the mass of United Nations troops in Central and Western Korea.

With respect to these forces, the situation is developing so rapidly that a final decision on how far they should go probably will not be made until the exact military and political conditions existing when main U. N. forces get much closer to the 38th parallel are known.

Two Basic Purposes

According to responsible informants the decision then will be reached in the light of two basic purposes:

1. To gain a settlement of the Korean conflict consistent with the United Nation's objective of defeating the Red aggression. That might or might not include prompt arrangements for the unification of all Korea. Some thought has been given by authorities here to the possibility of an agreement which initially would divide the country.

2. To get American forces out of Korea as soon as that can be done without in any way yielding to or encouraging aggression. Obviously that would be possible only after a cease fire and evidence that the Communist assault would not be renewed.

3 Children Die While On Picnic

AMARILLO, Tex., Feb. 11 (AP) — Robert Henry Patten said today three children he took on a picnic in rugged Palo Duro Canyon got sick and died while his car was stuck overnight in a stream bed.

His wife, Eula, 22, became seriously ill. Patten said the picnic food—scrambled eggs and calf brains—made him sick, too.

Justice of the Peace B. F. Manchen of Canyon ordered an autopsy after Patten was questioned by officers.

The dead were Robert Wesley Patten, 3; John Wesley Patten, four months, and Katherine King, 15, Mrs. Patten's sister.

Patten, 34, of Amarillo, said all but the dead baby and another son ate the scrambled eggs and calf brains. He said the baby died after having only bottled milk and prune juice. Another child, Jerry Allen Patten, 18 months, ate only a cookie and did not become ill.

Undertaker Horace Griggs and a doctor who examined the bodies said they were cherry-red in color, indicating possible carbon monoxide poisoning.

Officers said this angle would be checked closely at the autopsy—especially because Patten's car has one window missing and another partly missing. Patten said he didn't run the engine or heater for more than a half hour during the night the family spent in the canyon.

Greek Sect, Protesting Ban, Continues Its Hunger Strike

ATHENS, Greece, Feb. 11 (AP) — Seventy sobbing men and women, clustered in a tiny church, began the second day of a hunger strike today, protesting what they call government persecution of their religious sect.

They vowed to starve themselves to death unless the state lifts its ban of the Julian Calendar (old style calendar) religious group. Dogma of the sect, claiming 1,000,000 adherents in Greece, is identical to that of the official Greek Orthodox Church except that the Julianists observe religious holidays 13 days later.

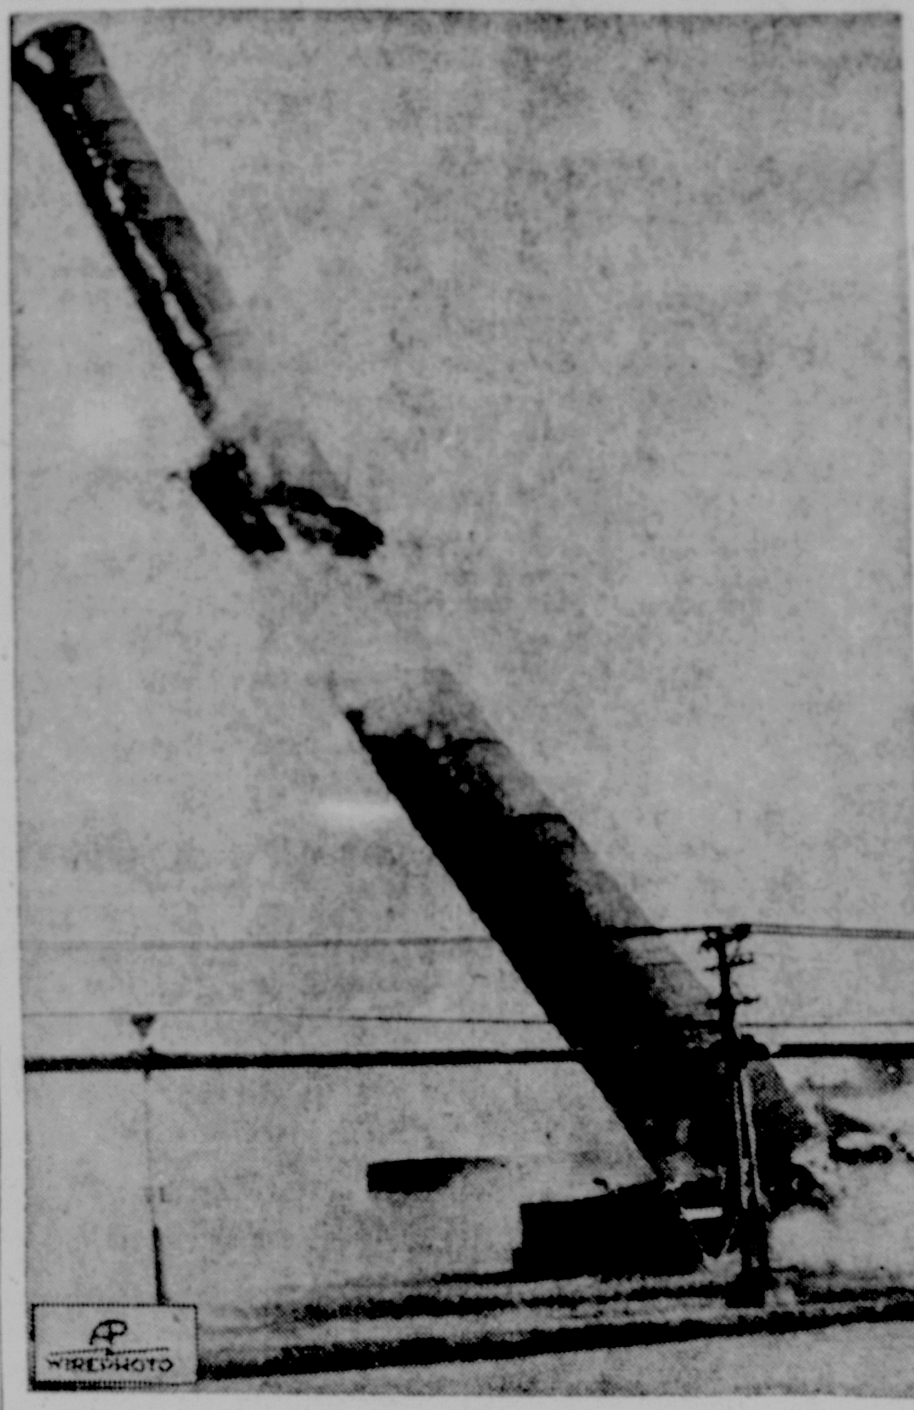
More than 15 priests and monks of the sect already have been imprisoned, and police are searching for 82-year-old Archbishop Chrysostomos Kavourides and three bishops in hiding, the Rev. Stavros Karamitsos, general secretary of the group, reported. Karamitsos emphatically denied that his sect has any connection with the Kreatea Monastery, whose eladers in Greece face charges ranging from homicide and kidnaping to forgery and torture.

The hunger strike started yesterday afternoon in St. Paul's Church in a poor section of Athens. Over its entrance hung a foot-square black cloth bearing the gilt slogan: "Liberty orthodoxy or death. We want our priests and bishops."

11 Of 22 Escaped Ala. Convicts Recaptured

ATMORE, Ala., Feb. 11 (AP)—Eleven of 22 escaped convicts were captured today only a few miles from the state prison farm from which they fled.

The group, all white, broke out of the prison early yesterday by kicking planks from a temporary barracks and making their way through a locked tunnel under the prison fence.



Landmark Comes Down

A brick chimney topples and cracks in the middle as it is blasted at the old Pure Oil Company plant at Marcus Hook, Pa. The 200-foot stack, erected in 1926, was destroyed to make room for expansion of the Sun Oil Company, which recently purchased the property.

Hundreds Flee Floods In Wash.; Governor Acts

Langlie Proclaims State Of Emergency

SEATTLE, Feb. 11 (AP) — Gov. Arthur B. Langlie proclaimed a state of emergency in Western Washington flood areas today to facilitate cooperative action between federal and state authorities.

The Governor's action came shortly after hundreds fled their homes as the rampant Skagit River punched new holes in dikes near its mouth, bringing the number of flood refugees in Northwest Washington and British Columbia to more than 2,000.

Langlie said that his proclamation merely placed the state in a position to call in federal troops for assistance in the event state resources—the State Patrol and National Guard—become exhausted.

He described his action as "proscribed procedure as the pattern for flood relief had been set up for some time."

Seven hundred persons—the entire population of Conway, 50 miles north of Seattle—were evacuated after a levee break sent dirty, angry water from the rain-choked Skagit coursing hip-deep through the town.

At nearby Stanwood and East Stanwood the riotous Stillaguamish River seeped through dikes and swirled into outskirts of the two communities. Women and children in threatened homes were taken to safety.

In British Columbia, more than 500 persons were made homeless in the Fraser River valley where tributaries were on the rampage. Another 500 were forced to flee from the lower sections of Princeton, B.C., at the junction of the swollen Tulameen and Similkameen Rivers 185 miles east of Vancouver.

Earlier in the three-day floods the 300 residents of Hamilton, on the upper reaches of the Skagit, had been evacuated as water rose to a depth of five feet in all parts of the lowland community.

Scores of other refugees were counted in scattered farm regions of the valleys flooded by half a dozen turbulent Western Washington rivers.

16 Persons Injured In Texas Train Wreck

ROSENBERG, Tex., Feb. 11 (AP)—Sixteen persons, including 15 passengers, suffered minor injuries early today when a streamliner crashed into the caboose of a freight train.

The eastbound number 2 section of the Southern Pacific's Sunset Limited hit the freight train less than a mile west of this Southeast Texas town about 7:41 a. m.

The freight's caboose wah chopped into kindling wood by the two Diesel engines of the Sunset Limited, both of which plunged from the track.

All 13 passenger cars of the luxury train remained on the tracks.

KINGSTEIGNTON, Eng., Feb. 11 (AP)—Barber Ivor Fawcett has grown weary of nearly bald customers complaining about paying as much for haircuts as youths with heavy shocks of hair.

From tomorrow on, his customers will have the option of paying the usual flat rate or a special rate of one and a half cents a minute.

Jobs-For-GI-Jane Survey Planned

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP) — A close survey will be made soon to see how many combat-qualified men can be moved out into the U. S. field forces by giving their jobs to GI Janes, Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) said today.

The Senator told a reporter that will be the next business of his armed Services subcommittee. That group, by a 7-1 vote, has just passed along to the full committee a broad program for building up the fighting forces, including a draft of 18-year-olds. He indicated he expects the full committee to approve that bill, with its provision for universal military service and training (UMST) Tuesday.

"Just as soon as we get this 18-year-old draft out of the way the Preparedness subcommittee will launch a spot check of all air bases, Army posts and Navy and Marine establishments to see how many women can handle military assignments now held by able-bodied combat men," Johnson said.

Couple On Stranded Oil Barge Rescued

BALTIMORE, Feb. 11. (AP) — A Coast Guard cutter tonight rammed through ice and rescued a man and his wife aboard an oil barge in the Chester River.

The cutter Narcissus had the barge in tow, and the barge master, Carlton R. Lane and his wife, were reported safe. The Federalsburg pair had been isolated since Friday.

Youth Confesses He Started Mich. Fire "To Avoid Draft"

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 11 (AP)—A 19-year-old father took full blame today for the $4,000,000 fire that left the upper floors of the huge state office building here a soggy ruin.

Richard C. Shay, a State Highway Department employe, said he touched a match to a map during the lunch hour Thursday on a wild impulse that he could start a "little fire" and escape being drafted.

Calmly he told newsmen of his bizarre reasoning after he had signed a statement confessing the fire. Prosecutor Paul C. Younger said a formal charge of arson will be delayed until Tuesday because tomorrow is a legal holiday.

Questioned by newsmen, the tousle-haired former Eagle Scout was remorseful because he may have disgraced the Boy Scout organization. He said he had been active in the Scouts here and in Cleveland, O., where his father formerly worked.

The prospects of being drafted and leaving his seven-months-old daughter, Christine Ann, and his pretty wife, Roberta, 18, were too much for him, the youth said.

Shay said he was appalled when the fire got out of control because he thought the building fire-proof.

The youth said he understood the Army would not induct any one on probation and he figured being placed on probation for starting a "small fire." He said he was a former Navy reservist but he didn't count on that or the fact he has a wife and a baby to exempt him from the draft.

Two Meat Unions Accept Pay Boost Of 9 Cents An Hour

CHICAGO, Feb. 11. (AP)—Representatives of two big packinghouse unions today approved a wage increase of nine cents an hour expected to set a pattern for 225,000 workers in the industry.

One of the unions, the CIO Packinghouse Workers, voted its leadership "full power and authority to take strike action" if the boost is not approved by the Wage Stabilization Board.

The other, the AFL meatcutters, did not take such action.

The boost affects three of the big four packing companies—Swift, Armour and Cudahy. The fourth, Wilson, was not included.

"The fight now is with the Wage Stabilization Board," declared a spokesman for the CIO union.

He said the union would take its case before the WSB in Washington Monday or Tuesday.

Pa. Town Water Supply Vanishes Due To Ice Jam

Columbia's Burgess Declares Emergency

COLUMBIA, Pa., Feb. 11 (AP) — Their water supply choked to the vanishing point by a massive ice jam, the 12,000 residents of this Susquehanna River town were forced to emergency measures today to find water.

There were few baths for Columbians, few shaves and few were fortunate enough to secure sufficient water to boil coffee.

It was likely that the condition might last indefinitely. The river was frozen solid for eight miles, shore to shore, from Marietta to Washington Boro. Columbia is midway between those two river points.

Emergency Is Declared

The jammed-up ice put the Columbia water works out of commission. Only a trickle got through to residents. Burgess Walter Roye declared a state of emergency, described conditions as "dire."

Most of the help today came in a shuttle service truck service from Lancaster, 12 miles to the west.

Water came into Columbia in tank trucks, normally used to carry 35,000 gallons of milk. Residents brought milk cans to collect water and took it home.

Greatest Fear Is Fire

There wasn't enough to go around that way. And other Columbians went into the farm country nearby to get whatever water they could from springs and wells.

A further emergency measure is scheduled to be put into operation by tomorrow night. This will consist of tapping the water supply of Marietta, four miles to the north.

Whatever water can be secured by Columbians must be boiled under an edict by Burgess Roye, whose greatest fear is fire. He said that "we'd be wiped out by a fire."

Pianist Serkin Given Tractor As Present

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11 (AP) — Pianist Rudolf Serkin, who doubles as a Yankee farmer, rode off the stage at the staid old Academy of Music on a tractor last night to the ringing cheers of thousands of concert-goers.

The tractor was given Serkin, who operates a farm in Vermont in addition to playing on the concert stage and instructing at the Curtis Institute of Music, by the Philadelphia Orchestra Association.

It was presented in thanks for Serkin's services. The pianist had offered to play without pay at the benefit concert by the orchestra last night.

ROKs Occupy Town 5 Miles North Of Line

Red Attacks Force Other Allies Back

TOKYO, Monday, Feb. 12 (AP)—United Nations troops on Korea's east coast marched north across the 38th parallel yesterday and today were operating five miles or more beyond that old dividing line.

In the mountainous Central Korea sector, Communists mounted strong attacks and there were some withdrawals by Republican Korean troops.

In the west, Allied artillery and aircraft again pounded Communist-held Seoul, where small U. N. ground parties ran into stiff defenses.

An Eighth Army communique said Republic of Korea (ROK) forces met only light resistance Sunday as they crossed the one-time boundary between Communist North and Republican South Korea and advanced to the town of Yangyang. Yangyang is five miles north of the parallel.

It was the first time north of the parallel for the United Nations forces since they withdrew southward in the face of the Chinese Communist offensive last month. The South Koreans have been moving up the east coastal road behind bombardments laid down by U. N. warships.

In the mountainous center of the peninsula a strong Red attack forced three U. N. columns back as much as three miles last night and early today.

.. Major Counterblow Possible ..

The Red attack struck north of Hoengsong in the central front area where a Communist buildup has been reported. Chinese have been spotted moving into this area from the western front where Allied forces have massed against the Han River near Seoul.

U. S. Tenth Corps officers said the Communists hit in strong, localized attacks but Associated Press Correspondent John Randolph pointed to the possibility of a major Red counterblow developing.

It was in this sector that the Reds struck last December in a drive that for a time threatened to split the U. N. defense line across the peninsula.

On the western front Allied artillery continued to pound burned and battered Seoul for the third straight day. U. N. troops were against the Han River on the southeast, south, southwest, west and northwest of the old South Korean capital.

But Allied patrols which had penetrated the city were driven back across the Han. Others tried to cross the river but couldn't make it.

Withering Fire Hits Allies

Red self-propelled guns and mortars poured a withering fire on Allied troops testing the defenses of the old South Korean capital.

While the U. S. Eighth Army announced Chinese and North Korean resistance "appeared to have vanished" south and west of Seoul, the Reds apparently did not intend to yield Seoul without a struggle.

At the same time, Chinese Red forces made a general sideslip to the northeast. Their resistance stiffened along the eastern end of the western front and farther east on the central front in mountainous interior Korea.

Associated Press War Correspondent Stan Swinton, in a two-hour flight over Seoul in a light artillery spotter plane Sunday afternoon, reported the battered capital was a "hornets' nest of Communist entrenchments, men and guns."

He said the city was studded with machine-guns, self-propelled guns and antiaircraft batteries.

Trenches twisted for hundreds of yards around clay hills immediately north of the Han River. Foxholes dotted the face of South Mountain inside the city.

Two Suits Against Flynn Dismissed

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11 (AP)—Two paternity suits filed against Actor Errol Flynn more than seven years ago have finally been dismissed for lack of prosecution.

Both suits were filed in 1943 and contained almost identical demands that Flynn pay $1,750 a month for the support of a daughter born to 19-year-old Shirley Evans on Nov. 13, 1940. She is now Mrs. Shirley Evans Hassau, wife of an orchestra leader.

Illegal Trade Reported

BERLIN, Feb. 11 (AP)—A number of West German firms using middlemen in the Allied sectors of Berlin are smuggling quantities of steel, iron, and non-ferrous metals into the Soviet zone, a West Berlin newspaper said today.

The Berliner Stadtblatt cited four West Berlin firms it said served as relay points in the illegal trade.

Local Man Wins First Prize In Art Exhibit

"Winter Scene Along Wills Creek," an oil painting by John M. Hershhiser, 312 Fayette Street, won first prize in the 1951 Tri-State Art Exhibit at Cumberland Free Public Library.

Clyde H. Roberts, art instructor at Hagerstown High School and Junior College, was the one-man jury for the contest, sponsored by the Allegany County Branch, American Association of University Women.

The art exhibition will be open to the public starting today at 7 p.m. and will be open daily during library hours until March 16. The judging was done Saturday.

A close contender for first prize, and awarded second place in the show, is "Storm on Little Savage," an oil by John Carter Shyrock, Frostburg.

A water color by William R. Sanson, Bedford Road, "Autumn Nakedness," won third prize; and Mrs. Ruth Feero's oil, "Vinal Haven," won fourth place. She lives on Hillcrest Drive.

J. Suter Jammer, Cumberland native and a vice president of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, won first prize in the sculpture exhibit for his copper entry, "Piper Fantasy." Mr. Jammer took up painting and sculptoring as a hobby less than two years ago. His sister, Miss Mary I. Jammer, resides at 230 Columbia Street.

Second award in sculptoring went to Mrs. Robert Matlick, 533 Patterson Avenue, for a ceramic figure, "Dreamer," and an honorable mention to Mrs. Herbert Nesbitt, 581 Arnett Terrace, for "Ming Tree and Chinese Figure" (ceramics).

Honorable mentions in painting were given to T. Victor Fier's "Pennsylvania Dutch Farm," a water color, and to Mrs. Dorothy R. Bradsher's oil, "Enchantment." Mrs. Bradsher resides in Westernport.

There are 87 entries in this year's art exhibit, practically all of the works being by native or present residents of Allegany County. Mrs. W. A. Van Newkirk, Frostburg, chairman of the AAUW fine arts department, is in charge of the exhibition.

Let your tape measure tell you the truth about your figure! Here are the beauty standards for comparison.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

DO YOU KNOW the ideal measurements for your figure? They're even more important than your weight. You may be delighted with the figure registered by your scale, yet be mighty unhappy with the one reflected in your mirror. But when your measurements are perfect, your figure and weight are apt to be, too.

There's another reason for wanting to know your ideal measurements. You may be laboring under the impression that your hips are too large, when actually what is wrong with your figure is a too-small waist or bust. In that case, you might undertake the wrong corrections for your figure. Many a woman has. So don't let your eye trick you; check your measurements against those of the ideal figure for your height. Then you'll know just where your figure is out of proportion.

Ideal Measurements

Here are the measurement tables used by the Powers Girls, and if your figure matches them, you've a figure to be proud of. To get a true answer, you must be very careful how you take your measurements. Hold the tape neither tight nor slack; place it around the widest part of each area you measure; subtract one inch from the guide measurement, if you have a small frame, or add one if your frame is larger than average.

If you are a short woman, 5'0"—5'3", your standard proportions are bust, 32"—33"; waist, 22"—23"; hips, 32"—33"; thigh, 18½"; calf, 12½"; ankle, 7½."

For the medium-tall woman of 5'4"—5'6"; bust, 34"—35"; waist, 24"—25"; hips, 34"—35"; thigh, 19"; calf, 13"; ankle, 8."

For those over 5'6"; bust, 35"—37"; waist, 25"—27"; hips, 35"—37"; thigh, 19½"; calf, 13½"; ankle, 8½."

Specialized Help

If you like what your own tape measure tells you, read no farther. But if not, watch for the spot corrective exercises that this column will be featuring from time to time. You'll find the answers that will help you bring your figure to the proportions of beauty. To save yourself pain of following those not intended for you, keep a copy of "Your Ideal Measurements" (to get your copy, see box below) alongside your tape.

There's still time between now and the purchase of the slim new fashions of the season ahead to remodel your figure to perfection!

Tomorrow: More figure wisdom.

Appeal Case Is Lost By Miner

Associate Judge George Henderson has upheld a ruling of the State Industrial Accident Commission in denying compensation to a former miner afflicted by silicosis.

The appeal case of Edward F. Harvey, claimant, against the Davis Coal and Coke Company, the employer, was removed to this Circuit Court from Garrett County.

The accident board found that Harvey had contracted silicosis while working for the Davis Coal and Coke Company.

Judge Henderson's opinion said:

"He (Harvey) first learned that he had silicosis in November, 1947, but he gave the company no notice of this. Nearly a year before that time he had been transferred from the mines to the position of constable and he continued as such until he became totally disabled in June, 1949.

"He then filed his claim with the State Industrial Accident Commission, and the first notice the employer had of his silicosis was a notice from the commission dated August 2, 1949.

"Both parties asked the commission to review these findings; the claimant because the company knew in November, 1947, that the claimant had silicosis; the employer, because the claimant had not filed his claim within one year of the beginning of the disability."

"The commission did not consider the claimant's protest, (Probably because there was no evidence to sustain it,) but disallowed the claim because the claimant failed to file his claim within one year from the time that he had knowledge of his having silicosis.

"It would seem the commission was right in deciding the claim must be disallowed, but wrong in basing it on the failure to file his claim within a year."

Judge Henderson pointed out that the Workmen's Compensation Act does not require the claim to be filed within one year of his knowledge of having the disease.

However, Judge Henderson did say that the claimant did not comply with the provision of the act that says that written notice of any occupational disease must be given by the employe or someone in his behalf within ten days after "the first distinct manifestation thereof."

The judge pointed out that the claimant in his testimony before the commission said he knew that he had the disease, but did not inform the company because "I didn't think it was fair to make any claim for compensation" because he was working at the time he first knew it and was making $150 as a constable for the company.

Edward J. Ryan, attorney, represented Harvey.

Parole Violator Is Sentenced

A Westernport area man pleaded guilty to a charge of violating his probation by drinking and was ordered Saturday in Circuit Court to serve a year's sentence in the House of Correction.

Earl E. Bishop, of Route 1, Westernport, was sentenced on June 12 to serve a year in the House of Correction after being convicted on a charge of burglary.

The sentence was suspended for a period of two years on condition that he refrain from drinking and keep good behavior.

The petition for the hearing filed by State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher states that on December 30 Bishop was arrested on a charge of drunken driving.

January 6 he was convicted by Magistrate John Laughlin at Westernport and sentenced to 40 days in the County Jail.

Associate Judge George Henderson presided at the hearing today.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)

HISTORY HAS no parallel of the magnitude and significance of America's work in the field of atomic energy.

For the first time in the annals of this or any other country we are building the sinews of war and of peace not only simultaneously but by utilizing the same materials. If an atomic war comes, we're more than ready. But, if there is peace, the stuff intended for the A-bombs and the backlog of research in that matter will bring about an era of prosperity unknown even in this country.

If the nations of the world ever reach a true accord, our billions of dollars worth of A-bombs will not have to be dropped into a deep part of the ocean—as were the vast fortunes in poison gas and obselete or damaged warships in the past. And there will be no boneyards and junkpiles made mountainous, previously, by unwanted planes, tanks, shell casings, etc., etc., etc.

The kernels of the A-bombs will be put to work instantly in power plants for commercial shipping, will replace coal and oil in the generators of remote cities and developments, will perhaps heat your house, help cure your medical ills. Because the vastest giant of them all, the bomb, can be harnessed as easily as he is trained and girded to wreak destruction.

The more we concentrate on building increasingly appalling A-bombs (and judging from that last blast in Nevada the boys are coming up with some really hot jobs) the closer we come to providing for the people, in time of peace, untold services of a scientific nature.

The Scientist or nuclear physicist who read in his paper that the light from the last Nevada bomb was seen in Oakland, Cal., and its earth-shudder changed a seven to a crap-out on a dice table in Las Vegas, thinks neither of war nor the frailties of gambling.

He thinks, "If it raised this much hell, well, that means we've found a way to hold the stuff together long enough for more than one tenth of one per cent of it to explode. Now, when we burn it slowly in, say, a peaceful power-plant, it'll be more efficient. . last longer. . . make the fruit of that power-plant cheaper to buy."

Never heard a physicist talk precisely that way, but it sums up their composite thinking. Some of them, like Klaus Fuchs, let's say, should be taken out and shot. But by and large they are a devoted and loyal bunch, generally conscious of their dual role in the amazing world of uranium-235 and plutonium and whatever else goes into the nugget whose manufacture has changed the course of mankind's thinking.

They agree by and large with T. Keith Glennan of the Atomic Energy Commission. Glennan was asked recently about the enormous amount of time and money and manpower we are putting into work in atomic energy. A fellow wanted to know what the taxpayer was getting out of all of this.

Glennan said, "Perhaps the answer most to the point is that given by Winston Churchill in the House of Commons. In speaking of the atomic bomb, he said: 'It is only the vast superiority of the United States in this awful weapon that gives us any chance of survival.' "

The taxpayer had seen some overpowering figures: The total land area occupied by installations owned by AEC now comprises an area equal in size to the States of Delaware and Rhode Island. We are operating in 19 states, in Eniwetok, and have installations in the Belgian Congo and the Canadian Arctic. By the end of this year about 100,000 workers will be involved with the job.

Glennan, on leave from Case-Institute of Technology, Cleveland, says that the two and a quarter billion dollar installations which house atomic energy work represent a rare bargain, because what happens in them can be utilized almost eternally. He points out that people in this country spent that much on television sets and repairs last year, and just about that much on cigarets and cosmetics.

Besides, atomic energy work will represent a bare fraction of the $60 billion President Truman has asked for defense work in 1951.

Much has been written about the A-bomb, but this point has been neglected. It is something like buying a pair of pants for an older son. The younger son, meaning peace, can always wear 'em when the big kid outgrows 'em.

Railway's Earnings Rise In January

A record for January earnings was established last month by the Western Maryland Railway.

Gross operating revenues were estimated at $4,317,000, a jump of $1,684,000 or 64 per cent over January last year. The best previous January was in 1948 when gross was $3,873,105.

The rise in revenues last month reflected an exceptionally heavy movement of coal and a rush of traffic in steel products, a company official said.

Suit Seeks Quash Of Attachment

A suit requesting a partial quashing of an attachment has been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Ernest Guthrie, through his attorney, Thomas Lohr Richards, has laid claim to part of the property attached by the sheriff. He said that through a bill of sale dated April 18, 1949, he obtained a sawmill and accessory parts and a tractor from Junior A. Guthrie for $7,000.

Almost three months later, July 11, 1949, the sheriff attached the property of Junior A. Guthrie, the suit states, including the saw mill and tractor which Ernest Guthrie contends belonged to him.

Suspended Police To Get Hearing

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long announced Saturday that he will request a Civil Service Commission hearing for three probationary patrolmen suspended indefinitely January 30 for "duty unbecoming an officer".

Long said he will undertake the step "in fairness" to Officers Karl W. Frankfort, Vernon E. Browning and Lewis A. Miller.

The trio was suspended from the force following an altercation at Midway Inn on McMullen Highway early January 28. They were off duty at the time and out of full uniform.

As a result of the fracas, Frankfort was handed a 30-day jail sentence last week in Trial Magistrates Court on charges of assaulting William W. Schumaker, 31, of 322 Bond Street. He filed notice of an appeal and was freed under $200 bond.

Browning and Miller were not named in the warrant charging Frankfort with assault.

Paper Workers Postpone Their Negotiations

Recent Wage Freeze Causes Some Delay

LUKE, Feb. 11—A postponement of the negotiations between the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and the UPA (CIO) Union, representing employees of the Luke, Covington and Williamsburg plants, has been agreed on due to the recent wage freeze by the Federal Government.

A formula for guidance in negotiations is being prepared by the Wage Stabilization Board and a conference will probably be held in about a week after this formula has been announced.

A request for a meeting between company and union officials to discuss the entire wage structure and to negotiate a revision of wage scales for the three mills was made about two weeks ago by Harry Scott, area director for the UPA-CIO. February 6 was named as a tentative date for a conference in Washington. When an announcement of the government freeze order of wages came the meeting was postponed.

Harry McGowan, president, and Eugene Dawson, Byron Green and Wayne Ritchie, committeemen, will represent the Luke Local at the conference.

Progress is being made on the job evaluation survey being made by the McGowan. Some 30 different jobs have been agreed upon for study and evaluation in the three mills.

The barbers union, which had affiliated with the Luke Local, has also joined the international organization. Harry Sayers, Washington, president of the UPA recently approved the acceptance of the barbers on condition that they pay their own per capita dues.

Abraham Lincoln

There are many sides to the life of Lincoln, but one of the facets is lighted by an unquenchable flame. He loved his country better than any of its component parts.

The country then, as now, was riven by contending factions, pulled this way and that by considerations that were largely selfish. Lincoln's great mind penetrated to the heart of every problem. He was not hampered by thoughts of what a policy would gain for this or that group. He sought the solutions that would strengthen and benefit the nation.

With firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right," he said—and those words still exert upon Americans the force of conscience. Here was no expediency, no thought of what a cute political trick might do to win an election, but a simple, straightforward endeavor to learn what, in his human judgment, the country needed.

Lincoln was constantly hampered by self-seeking leaders, but to the end he hewed to the line of what he construed to be the greatest good to the greatest number.

America today needs men who are statesmen in the true sense of the word, as Lincoln was. It needs them in Washington, in labor, in management. The call is for men who will assay a situation in terms of essential values, and who will act without counting the cost as those deprived of special privilege emit outraged cries.

Lincoln was convinced that right makes might and did not hesitate to act boldly. It is the spirit of Lincoln that the nation applauds on the 142nd anniversary of his birth.

During the next fiscal year the federal government will spend $72,000,000,000 on an income of $55,000,000,000. This is a situation which any white-collar man with a growing family of children will understand perfectly.

Those Nevada explosions were heard for great distances and their echo carried to Moscow.

Butter Or Margarine

When you go into a restaurant, do you receive butter or colored margarine with the bread you are served? You are reasonably sure to get butter in the 14 states that forbid the sale of colored margarine—Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Montana, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin, Wyoming. These 14 states account for one-third of the population of the whole nation. Several other states levy special taxes on colored margarine.

In the other 34 states, the chances are less than 2 to 1 that you get butter, better than 2 to 1 that you get colored margarine without being told it is margarine. At least, these are the findings of an investigation by dairy interests in 12 cities of these 34 states. The margarine interests reply that this is an inadequate sampling and was not conducted by an unbiased body.

To serve colored margarine in restaurants without notice to that effect to the patrons is a violation of the federal act of March 16, 1950, ending the 10 cents a pound federal tax on colored margarine. The act, which went into operation on July 1, 1950, requires eating places serving colored margarine to (1) post a notice to that effect and (2) identify the margarine, when served, by a printed slip or by serving it in a triangular cut. But to enforce this requirement would obviously mean much effort and money, and Congress has appropriated little money for the purpose.

Dairy interests are fighting the agitation in the states with anti-colored margarine laws for the repeal of those laws. Yet, however much the consumption of butter may have been reduced by the repeal of the federal tax on colored margarine, the retail price of butter has not suffered—it was, according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, about one cent higher at the end of 1950 than at the end of 1949.

Alfred Krupp, German munitions maker, has been turned loose with a new suit of clothes and $7,000,000. At least he should be able to start a new factory without calling on the RFC for a loan.

When communication with the moon is established, it will be possible to ask the old boy why he prefers night work.

Nations And Neurotics

To describe a nation, or a government, as neurotic or outright mad is a dangerous use of analogy. The mentally ill are spurred by emotional disturbance which has little relation to the cold calculation of national interest.

There are nevertheless persuasive parallels between the behavior of nations and neurotics, particularly with respect to the reasons they give for behavior that on the face of it is the reverse of altruistic.

Right now Russia is balking at settling her lend-lease account with the United States. Not long ago Moscow agreed to talk it over again. Now the Kremlin is again refusing to settle. The total lend-lease aid Washington provided to help Russia defeat Germany amounts to $10,800,000,000 net—that is, after deducting the value of goods sent by Russia in exchange and the value of the few ships returned.

Washington isn't asking payment for war materials actually used in the war, but the U. S. Government would be willing to settle for any remaining surplus, including 670 ships lent or leased, plus a token payment for articles of definite value to the civilian economy. Russia, however, continues to display the same arrogant refusal to make a part payment on past favors—except at her own price of approximately two cents on the dollar.

The neurotic's claim on others, according to a recent book, are the reverse of the Golden Rule. He feels that his special merits or sufferings entitle him to special privileges. So the Russians are saying that their very real suffering in the war entitle them to run out on the contract they made eagerly at the time, and that the U. S. is to blame anyway for delaying a second front in Europe until 1944 and for subsequent "war-mongering."

It is to be feared, nevertheless, that this is no case for a psychiatrist.

A psychologist says a woman of 40 is never offended when a man whistles at her. Having heard, of course, that life begins at that interesting age.

There are indications in Korea that Russia may be running out of Chinamen.

The Famous Log Cabin Birth

It was 142 years ago today that Abraham Lincoln was born in Kentucky, under the same unsanitary conditions that the greater part of the human race had come into the world up to that time. This is amazing to modern obstetricians but not so very remarkable considering that childbirth is a natural phenomenon.

The Lincolns were living on the Sinking Spring farm, four miles from Hodgenville in Hardin county. They owned poultry and live stock and their log cabin lacked luxuries but was not uncomfortable. Lincoln's father had consulted a Dr. Daniel B. Potter on several occasions but called the local midwife to attend the confinement. After all, midwifery was popular in those days and the country doctors were not too enthusiastic about obstetrics because it kept them out of contact with their homes and other patients for many hours and sometimes days.

• — • — •

There is no exact record of who was present in the log cabin except that neighbors and relatives usually helped out on such occasions; but according to W. E. Barton, the Lincoln authority, the room must have been crowded. Many decades after Lincoln became famous, Barton made a trip to Hardin county and almost all the inhabitants of the community told him that their grandmothers had been present. This is a variation of the Washington slept here" legend. In all probability Nancy Lincoln's two aunts, the midwife, and a neighbor or two were the only ones on hand.

They kept the fire going, made the necessary hot water, and prepared to care for the newcomer. With the help of these women and their crude obstetrical instruments, one of our most famous Presidents came into the world.

Folklore also has it that a neighbor, Isom Enlow, saved the life of baby Abraham. This man "happened by" and noticed that the infant's face was blue with cold. He rubbed the little body with his warm hands and poured some melted turkey fat, which he carried to oil his gun, into the baby's mouth. This should make modern mothers shudder.

• — • — •

Lincoln's birth is not unusual considering the era in which he arrived. Most deliveries took place in the home because hospitals were few and far between. Even tho one were available, the home was preferred because of convenience and the fact that there was less danger of developing childbed (puerperal) fever. However, the mortality rate was high because little could be done if the birth deviated from normal. The midwife was in no position to cope with hemorrhage or hasten delivery if labor was prolonged or difficult. Toxemia, infections, and lacerations were beyond her skill. When such complications occurred the physician had to be called and, in the absence of modern communications and transportation, it usually was too late by the time he got there.

In the last 142 years much progress has been made. Every years the number of babies born in hospitals increases. Statistics in Illinois, for example, show that, in 1948, 93.7 per cent of the total births were hospital deliveries. This is because of the increasing confidence that parents have in hospitals. Much of the improvement stems from the segregation of the obstetrical departments from the remainder of the hospital along with better delivery room technic. Furthermore, physicians, interns, and nurses are available and can be called at a moment's notice to cope with any complications. Nowadays it would be impossible for a well meaning neighbor to get his hands on a newborn; even the father is forced to view his offspring thru a glass partition.

HEREDITY AND BLEEDERS

Mrs. T. writes: My husband's brother's wife bore a child who is a bleeder. There is no record of hemophilia in the family. Would there be any possibility that a child born to us would be so affected.

You are safe because hemophilia is transmitted thru the mother, even though it affects only males. But not all "bleeders" are hemophiliacs and to answer your question the exact diagnosis must be known.

Friendship Toys Sail For Europe; German-Swiss Dye Firm Becomes Pawn Of Democratic Politics; Business Tycoons Help Truman Campaign Fund

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Today the SS Aagtedyk sails from Philadelphia, city of brotherly love, bearing the first cargo of the Tide of Toys to Europe. This is a friendship cargo which the American Legion has painstakingly collected from all parts of the U.S.A. for the children of Europe and for the families of American GI's in Korea.

Last year the Legion sent 3,000,000 toys to Europe. Frequently drives of this kind slacken after the first year. People get tired or discouraged, figure the need isn't quite so great. But the Legion has reversed this trend, and the amazing total of 7,000,000 toys has now been contributed by children who could spare a toy from under their own Christmas tree.

What the Legion and its friends have realized is that money cannot buy friendship. Nor can the shipment of arms build friendship. Nor can the rebuilding of European factories, important as that is, build friendship. It is the people-to-people understanding, such as comes through a gift of a toy bearing a message from one child to another, which really builds the kind of enduring friendship we need.

NOTE—The Legion did such a good job collecting friendship toys this year that the cost of shipping became much greater than last year. Whereupon a group of patriotic businessmen in New York, led by Lewis Rosenstiel, stepped in to raise $50,000 to cover overhead expenses.

Alien Property Politics

One of the little-noticed but festering political sores of Washington is General Aniline and Film, the giant German-Swiss chemical corporation, formerly affiliated with the notorious I. G. Farben Cartel and now a pawn in the cutthroat game of Democratic politics.

If a Senate committee ever pries into the political ramifications of General Aniline and Film it will make the current probe of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation seem pallid by comparison. Technically, the German-Swiss company is supposed to be operated by the Alien Property Custodian of the U. S. Justice Department. But the Justice Department has farmed direction of the company to various friends who helped Harry Truman get where he is.

First of all, shrewd, farsighted Victor Emanuel, tycoon of the American Aviation Company, appointed Leo Crowley as head of his Standard Gas and Electric Co., when Leo was a power in the Roosevelt Administration. At that time—1939 and the years following—Crowley had the unique privilege of drawing $75,000 from Standard Gas and Electric at the very same time he was working for U. S. taxpayers as head of Federal Deposit Insurance and as Alien Property Custodian.

An indication that Crowley was serving two masters came later when he rewarded the man who paid him $75,000 annually by making Victor Emanuel a director of the giant German firm, General Aniline and Film. As Alien Property Custodian, Crowley could appoint the directors of this German firm, and he appointed not only Emanuel, but Emanuel's close friend, George Allen.

Profitable Back-Scratching

After Crowley stepped down as Alien Property Custodian, he placed his own friend and assistant, Jim Markham, in this key position. And Markham, in turn, appointed another friend of Victor Emanuel's, Louey Johnson, on the board of General Aniline and Film. Johnson became not only a director, but general counsel at a retainer of $37,500 annually.

Later, when Markham stepped out as Alien Property Custodian, he got a job in Louey Johnson's law firm. Thus, everybody scratched each other's back all the way round.

However, a lot of politicians had their eyes on the giant German-Swiss firm. Manufacturing as it does Ansco film, hormones, and 1,000 different synthetic dyes, it was the juiciest property seized by the government during the war. Its factories spread out from Grasselli, N. J., to Binghamton and Johnson City, N. Y., and a total of $1,000,000 a year was paid out to top executives and directors.

So, in 1947, Bob Hannegan of Democratic National Committee fame, induced Attorney General Tom Clark to appoint Jack Frye as head of General Aniline. Frye, a party faithful, had been eased out of his job as head of Trans World Airlines, but now stepped into the presidency of the giant German-Swiss firm at $72,000.

Battle Of Tycoons

About that time Victor Emanuel's influence began to wane, and the influence of rival tycoon, Floyd Odlum, began to increase. Both, incidentally, had carefully sweetened the kitty of the Democratic party, but in 1948 Odlum had gone down the line for Truman while Emanuel flirted with the Republicans.

At any rate, today finds Richard C. Patterson, a satellite of Floyd Odlum's, on the board of General Aniline, and significantly appointed as U. S. ambassador to Switzerland. Patterson has no outstanding qualification for the U. S. ambassadorship to Switzerland, having recently served in an opposite area of the world—Guatemala. However, it may or may not be a coincidence that the Swiss are now doing their best to take over General Aniline, in fact, have sued the U. S. Government, while the Swiss Government has made representations to the State Department on behalf of the European investors in General Aniline.

So naturally the question is being asked as to whether a Floyd Odlum man as ambassador to Switzerland could not perhaps intervene in this delicate, difficult situation.

Songbird Director

Other interesting political appointments to the board of General Aniline, made by a politically minded Justice Department, are: Morton Downey, the Coca-Cola singer, who is a delightful personality but knows little about dyestuffs; Colvin Brown, publisher of the Motion Picture Daily and great friend of ex-Postmaster General Frank Walker; William J. Mahaney of San Francisco, who gave $5,000 to the Democrats; and Donald Lincoln, law partner of Louey Johnson, who contributed $1,000 to the Democrats.

Meanwhile, General Aniline's earnings have dropped. Meanwhile, also, the U. S. Government has followed a general policy of selling off other German property seized during the war. General-Aniline and Film, however, remains unsold, and the juciest industrial pawn in all party politics.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The False Whiskers Problem

WASHINGTON

The right way to deal with future acts of aggression by Soviet satellites may become a really serious issue. Since the Korean experience, American leaders are pretty well agreed that hereafter we must "brush away the false whiskers," and penalize the satellites' masters in the Kremlin. But inter-governmental discussions of the satellite threat to Yugoslavia have already developed some sentiment across the Atlantic for what looks, for the short run, like a more cautious plan.

Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria are to be treated as independent states. They, not Moscow, are to be warned that the Western powers will not tolerate any new aggression in Europe. It is even said that they may be moved by such a warning to resist Moscow's commands.

The appropriate commentary on this scheme for encouraging satellite independence by pretending that it exists has already been provided by the disappearance from Prague of the former Czech Foreign Minister, V. Clementis, who has probably taken refuge in the American zone of Germany. Czechoslovakia was formerly allowed immeasurably more freedom than any of the satellites in the Balkans. But the flight of Clementis, a faithful Communist whose sole crimes were a trace of national feeling and an ability to converse with Westerners, shows how even Czechoslovakia has now been reduced to the status of a Soviet province.

A Ruthless Job

The job has been done with perfect ruthlessness. As a safeguard against nationalist impulses, control of the Communist party in Bohemia has been transferred to non-Czechs, like the Sudeten Germans, Germinder and Koehler. In Slovakia, similarly, the men on top now are Hungarians, Siroky and Battovansky. Widespread purges have sapped the power of the former top party leader, President Gottwald. Gottwald's humiliation by the new, Moscow-approved chief, Slansky, was even, as it were, officially announced a couple of months ago, when the leading newspaper, "Rude Pravo," a Gottwald stronghold, was rebuked for errors and deviations.

Inevitably, this process has included transfer of control over the police from Gottwald's ally, Nosek, to a Slansky man, Kopriva. And to finish the job, the Czech army has been purged from top to bottom. The army is now virtually under the command of the head of the Russian military mission to Prague, Colonel General Gusev, whose huge staff works with Czech units of all levels.

In the Balkans, of course, the same job was begun much earlier. In Bulgaria, the aging Georgyi Dimitrov was ordered to Moscow in February, 1949, and murdered there in July. Shortly thereafter, Dimitrov's deputy, Traicho Kostov, disappeared from view, to reappear on trial as a Tito-ist at the end of the year. Since then at least 60 per cent of the Bulgarian Communists of any importance, including almost the whole top leadership, have been purged privately or in public. The Prime Minister, Chervenkov, is the most notorious Moscow stooge in any satellite state, and the new chief of army general staff, Gen-

Stringent Regimentation Only Cure For Inflation

By ROGER W. BABSON

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 11—There is no more certain way of wrecking our economy and our democracy than by allowing the value of our dollar to continue to decline. Many are finding it extremely difficult today to make ends meet with a 57 cents dollar in this most prosperous era America has ever known.

Inflation Marches On

In 1940, a friend of mine got an air mail letter from Greece. The amount of postage on the envelope was 30 drachmas, or about 65 cents. Just the other day, he received an air mail letter of the same weight from Athens. He counted the postage—9700 drachmas—323 times as much as it took in 1940! How would you like to hold life insurance policies in an Athenian company, or to have bought Greek government bonds in 1940? Both are being paid as they become due; but in almost worthless money.

It can't happen here? It already has happened. By the time you get around to cash your 1953 Series E bonds which you bought in 1943, you will have lost an appreciable amount of money in terms of what your dollars can buy. It already takes twice as many dollars as in 1940 to buy the average car. Food costs are up over 100 per cent; clothing costs by about 95 per cent; and rent costs by about 20 per cent. Almost anything you can name has spiralled since Korea. The Air Force alone reports that the decline in the dollar has eaten out of its budget 750 jet fighters.

Some Causes Of Decline

Management blames the decline of the dollar on wage raises. The wage earner blames management for price hiking in a seller's market. Both groups are at fault. But the real difficulty lies with the fact that the production of goods is not keeping up with the demand. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reveals an average hourly pay rise in the manufacturing industries from a low of $1 in 1946 to $1.50 in 1950, or 50 per cent. During the same time, the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Consumer Index rose 36.9 per cent. This meant an average hourly increase of around 10 per cent in actual purchasing power of workers.

From 1946 to 1950, corporate profits rose, before taxes, from 23.6 billion to around 37 billion in 1950, or an approximate 57 per cent increase. After paying taxes, however, 1946 corporate gains were 13.6 billion, and rose to 21.5 billion in 1950 and compare fairly well with the increase in wages and prices. This is a good illustration of the law of supply and demand—action and reaction—which ultimately takes care of unbalances. The desire of all of us for more play and less work is the real cause of our declining dollar. The Korean war simply brought our precarious economic status into sharper focus.

More Controls Coming

I hate the idea of more government in business. I always will be vigorously opposed to unnecessary government controls. We can no more control inflation voluntarily with our present government in a wartime economy than we can raise a 10 million man army voluntarily. It is, therefore, with reluctance that I have come to the conclusion that the only cure for inflation is through stringent regimentation of our economy—but only for as long as war lasts.

This means stiff taxes and a big reduction of all expenditures not required by the war preparations, in order to put the war on a pay-as-you-go basis. It means prices, wages, and profits must be controlled. It means an end to all subsidies to farmers, laborers, and businessmen. It means unloading the billions of dollars of farm, inventories now stockpiled by the government. It means a drastic reduction in the heavily overloaded executive branch of the government. It means all-out mobilization, not a piecemeal mobilization which encourages inflation. Unless we immediately take these drastic steps, unpleasant as they may be, our dollar may become worth only 25 cents.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Lincoln And Disloyalty

As THE years pass, Abraham Lincoln is not being remembered as the President who controlled our destinies during the War between the States, nor even as the President who issued the Emancipation Proclamation.

Rather do Washington and Lincoln stand high above all the men who have sat in the President's chair, and their greatness lies in their selfless devotion to the nation. It is said that President Truman has taken Jackson as his model, which is unfortunate because it can only justify in his own mind a cantankerousness that approaches a distorted ego. Franklin D. Roosevelt employed no model, for he was his own model, naturally.

Lincoln could not have understood disloyalty. Even as we today are faced by disloyalty, by those who can and do serve an enemy, overtly and in secret, so was he faced with the same problem. In a proclamation, issued on March 10, 1863, he said:

"Whereas evil-disposed and disloyal persons at sundry places have enticed and procured soldiers to desert and absent themselves from their regiments, thereby weakening the strength of the armies and prolonging the war, giving aid and comfort to the enemy, and cruelly exposing the gallant and faithful soldiers remaining in the ranks to increased hardships and danger:

"I do therefore call upon all patriotic and faithful citizens to oppose and resist the aforementioned dangerous and treasonable crimes, and to aid in restoring to their regiments all soldiers absent without leave, and to assist in the execution of the Act of Congress 'for enrolling and calling out the national forces, and for other purposes,' and to support the proper authorities in the prosecution and punishment of offenders against said act and in suppressing the insurrection and rebellion."

He called upon the people to aid in this, whereas in our era disloyalty has become so much a political issue that the executive branch of the government has consistently since 1934, when the Harold Ware Communist cell was organized, aided, defended, protected and whitewashed the disloyal.

It is not only a matter of Alger Hiss and William W. Remington, who was convicted on Wednesday of last week, after having been cleared on several occasions by so-called loyalty boards. It is much more than that. It is a general attitude that loyalty is a private matter and that high officials, even in so important an agency as the State Department, may have private judgment as to whether the United States must be preserved as a sovereign state or shall become absorbed in some vast international congeries of states which live upon its strength while humiliating and shaming its traditions and conduct.

Lincoln would not have tolerated disloyalty. And even in his proclamation pardoning all who had taken up arms against this government and restoring to them their property, except slaves, he still insisted upon a loyalty oath, to wit:

"I, ..., do solemnly swear, in presence of Almighty God, that I will henceforth faithfully support, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States and the union of the states thereunder; and that I will in like manner abide by and faithfully support all acts of Congress passed during the existing rebellion with reference to slaves, so long and so far as not repealed, modified, or held void by Congress or by decision of the Supreme Court; and that I will in like manner abide by and faithfully support all proclamations of the President made during the existing rebellion having reference to slaves, so long and so far as not modified or declared void by decision of the Supreme Court. So help me God."

There was an unerring greatness in this simple man which stands like a beacon in our era of intellectual and spiritual pigmies. He placed country above party; he placed principle above self. And because he so believed, he was assassinated.

It was unfortunate that he was followed by lesser men who dared not understand that the essence of reconstruction was malice toward none. They gave this country many unfortunate years.

No country can survive inadequate leadership; no nation can survive disloyalty. We need a Lincoln and a Robert E. Lee today to rescue America from a morass of mediocrity. On Lincoln's birthday this is something to think about.

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

FELLOWSHIP WITH JESUS
To Be With Him

And he ordained twelve, that they should be with him, and that he might send them forth to preach. Mark 3:14 (K. J. V.). Read Matthew 4:18-25.

What a motley crowd of men! They quarreled, were jealous of each other, wanted the chief seats, were afraid, and ran away at the crucial hour of their Master's need.

But he loved them. He chose them not for what they were, but for what they could become. They had spiritual capacity, and if once released they would turn the world upside down. They had open hearts and minds, into which he could plant a truth. They were learners, and they would never turn their backs upon what they had learned.

The Church needs that kind of men. The preacher needs them. Not perfect men, but men who are teachable, who are eager to learn the values of Jesus. Men who stand by when the going gets hard for the preacher. Men who shoulder responsibility. Men who measure the success of the Church, not only by the number of members it receives, or the amount of money it raises, but by the manner in which it projects its life into the total life of the world.

LET US PRAY: We would stand by, O Lord, not merely watching thee in thine agony, but sharing it. Teach us to become thy ministering servants to a world that desperately needs thy forgiveness. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Mrs. Roeder Commends City Street Workers

Cites Good Job During Storms

Special commendation for the "good job" done by Street Department workers since February 1, when one of the worst storms of the season hit this city, has been given by Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of Streets and Public Property.

Mrs. Roeder said the loyalty of the city employes, in working around the clock when the storm first struck, was a big factor in fighting the effects of the storm.

All available crews worked for almost a week in a seemingly hopeless attempt to keep catch basins open as the six inch snowfall thawed.

The job was usually under control by dark, officials said, but each night as the temperature dropped, channels to the catch basins froze over and the job had to be done over again.

Mrs. Roeder also praised the scores of citizens who cooperated in keeping the water and slush flowing into the storm sewers near their homes.

Without such help, she added, the conditions on some streets would have been worse, since it was impossible for city crews to be everywhere at once.

Non-Hungarian Leaders

In Hungary, the chief nationalminded Communist, Raik, was also tried and found guilty long ago, and all his followers have since been purged. More recently, the President of Hungary, Szakasits, the Judas goat who led the Hungarian Social Democratic party into its alliance with the Communists, has himself been sent to the slaughterhouse, or at least he has disappeared. The leading men in the government, Rakosy, Gero and Zold, are all non-Hungarians, and the Commander of the Army, General Vata, is believed to be Russian.

In Romania, no less than 192,000 members of the Communist party had been purged, by official figures, by the end of 1950. Last year the celebrated Communist chieftainess of Romania, Ana Pauker, and her deputy, Georghiu Dej, were called to Moscow, brutally disciplined, and returned wholly submissive. Here again, Russian control is most overt in the army, and the Soviets have openly transformed the main Romanian port, Constanza, into a Russian naval base. As for Poland, Marshal of the Red Army Rokossovsky now controls not only the national military forces, but the whole apparatus of the party and the state.

In the face of this sort of evidence, treating the satellites as independent is a polite but dangerous farce. If the Texas and California National Guard divisions attacked Mexico, the Mexican protests would not be addressed to Austin and Sacramento. If Moscow's European satellites embark on a career of aggression, the blame will not be theirs, and if future aggressions are to be deterred, the deterrents must be aimed at Moscow where the power lies.

U. S. Commission Moving To Bonn

FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 11 (AP)—U. S. authorities disclosed today that construction of a new multi-million dollar American occupation headquarters near Bonn will start this month.

It will overlook the Rhine River between Bonn and Bad Godesberg and will house the U. S. High Commission offices now in Frankfurt.

American officials said a complete American community to include several modern residential projects, offices and a shopping center will be constructed.

U. S. counterpart funds — west marks derived from dollar aid to the West German economy — will finance the new project. American authorities stressed that none of the expense will be charged to German taxpayers as occupation costs.

U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy ordered the transfer of his headquarters to Bonn to simplify working relations with the Germans and to prepare for the establishment of an American embassy there.

Reuther Urges Fairchild Talks

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Feb. 11 (AP)—Walter Reuther, president of the CIO United Automobile Workers Union, said today he is willing to sit in on talks to end the Fairchild aircraft workers' strike "any day of the week that management wants to negotiate."

He invited Richard S. Boutelle, president of Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp., to do the same.

The fiery UAW-CIO leader declared that Boutelle had not spent any time in negotiations to end the walkout of 4,700 workers at the Fairchild aircraft division here. Boutelle could not be reached for comment.

The stumbling block to an agreement in the five-week-old strike is the company's method of wage increases. Local 842 of the UAW-CIO wants a system of automatic wage increases from minimum to maximum wage scales within the labor grades.

The company is insisting on maintaining its merit wage system.

On the national scene, Reuther asserted that the federal government had frozen prices "in the stratosphere."

He said that the UAW-CIO wants to work with existing wage and price regulations to halt an inflationary trend. But after that, he added, the union will fight to change the law "wherever necessary to plug loop holes" in the present wage structure.

Baltimore Dockers To Unload China Cargo

BALTIMORE, Feb. 11 (AP)—The unloading of a Norwegian freighter carrying cargo from Communist China will begin Tuesday or Wednesday, a longshoremen's union official said today.

The 3,141-ton freighter Lisholt has been lying here since yesterday with more than 520 tons of cargo consigned to Baltimore, which stevedores refused to handle.

Stephen Mach, local president of the International Longshoremen Association, AFL, said the dockmen had changed their minds about handling the cargo when the State Department sent a telegram saying the goods were essential to the country's defense effort.

Area Video Enthusiast Gets National Salute

Long engaged in the juke box business here, Ruppenthal is a 292 pound video fan of the first rank.

Income Tax Primer

Form 1040-A Is Simplest—If You're Permitted To Use It

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Most wage earners with incomes under $5,000 make their tax returns on form 1040-A, the yellow sheet.

Using form 1040-A is the simplest way to make out a tax return—if you are permitted to use it. Some taxpayers are not allowed to use 1040-A.

You are allowed to use 1040-A as a return only if you can answer "no" to all of these three questions:

1. Did your income in 1950 amount to $5,000 or more?

2. Did you get more than $100 from dividends, interest and wages not subject to withholding?

3. Besides wages, dividends and interest, did you have any other income?

If you can't answer "no" to all three questions, then you must use form 1040, the white sheet, as a return.

Even if you can use the easy form 1040-A, you still may want to use short form 1040 or long form 1040.

Here are two reasons why you may prefer to use short form 1040:

1. You had out of town travel expenses or "reimbursed expenses" in connection with your work and want to deduct those expenses in order to reduce your taxable income. (You can deduct "reimbursed expenses" when they are reported as part of your income.

In this case you would use form 1040 because there is no place on 1040-A to list such expenses.

2. You may want to know the amount of your tax at once instead of waiting for the collector's notice on it.

On short form 1040 you find your tax in the table on page 4 of the form. When you use 1040-A the collector figures your tax and sends you a bill or a refund.

Wage earners who will benefit by using long form 1040 instead of 1040-A or short form 1040 are those whose allowable non-business deductions total more than 10 per cent of their income. It will pay them to itemize them instead of taking the 10 per cent deduction allowance.

Among allowable deductions are various tax and interest payments, uninsured losses from fire, storm and theft, and medical expenses which exceed five per cent of your income. Also necessary expenses paid by a wage earner in connection with his work and for the benefit of his employer, such as purchase of tools.

If you itemize such deductions you must make your return on long form 1040. There is no place for them on form 1040-A or on short form 1040.

If you are married and use the yellow form 1040-A, make out a joint return. Write the names of both husband and wife at top of the return and be sure that both sign it at the bottom.

You can make a joint return for 1950 even if your wife died in January 1950 or if you were married on Dec. 31, 1950. But if you were divorced as of Dec. 31, you cannot make a joint return because the tax law then regards you as single for the entire year.

If you make a joint return on form 1040-A, the collector will figure your tax by both the joint and separate methods and give you the smaller tax.

THE NATIONAL GAS SHORTAGE

What We Are Doing About It In Your Community And How You Can Help

The whole country has been experiencing an almost unprecedented cold wave. Gas wells, even in Texas, have frozen and become unworkable. Millions of people have suffered.

The Columbia Gas System and your gas company are doing everything possible to get more gas to you. As soon as we can squeeze another cubic foot out of our pipes, you'll get it.

Every man in the gas industry is working with every means in his power to bring more gas to you.

Gas for industrial and commercial purposes has been drastically curtailed in order to provide the utmost gas for you.

In the meantime, here's how you can help:

1. Shut off heat in and close every possible spare room.
2. Keep room temperatures at a very minimum.
3. Postpone any washing, laundering or ironing requiring use of gas.
4. Use cooking ranges as little as possible—not for room-heating purposes.

* * *

What Caused This Gas Shortage In Your Area?

1. Average temperatures are running 8 to 10 degrees below normal.
2. Over 12 billion cubic feet of gas expected from suppliers in Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma were not received due to unavoidably delayed construction of pipelines from these areas.
3. The war in Korea caused industrial requirements alone to run at over 50,000,000 cubic feet per day more than expected.
4. Therefore, our gas stored underground is over 30 billion cubic feet less than needed.
5. Because of the railroad strike we have been unable to replenish immediately our supplies of propane gas used for just such emergencies. These are now near exhaustion.

These are the conditions, all beyond our control, which have caused your local gas shortage.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD
By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11 (INS)—In spite of the big pan the critics gave Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis' comedy, "At War With The Army," it's tops at the box office. The public likes it and falls in the aisles after seeing it.

Dean and Jerry may have their private problems, battles with their agent, and Dean worrying over money and alimony problems—but this comedy is lifting their stock high as entertainers.

So, it's interesting news today that Norman Taurog is the lucky boy who gets the directing job of "The Stooge," their next comedy. Maybe I should say the luck's on the other side, for Norman has made so many fine Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures in the many years he has been there. His last, "Young, Rich And Pretty" was finished on Saturday, and tomorrow morning he reports to his new boss, Hal Wallis.

Prince Otto Hapsburg, son of the last emperor of Austria, and who has many friends in Hollywood, is marrying Princess Regina of Saxony-Meiningen soon. Empress Zita, his mother, who has been living in Canada, is on her way to Europe to attend the ceremony.

There had been rumors that after Prince Otto's marriage she will become a nun in a Benedictine convent in France. Several people who know her doubt this, however, because even though she is a very devout Catholic, her children have tried to persuade her not to enter a convent.

Prince Otto, the godfather of little Stephanie Farrow, daughter of Maureen O'Sullivan and John Farrow, is charming.

Chit Chat:

Elizabeth Taylor can only wonder why the Harvard Lampoon so suddenly changed its mind about her.

Last fall they invited her to be honorary cheer leader at their big football game. When she was invited she was told she was their most popular actress.

Now the boys turn around and award her the Roscoe for so gallantly persisting in her career despite a total inability to act. That might not be so bad, but they also cite her as the most objectionable ingenue and one of the two most objectionable movie children. How can they change so quickly?

Deborah Kerr has a sprained ankle received while skiing. The studios, more and more, are trying to keep their stars off skis.

Congratulations to Agent Harold Rose. After 15 years of marriage, he and his wife expect their first baby in August. Mrs. Rose is a cousin of David Selznick.

Producer Stanley Rubin gets his answer from Coleen Gray soon, and it's my guess it will be yes.

At the Cafe Gala Doris Duke and Gilbert Roland with a party of friends.

Barbara Stanwyck has sold the Holmby Hills house where she and Robert Taylor lived for the past few years, and has taken an apartment. This is sad because it seems to be really the end of Barbara and Bob's marriage.

Mickey Rooney's new girl friend is Kay Brown, shorter than he is. That's the first time Mickey has been interested in any girl who wasn't an Amazon.

The manager of the all-star basketball team with which Glenn Davis went to Hawaii, flew in all the white orchids for Glenn's wedding to Terry Moore on Friday.

Carmen Miranda and Ronald Reagan are the first guests on Don McNeil's first Hollywood Breakfast Club TV show.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

I got a Fresh Start with a cash loan at HFC

"Ever get in a spot where you needed extra cash fast? I guess we all do at one time or another. Well, I needed $300 to clean up some old bills. I was plenty worried—until a friend of mine recommended Household Finance. So I phoned HFC. I got a pleasant surprise. I found I could borrow three ways—on my signature, car or furniture. And I could get as little as $20 or as much as $1000 and repay it in monthly instalments. Best of all, I didn't need endorsers or guarantors.

"And talk about service! Take my word for it, HFC is really a friendly, helpful place to do business. And HFC specializes in fast service. I got money I needed right then, without the slightest embarrassment.

"If you need money for any good purpose—do as I and thousands of others do. Get a fresh start now at HFC—Household Finance Corporation. Why not call HFC today?"

SNEAK!

The word has an ugly sound which is far from reality when it is applied to the showing of a new Movie. What is a SNEAK-PRE-VUE? Frequently the booking department of a Theater Circuit is faced with the problem of how best to book an unusual motion picture.

Always it is one of the bigger and better films, which for various reason, needs "word-of-mouth" publicity, plus a testing ground for audience reaction. Therefore we periodically "SNEAK" prevue a big picture without advertising the title . . . it offers YOU an opportunity to enjoy the picture far in advance of it's scheduled dating at the theater in addition to the current show.

Wednesday—Beaver Falls at Wheeling.
Saturday—Wheeling at Altoona.
Sunday—Beaver Falls at Cumberland; Wheeling at Erie.

Twenty-one field goals on 47 shots in the first half and sensational foul shooting that netted the locals 25 points in 28 tries, highlighted the 97 to 83 victory the Cumberland Spas scored over the Altoona Flyers last night in an All-American League game staged at SS. Peter and Paul gym before 381 cash customers.

The 93 points amassed on 36 field goals in 98 tries and the 25 singletons represented the highest score credited to the Spas in 20 games played this season by the local aggregation.

Tie 3rd Place Tommies

Making a sweep of the two-game series, which included a 64-59 decision over Bobby Artman's club Saturday night in Altoona, sent the Cumberland pros into third place in a tie with the Beaver Falls Tommies. The Spas have won nine and lost nine and are now 3½ games behind the pace-setting Wheeling Blues. Beaver Falls, which plays here next Sunday, has an 8-8 record.

In the initial period the locals, in charge of John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, pinch-hitting for Coach Bill Keegan who was attending the Dapper Dan Club banquet in Pittsburgh, connected for nine goals in 22 tries and grabbed the long end of a 24-12 count at the end of 12 minutes of play.

Outscoring the Flyers, 27-24, the home team held a 15-point advantage at intermission, 51-36. When the third quarter was concluded the Spas were out in front by 22 points —74 to 52. Altoona outpointed the locals in the final stanza, 31-23, when Mike Bytzura scored five of his twelve field goals.

Trio Gets 68 Points

Bob Pence, Lou Bell and George Geatz were the Spas' chief bombers and racked 68 of the victors' 97 markers.

Pence banged in 11 fielders and 5 for 5 at the foul line for 27 tallies. Bell had a number of sensational shots, collected nine goals and 4-4 in fouls for 22 points and Geatz with seven double-deckers and 5-7 at the charity line registered a total of 19.

Mike Bytzura scored 12 goals and 26 points to spark the Pennsylvanians. Eight of his goals were tossed in the second half.

Altoona connected for 34 goals in 102 shots and meshed 15 of 28 charity tosses.

Twenty-four personal fouls were called on Cumberland and 22 on the Spas but no players were ejected.

Make 1st 13 Fouls

The Spas meshed their first 13 free throws before Geatz missed on the 14th try. Geatz also blew the 21st shot and "Whitey" Mathewson missed the 27th. It was one of the best foul tossing exhibitions ever given in a league game here by a local club.

In the role of substitute coach, "Bobby" Cavanaugh returned to the pro cage wars after an absence of three years. The Fort Hill High mentor, whose team is undefeated in 15 games played to date, coached the Cumberland Amvets when pro basketball was revived here during the 1946-47 season.

The fans were yelling for the Spas to make 100 points in last night's game but the team fell three short of that mark. Lineups:

Andersen Takes World's Speed Skating Crown

DAVOS, Switzerland, Feb. 11 (AP)—Hjalmar Andersen, powerful 29-year-old Norwegian truck driver, skated through snow and slush today to win the world speed skating championship for the second straight year.

Andersen clinched the title by winning the 10,000 meter event after finishing second in the 1,500 meter race in the morning. The Norwegian star won the 5,000 meter grind Saturday.

Andersen finished with a point total of 200.147. Johnny D. Cronshey of England wound up second with a point total of 204.033. Lowest score determines the winner.

The Norse ace completed the 10,000 meters under difficult weather conditions in 19 minutes, 31.8 seconds. Andersen set the world record here in 1949 in this event at 16 minutes, 57.4 seconds.

LaSalle League Bowlers Hang Up Two New Marks

The high-flying Steelers of the LaSalle High Bowling League took three more games yesterday from the cellar-dwelling Bears on the Club Recreation lanes.

In the other tussle, the second place Redskins stayed hot on the tail of the league leaders dumping the Eagles, 3-0. Three bowlers shared the limelight, Charles "Duke" Hinea, Joe Fair, and Jack Stegmaier with respective totals of 485, 445, and 429. Incidentally, Charles Hinea placed a new third high game into the records with 198. "Big Jim" Connelly topped the Birds' offensive with 160-413. Texas Open Golf Tourney Ends In Tie

Harrison, Ford Post 265s; Playoff Today

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 11 (AP)—E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, the old Arkansas traveler, and youthful Doug Ford of Briarcliff, N. Y., romped in with a tie for first place in the $10,000 Texas Open today and will play it off tomorrow. Each had a 72-hole total of 265.

All the drama of the tournament was wrapped up in the action on the final green as the veteran and the upstart of the links trail closed out in the last threesome of the day.

Harrison got a par 3 on the eighteenth when he was off the green on his tee shot. Ford was just 10 feet away. The handsome young New Yorker then calmly stroked the ball into the cup as the crowd of 6,000 gathered around the green roared.

Harrison, who registers from St. Andrews, Ill., had a seven-under-par 64 over Brackenridge Park's 6,400-yard course. Ford, the undisputed leader at the end of the third round yesterday with 197 for 54 holes, did a 68 today.

Harrison and Ford will play 18 holes tomorrow starting at 1 p. m. with the winner taking $2,000 first money and the loser $1,400.

Jack Burke, Jr., of Houston wound up third in the tournament when he registered a 67 today to make his total 267. Fourth was Al Brosch, the red-haired veteran from Garden City, N. Y., who yesterday set an all-time PGA tournament record with a round of 60. Brosch was much cooler today—he had a one-under-par 70 for a 72-hole total of 268.

Harrison last won a tournament at Wilmington, Del., in 1950, but Ford never has taken first money. He is just now completing his first year on the golf tour. At present he is attached to no club.

Harrison won the Texas Open in 1939.

The 265 is one over the record for the Texas Open set in 1946 by Ben Hogan and equalled by Sam Snead in 1948.

When Barton High School trounced Allegany on Friday night in Barton it marked the first victory for the Braves over the Blue and White since Barton's 1926 championship team featuring the Schramms turned the trick.

Since the teams meet twice annually this would indicate that Barton lost 49 consecutive games to Allegany in 25 years.

Walter L. Bowers came to AHS in the fall of 1926 and took over the reins of the basketball team in 1927. Friday night was the first time during Bowers' career that Barton refused to give up and play dead.

"I didn't see Barton when they had the Schramm boys but I did see the Kirk Brothers on Friday night," Bowers remarked.

West Virginia University's first 11 basketball games at home this season attracted 61,200 spectators—an average attendance of 5,563 per contest.

In nine road appearances, the Mountaineers drew 43,500 for an average of 4,833.

They ask what's wrong with boxing?

How about this.

Fitzy Fitzpatrick, 170-pounder from Oak Hill, W. Va., was all washed up as a fighter several years ago. He tried a comeback the other night at Huntington, W. Va., and was stopped in the first round by a guy named Herman Harris of Asheville, N. C.

Wonder how Fitzy got by the West Virginia boxing solons? He was barred there several years ago for his own good.

Once upon a time Fitzpatrick attended the West Virginia School for the Deaf (Romney) and fought in several prelims here for Vic Ricker.

In 1945 he drew with Lee Oma. In 1947 he stopped Pat Valentino and Rusty Payne and decisioned Lee Savold. Then he started hitting the canvas. He was belted out twice by Ezzard Charles, twice by Leonard Morrow and once each by Bob Foxworth and Rusty Payne.

Fitzy started fighting nine years ago.

Quite a number of basketball fans have asked when Fort Hill and Moorefield meet in a return game.

The schools will not meet again this season as only one game was scheduled—Fort Hill winning that, the only loss in 18 games for the Yellow Jackets this season.

We believe the average of 23 points a game for 17 games credited to Carl Hartman, Ridgeley High sharpshooter, is the highest mark ever attained by a schoolboy basketeer in the tri-state district.

All the coaches we've talked to regarding Hartman seem to agree that the Blackhawk star is a top-notch ballplayer.

Ward Sullivan, lusty clouter of the Merrick A. C., who scored a KO in his only appearance in a Cumberland amateur show, is a finalist in the Washington (D.C.) Golden Gloves Tournament.

He whipped Tommy Williams before 2,500 fans at Uline Arena the other night.

Sullivan's opponent in the 147-pound title match is a tough customer — Willie Davis of the National Guard, last year's lightweight champion.

Robert V. "Sparky" Chisholm, who is attending Bill McGowan's Umpires' School, writes from Daytona Beach, Fla., that he had the pleasure of meeting Fred Merkle, New York Giants' star first sacker of yesteryear who told a number of yarns about the late John J. McGraw and the other oldtimers.

"Lefty" Grove was the best left-hander he had ever seen, Merkle told "Sparky."

Which reminds us of the one Paul Gallen tells about the ex-major league ace from Lonaconing.

It seems that someone told "Lefty" that he was the greatest pitcher in the history of the major leagues and Grove held up his hand and replied:

"Stop, I've heard that one before. You know darned well that Walter Johnson was the greatest of all pitchers!"

First Lt. Carlo Ortenzi, former Western Maryland College football and boxing star, has been reported missing in Korea since December 2.

Carlo's brother, Lt. Col. Tony Ortenzi, also an ex-Green Terror grid and ring luminary, is currently on inactive duty and is studying at the University of Southern California.

Carlo was attached to an infantry regiment of the 7th Division. His wife, a native of Virginia, is living in Japan.

Collegiate careers of the brothers were closely parallel. Tony was graduated in 1938, was a guard for three seasons and was Eastern Intercollegiate 175-pound boxing champ.

Carlo was graduated a decade later. He played tackle and guard and also was a light-heavyweight boxer.

Johnstown (Pa.) High School's Trojans need a home football game for Sept. 20, 1952.

Here's a chance for local schools to line up a good Class "A" opponent next year.

Johnstown and Allegany were keen rivals in football but they haven't met since the 1920s.

Indiana, Bradley And Villanova Cagers Jolted

Illini Tops Big Ten, Columbia Is Now 15-0

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—With Kentucky and Oklahoma A&M still riding high at the top of the college basketball heap, attention turned today toward unsettled conference races and the sad fate of three of the top 10 teams.

Indiana, the No. 3 team in last week's AP poll, was nudged out of the Big Ten Conference lead by losing to Minnesota 61-54; Bradley just about lost all chance of another Missouri Valley title when St. Louis trimmed the Braves 72-69; and Toledo surprised Villanova, a leading eastern independent, 62-57.

Bradley was the No. 5 team last week, while St. Louis was No. 8, and Villanova, No. 9. Could be this week's poll will show a few changes.

Several conference leaders, such as Kentucky in the Southeast, Columbia of the Ivy League, and North Carolina State in the Southern, are virtually "in" as champions.

Illinois Takes Lead

But the jolting handed Indiana reminds that plenty can happen before most conference races wind up in three weeks. Illinois, which beat Purdue earlier last week, hopped into first place in the Big Ten by clipping Wisconsin, 63-52. Last week, the Illini ranked No. 16 in the poll.

Illinois can strengthen its lead tomorrow night when it plays Ohio State. The Illini, with a 7-1 conference mark, play Purdue again Saturday. Indiana, now 6-1, and 13-2 for the year, meets dangerous Iowa tomorrow, and Northwestern Saturday.

Kentucky (19-1) walloped Georgia Tech in its only game of the week, and the nation's No. 1 team has an 11-0 mark in the Southeastern circuit. Kentucky meets Xavier and Tennessee this week, teams the Wildcats defeated earlier in the season.

Aggies Win 21

Oklahoma A&M, No. 2, had a rugged but successful week, turning back Kansas and Oklahoma in close ones, then taking Drake Saturday, 60-46. The Aggies (21-1) lead the Missouri Valley with a 6-0 mark, followed by St. Louis, 8-1.

This week Oklahoma A&M meets Tulsa and Detroit, while St. Louis plays Notre Dame and Wichita. Bradley, now 5-3 in the conference, plays Wichita, Ripon and Drake this week.

Kansas State, No. 4 in the poll, remains No. 1 in the big seven with a 7-0 record. Kansas State (17-2) wound up the week by defeating Missouri, 75-64, and plays only one game this week—at Oklahoma Saturday.

Columbia Is 15-0

The nation's only undefeated major team, Columbia, stretched its unblemished skein to 15-0, downing three Ivy League rivals during the week. After tripping Harvard and Dartmouth, Columbia bumped Cornell Saturday, 54-44, and has an 8-0 stranglehold on the Eastern League title. The Lions play Yale and Harvard again this week.

North Carolina State, No. 10 in the poll, strengthened its Southern Conference lead (11-1) by defeating Duke Saturday, 75-65. N. C. State, now with a 21-4 mark, plays Louisville, a non-conference team, Tuesday, and has a league affair with North Carolina Saturday.

In the Southwest Conference, Texas took sole possession of first place by defeating Rice, 77-51. The Longhorns lead (6-1) followed by Texas A&M, 6-2, and Texas Christian, 5-2. Texas plays at Texas Christian tomorrow and at Southern Methodist Friday.

Brigham Young (20-4) and ranked No. 14 last week, polished off Colorado A&M twice to make an 11-2 lead in the Skyline Six. BYU plays Utah two games at Salt Lake City Friday and Saturday, and that should settle the conference squabble.

Southern Cal Nears Title

In the Southern Division of the Pacific Coast Conference, Southern California (18-2), took a big stride toward the title by beating Stanford twice, including a 72-45 conquest Saturday. Now at 5-1 in the conference, the Trojans must hurdle California at Berkeley Friday and Saturday.

Southern California was No. 15 last week in the poll.

The up and down battle for the lead in the PCC's northern division finds Washington State ahead with a 5-3 mark, followed by Oregon and Washington, both 6-4. Washington state and Oregon split in two games last week, but the heavy action starts for WSC Tuesday. Washington State invades Oregon Tuesday and Wednesday, then plays at Oregon State Friday and Saturday. Washington is at Idaho Friday and Saturday.

Arizona, heading for the Border Conference title, beat Hardin-Simmons and Arizona State of Tempe, to run its league mark to 9-0. The No. 13 team in last week's poll, Arizona has an 18-3 season record.

Fuchs' Goal Is 60 Feet

Shot Putting Champ Says It Can Be Done

NEW YORK, Feb. 10 (AP)—Jim Fuchs, the former Yale muscle man—who can throw a 16-pound iron ball further than your wife can toss a potato, said today he believes he will reach the storied 60-foot mark in the shotput.

If his efforts in the New York Athletic Club Games last night are any criterion, Fuchs very well might do it—and in the near future. In the process of beating his own accepted indoor world record with a mighty throw of 58 feet 3½ inches, he shared the limelight with Don Gehrmann, who won the Baxter Mile in 4:08.2 beating Fred Wilt by a scant four feet.

"Personally," said Fuchs, who now is a rug salesman, "I didn't think I'd get off as good a toss as I did. I haven't been training constantly of late.

"My lack of training makes me hesitant of when I'll hit the 60 foot mark, but I feel confident that eventually I can do it."

His listed world standard is 57 feet 7¾ inches, and if he can beat that without practice, he ought to be able to throw the shot right out of Madison Square Garden if he works out on schedule.

There aren't any opponents' records left for Fuchs to break. He owns them all. His outdoor mark of 58 feet 10⅝ probably will be accepted this year . . . but what's the difference. He holds the accepted mark anyhow, 58 feet 4¾ inches.

Sugar Robinson Is 3-1 Favorite In LaMotta Bout

Middleweight Title At Stake Wednesday

CHICAGO, Feb. 11 (AP)—What a difference four years — and television—can make in the enthusiasm of a boxing fan.

One of the year's best scraps, Jake LaMotta's defense of his middleweight crown against Sugar Ray Robinson, the welterweight king, will attract a gate of approximately $150,000 at the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night. That means about 10,000 or 12,000 fans will be on hand.

On July 16, 1947, in the very same arena, Rocky Graziano knocked out Tony Zale for the middleweight crown before 18,009 fans who paid $422,009, largest indoor gate in boxing's history.

The lure of the LaMotta-Robinson tangle, pitting two world champions who ascended their respective thrones after five previous meetings, undoubtedly is as great as the Zale-Graziano ring vendetta was.

But the third man in the ring this time is television and it has knocked Chicago area fight fans into their arm-chairs by the thousands. No use climbing into the upper reaches of the stadium for five or 10 bucks when a flick of the video dial puts you at ringside.

Gets $75,000 Guarantee

LaMotta, who reportedly has a $75,000 guarantee from the television kitty arranged between a sponsoring brewing company and the International Boxing Club, thinks it's only a matter of a few years before all title fights will be held in a studio or small auditorium.

LaMotta has been a sort of triple personality in training for Robinson. LaMotta, the fighter, takes advice from LaMotta, the trainer, and fills in sports writers as LaMotta, the public relations man.

He caused a flurry of excitement at noon today when he called a press conference for his hotel quarters at 1:30 p. m. There was speculation that LaMotta was ill, or realized he could not make the required 160 pounds.

When press photographers and reporters squeezed into Jake's quarters, he relieved the tension by bluntly announcing that he would do no more training in public and might not do any more training at all. He said he was living, day by day, by the scales and didn't want to reduce too much.

Robinson yesterday was reported to be weighing 152 pounds and his Manager George Gainford said "I think he's ready now, but he has to keep boxing, maybe as late as tomorrow to keep his battle edge. He could get in the ring against LaMotta tomorrow."

Sugar Is Favorite

The vanguard of more than 200 out-of-town newspapermen began arriving today for the fight which will be both broadcast and televised beginning at 10 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, Wednesday.

Although Robinson has been rated a 3 to 1 favorite, Sugar Ray is battling the only man who ever beat him in 123 professional fights. That was in their second meeting, Feb. 5, 1943. Jake has knocked him down twice. LaMotta has never been knocked off his feet in 95 fights.

GOOD ENOUGH FOR ME—
BUT NOT FOR YOU, SON!

"If I were still driving, I'd carry a lot more Auto Insurance now than I did. Why, just the other day I read that the average damage award from a recent group of lawsuits resulting from auto accidents topped $28,000 apiece! Your generation is a lot more 'claim-conscious' than mine ever was.

"Take a tip, son; get your agent to increase your Hartford Automobile Insurance before another day passes — it's the sensible thing to do."

In Memoriam

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear husband and father, Charles I. Seggie, Midlothian, Md., who passed away one year ago today, Feb. 12, 1950.

When evening shadows fall
And we're sitting all alone
In our hearts there comes a longing
If you only could come home.
Often and often our thoughts do wander
To your grave so far away
Where we laid you dearest father
One year ago today.
Sadly missed by Wife, Sisters, Children and Grandchildren

False Alarms Plague Road Officials

J. Walker Chapman, supervisor of the County Roads Department, informed the Allegany County Board of Commissioners Saturday that erroneous reports of school busses being stalled on icy roads has created a problem for his department.

Three more volunteer fire companies submitted reports to the board on expenditures during the period between September, 1948 and October, 1950.

The Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company listed its expenditures at $12,059.18 during the period. This included heavy outlays for a new building and fire truck as well as maintenance and other costs.

The Ellerslie Volunteer Fire Company report showed expenditures for each of the years during the period. During 1948 the cost was $2,040.09; in 1949 expenditures were $2,409.65 while in 1950 they were $1,156.84.

Chapel Hill Hose Company No. 6, this city, which is not an active group such as the other companies, listed expenses at $606.59 for the three year period. The fire company building is used for meetings of various groups.

Employers Must Report SS Taxes

James S. Getty, manager of the Cumberland office of the Social Security Administration, said that amendments to the act require employers to withhold taxes and report wages of all employes without regard to age.

Getty pointed out today that the original act provided that employers did not have to continue to report workers after they reached age 65. Now, however, the law has been amended and employers are required to report all employes regardless of age.

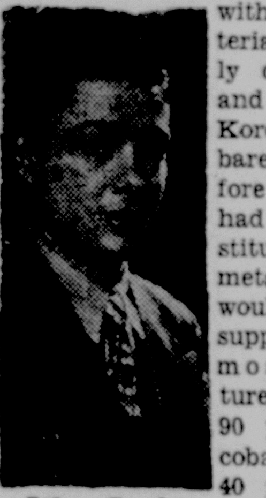
Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Television In Crisis

WHAT WILL the draft and the re-armament program do to the $3,000,000,000 television industry — its programs, its TV set sales, its growth as measured by new stations and increased audience and its present audience of roughly 35,000,000?



John Crosby

In the first place—the manufacture of sets. TV sets are studded with critical materials, specifically cobalt, copper and nickel. The Korean War had barely begun before the engineers had devised substitutes for the metals they knew would be in short supply. Today, most manufacturers are using 90 per cent less cobalt and about 40 per cent less of all critical materials in set manufacture. Production has dipped very little so far, but will probably dip sharply the last half of this year. Good guess as to this year's production: about half of last year's record 7,500,000 sets.

• — • — •

In the last war, production of radio sets was stopped entirely by the government. The industry believes that there won't be any government stoppage of TV set manufacture in the foreseeable future because there wouldn't be much sense to it. The re-armament program will need the electronics industry as badly as it did in the last war, but right now government orders are not nearly large enough to keep the plants busy. As a matter of fact, there will probably be some unemployment in the industry by early summer because of lack of materials.

Demands for sets is still so high that, if production stopped tomorrow (which it won't), the dealers would be pretty well stripped of sets overnight. High demand and short supply spells black market in any language. But there probably aren't many dealers storing away sets for future under-the-counter sale. Television sets cost a lot of money and, with present credit restrictions, the dealers can't afford to keep a lot of sets on the shelf (or in the basement) for any length of time. But sets, especially the big-name sets, are going to be hard to get.

• — • — •

As for new TV stations, their construction was halted a long time ago by the FCC freeze, which hasn't anything to do with the war. If the freeze were lifted tomorrow, a prospective station-builder would run into terrible material shortages. The National Production Authority has not banned the building of new TV stations, but the station-owner would have to locate his own scarce materials. Transmitters are almost solidly constructed of critical metals. The big manufacturers of transmitting equipment (RCA, General Electric, Du Mont) have about twenty-five complete transmitters tucked away in storehouses. Most of them are already spoken for—if and when the FCC lifts the freeze. There may not be many more built.

Programs: Advertisers had a moment of panic and slashed ad budgets sharply. The panic has ended and the advertisers are pouring as much—and a little more—money into television programming as ever. They'll continue to do so, even if they have no products to sell, as they did in the last war. The amount of money they spend on programs will be determined exactly by the proportion of excess profits they are allowed to spend on advertising. In general, though, the sponsor is making out his budget on a quarterly, rather than an annual basis; he doesn't want to contract for a whole year of Perry Como for fear the government will suddenly tell him how much or how little he can spend on advertising.

Television is a young man's game; its production and technical staffs are stuffed with draft-eligible youngsters, many of them with skills which the Army, Navy and Air Force badly need. All the networks expect to be hit badly by draft or reserve-officer calls by March or April. One network may lose 60 per cent of its TV directors and assistant directors to the services. Technical manpower is already a problem, with production heads scouring the town for good engineering staffs.

• — • — •

While radio was allowed to boom in the last war as a morale factor, television is a rather different proposition. The ratio of manpower between radio and TV is about one to six. "Stop The Music," for example, requires the services of forty men, exclusive of talent. A baseball game needs about eleven technicians, a director and assistant director, and two or three announcers. If manpower gets tight, how long will the government permit these huge production staffs—even if the networks can find them?

The broadcaster hopes that television will be officially encouraged by Washington not only as a morale factor but also as a national asset in a period of emergency. Even in the last war, when TV was still an experiment, television was used in New York police stations to train air raid wardens. With 10,000,000 sets in American homes, it could be invaluable as a training device.

Production standards may suffer not only from inexperienced technicians but also from material shortages. Replacements for camera tubes are already terribly hard to get; the film supply for kinescope is very tight, and film may disappear from the market soon unless the government allocates a certain amount to TV as it did to the movies in the last war.

That's the situation as it looks today. It could change tomorrow.

4 Selectees Get 'Reprieve' From Military Duty

Four Cumberlanders scheduled to leave February 19 for induction into the Army at Martinsburg, W. Va., have been granted "reprieves" due to changes in Selective Service regulations.

P. Emmett Fahey, clerk coordinator of draft boards here, said the quartet will be replaced by three volunteers and a registrant in the 120-day physical examination category.

Under new orders, Fahey explained, men who have already been examined or assume they will be called soon, can volunteer for immediate duty and be placed on top of the eligible draftee list.

Volunteers filled in for three of the men slated to depart this week.

The fourth replacement is William H. Hiner, Jr., son of Mrs. Estella E. Hiner, 502 Bedford Street. More than 120 days ago he received his pre-induction physical, and under old SS regulations he had to be re-examined before receiving notice to report for induction.

Granted temporary "reprieves" were Richard William Schupfer, 708 Columbia Avenue; Cloyd Raymond True, 703 North Mechanic Street; Ronald Lawrence Sheally, Route 3, Valley Road, and Ray Eugene DeHaven, 644 Columbia Avenue, all of Board No. 28.

Frostburg Board No. 30 will send 15 men to Martinsburg today for induction. Leaving Queen City Station here at 5:55 a. m. will be:

Joseph E. Hunt and James J. Murray, Midland; Melvin L. Bobo and Don C. Bateson, Westernport; James W. Witt, Jr., and James Uhl, Mt. Savage; John L. Stark and John A. Pratt, Eckhart; Julius J. Budries, Nikep; Austin R. Scheermesser, Luke; Richard E. Festerman, John L. Sullivan, John H. Preston, Robert L. Harden and John G. Barry, all of Frostburg.

Fifteen other registrants of the same board will accompany the group for physical examinations.

Civil Defense Officers Needed

More applicants for the posts of civil defense officers are needed here immediately, Arthur B. Gibson, city civil defense director, said yesterday.

Gibson said the number of applications received to date has been far below those needed to fill the various capacities on the zone defense system.

Both women and men may apply, he said, adding that several clubs and groups have offered their services. However, the director said he would appreciate individual applications rather than as a group since the program here will be set up on that basis. The latest club offer came from the Arbee Club of Rosenbaums, Eleanor Rice, president.

Applications are available at the four fire stations and should be mailed to Gibson at the City Hall.

Three Judges Named In 'First Lady' Contest

The Cumberland City Council of Beta Sigma Phi has named three judges who will supervise the city's "First Lady of 1950" contest. This year 12 nominees will appear on the ballot, and approximately 100 organizations have been invited to express their preference.

The three judges are Paul M. Fletcher, state's attorney; J. William Hunt, editor of the Sunday Times, and Robert Little Ebert, of the S. T. Little Jewelry Company.

Ballots will be mailed early this week to the fraternal orders, luncheon clubs and other organizations that are invited to participate in the balloting. Deadline for returns is March 17.

The Cumberlander selected as "1950 First Lady" will be honored at a dinner late in March, arrangements for which are under the direction of Miss Margaret Lester. William A. Gunter has accepted an invitation to be the principal speaker at the affair.

$12,000 Damage Caused By Fire In Piedmont

Four Area Companies Respond To Blaze

Damages estimated at up to $12,000 resulted when fire started yesterday at 2:45 a. m. in the cellar of the Hanna Apartments, 56 Ashfield Street, Piedmont, W. Va.

Flames quickly spread through the structure and gutted the interior of the three story frame building owned by Stanley E. Hanna, Keyser.

Four volunteer fire companies fought the stubborn blaze for several hours in near zero weather before bringing the flames under control.

The Tri-Towns Fire Company was assisted by companies from Westernport, Luke and Bloomington.

Flames Spread Quickly

The fire was discovered shortly before 3 o'clock by Mrs. Arthur Hott, a tenant of the second floor, who notified the rest of the occupants in the apartments. The bedroom and pantry furnishings in the Hott apartment were damaged extensively by fire and water.

Flames spread from the basement up through the partitions. Heaviest damage was on the third floor, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Johnson and sons, Montgomery and Ronnie. They were forced to flee dressed only in night clothes. All their belongings and furnishings were badly damaged.

The apartment of Mrs. Katherine Kight, on the first floor, was damaged by water. She is visiting the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lininger, Norfolk, Va.

The beauty shop on the first floor operated by Miss Rita Welsh was damaged by water but she was able to get most of her equipment to safety.

The apartment of Mrs. Michael J. Fahey and daughters, Marie and Marguerite, also was damaged by water. Ironically, the Faheys had most of their belongings packed and had anticipated moving in the near future.

Fire Chief Is Hurt

Fire Chief Vernon Hamilton, of the Tri-Towns Fire Company, who suffered a sprained left leg while directing the fire fighting, said the fire began in the roof of the basement. Investigation indicated the fire was caused by defective wiring in the cellar, officials said.

The Johnston family is temporarily residing with Mrs. Thomas Dailey, Main Street, Westernport; Mr. and Mrs. Hott are staying with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mellor, Ashfield Street, Piedmont; Mrs. Fahey and daughters are at the home of the former's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Fahey, Church Street, Westernport.

The building, the former home of Dr. and Mrs. Z. T. Kalbaugh, was purchased from the estate of Mrs. Katherine Kalbaugh about four four years ago and converted into an apartment house. Hanna said that the structure was covered by insurance but was unable to say just how much of the tenants belongings were protected.

Hanna plans to restore the building to its former condition as soon as possible.

Smith Appointed School Principal

The Frederick County Board of Education Wednesday appointed Robert Smith, Lonaconing, as principal of Myersville school.

Ralph Koontz, Frostburg, was appointed substitute teacher at the Elm Street school in Frederick and will teach the fourth grade. A veteran, Koontz also received his bachelor of science degree in Education at Frostburg last month.

Dangers Of Raw Milk Cited By Health Dept.

The Cumberland Health Department has received a directive from the Public Health Service emphasizing the dangers of drinking unpasteurized milk.

Dr. Leonard A. Scheele, surgeon general, pointed out two approved home pasteurization methods to provide safeguards against disease in the directive.

"Too many communities in the United States drink raw milk regularly despite its recognized threat to health," Dr. Scheele said.

The two methods of pasteurization are boiling in a pan while stirring constantly, then cool by placing pan in cold water while still stirring and boiling in a pan placed in hot water for 10 minutes.

Weather

Cumberlanders were treated to spring-like weather yesterday as the mercury rose to a pleasant 45 in the afternoon. Low for the day was 18. It was 34 last night at 9 o'clock. Today's forecast calls for cloudy and mild with temperatures in the low fifties this afternoon.

Piedmont Apartment House Gutted By Fire

Fire Chief Vernon Hamilton of the Tri-Towns Fire Company is shown inspecting the ruin caused by a fire which started on the third floor of an apartment house at 56 Ashfield Street, Piedmont, W. Va. Most of the fire havoc was centered on the third floor and basement but water damage was suffered on the first and second floors of the edifice. Volunteer fire companies from Westernport, Luke and Bloomington also aided in fighting the early morning blaze yesterday. Damage to the property, owned by Stanley E. Hanna, Keyser, W. Va., was estimated by fire officials at $12,000. Chief Hamilton sprained his left leg while directing the firemen.

Central Church Remodeling Job To Begin Today

Work To Cost About $15,000 Pastor Says

Remodeling work on the basement and first floor of Central Methodist Church will get underway today, Rev. Crates S. Johnson, pastor, announced yesterday.

The $15,000 construction job will be done by the Donald B. McGill Contracting Company, Rev. Johnson, said, and excavation work will get underway immediately

The basement under the structure at South George and Dexter Streets will be excavated for an eight-foot ceiling, Rev. Johnson related, and the kitchen which is now on the mezzanine floor will be rebuilt in the basement.

In addition to the kitchen, a large serving room for banquets and social gatherings will occupy the basement, which also will have, storage rooms, social rooms, toilet facilities and a new gas furnace. Plumbing in the building will be renewed.

The first floor entrance to the sanctuary will be changed, removing the present steps to the doorway and placing the entrance at street level. Upon entrance to the building, a stairway will lead up to the sanctuary and down to the basement, Rev. Johnson said.

The remodeled sanctuary will include a choir loft, organ, altar and pews, with a balcony on two sides. The balcony will contain classrooms and social rooms, with the space now housing the kitchen being converted into additional classrooms and nursery for small children.

Walls of the church, which formerly was the old Southern Methodist Church constructed in 1903, will be shored up and buttressed, Rev. Johnson stated, and the art glass windows will be caulked and leaded.

Revision In CWA By-Laws Will Be Discussed Here

Communication Local Will Meet Tonight

Important changes in the by-laws and structure of the local organization will be discussed tonight at 8 o'clock at a meeting of Cumberland Area, Western Maryland Local Division 34 Communications Workers of America (CIO), at Textile Hall, according to an announcement by Robert O. Slemmer, president.

Highlighting the meeting will be the reading of proposed by-laws for the "two-level" structure which will become effective April 2, under which Division 34 will be dissolved and become Local 2105, CWA-CIO.

Slemmer will give a complete report on grievances that have been placed before the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company. A discussion will follow.

Presentation of the charter for the new organization will be deferred until later.

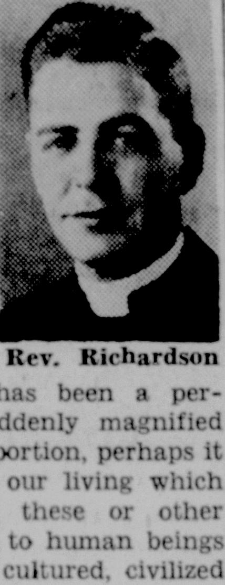
Today's Sermonette

Then was Jesus led up of the spirit unto the wilderness.
Matthew 4:1

By REV. H. MAUNSELL RICHARDSON

Today's sermonette is a digest of the Communion meditation preached at the early service yesterday at Emmanuel Episcopal Church by the rector, Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

LED UP of the spirit into the wilderness ... How often does this type of experience happen to us? How often do we find ourselves surrounded, encompassed about with all of the grasping elements of life gone "wild"? At some time or other, even in the midst of complete civilization, we all have experienced the sudden shock of changed conditions which seemingly have made that which surrounds us a "wilderness." Perhaps this experience has been the death of a loved one, perhaps it has been a personal problem suddenly magnified out of all true proportion, perhaps it has been part of our living which has gone wrong, these or other things do happen to human beings and make of our cultured, civilized world an abyss best called a "wilderness."



Rev. Richardson

Most of us do not believe that these are the deliberate actions of God engineered for our testing, but we do know that they do, or can, happen to us personally. We know that the serenity of our lives can be shattered and that we shall find ourselves in a veritable wilderness. How shall we cope with it? How shall we act then?

Lent is a time set aside for the express purpose of giving us an opportunity to prepare ourselves for the emergencies of life. Lent is a time for throwing out our anchors and catching hold of the depths of life that we might have resources at our command which will hold us steadfast, come what may. Lent is a time when we allow the spirit of God to drive us in a wilderness of grappling devoutly and deliberately with the basic matters of life and death, with faith and its implications for this life and the life to come.

Practically every phase of Christendom recognizes the value of Lent, of a definite period when Christian people withdraw from all else for a conscious self-discipline for a higher cause. Yet, it is all too true that this is not popularly received.

Witness the events of last Wednesday evening, the first day of Lent: While a large number of churches were having their services recalling Christian people to the basic principles which they profess, there was also going on in Cumberland a Boy Scout pageant, a meeting of a women's civic organization, a high school basketball game, a big "dress rehearsal" night for a school play, and at least one meeting of county or city officials. All of this in so-called "Christian" Cumberland.

Some time ago, the U.S.S. Missouri ran aground on the mud flats of the Chesapeake. It was a great scandal and people shook their heads in dismay at such carelessness and laxity in our Navy. The Missouri was stuck on false depths, and was in danger of irreparable damage.

Any community, any people which cannot find time during Lent for searching out the true depths of life runs aground just as surely and just as expensively in human terms as did the Missouri.

Railroad Freight Traffic Shows Big Boost Here

A heavy increase in freight traffic through here was reported over the weekend on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad by Chester F. Williams, Cumberland Division superintendent, with the virtual end of the switchmen's "sick call" strike.

"There was almost a continuous flow of freight traffic through Cumberland Saturday and Sunday," Williams stated. "We expect it to continue for another two or three days until conditions get back to normal." Most of the freight was east-bound and was coming from Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati, where it had been tied up by the work stoppage.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the Western Maryland Railroad here said that freight operations returned to normal over the weekend. Although no Western Maryland switchmen were involved in the work stoppage, there was a considerable drop in freight handled from connecting railroads.

Dr. Pullen Urges $500 Pay Raises For Teachers

Construction And Libraries In Plan

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 11 (AP) — Across-the-board $500 pay raises for school teachers, bigger subsidies for school construction and more state aid for county library systems are part of a program proposed by Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of schools.

The cost was set at approximately $45,000,000, of which nearly $10,000,000 would recur annually in the budget.

Dr. Pullen presented the program to Gov. McKeldin yesterday with the accompanying statement that school construction is urgently required because of expanding enrollment. The $500 yearly raises for teachers are needed, he said, to head off what could become an exodus of teachers of "enormous proportions" to better-paying jobs.

A 15-year $35,000,000 bond issue for school construction is the major item of the program. It would provide outright grants to county and city school construction funds at the rate of $100 per pupil.

Also proposed is an increase from the present $10 per pupil to $15 as the maximum on the incentive fund for school construction. Dr. Pullen estimated the cost to the state would be about $1,775,000 annually.

The Department of Education figured the proposed teachers' pay raises would add up to $7,300,000 a year. In addition, the state would be required to contribute $668,000 more into the retirement fund.

A total of $800,000 annually now and $913,000 a year eventually would be expended under the proposed library program which calls for an added subsidy of 40 cents per person in each area of a countywide library system.

The school construction is urgent, Dr. Pullen said. He pointed out that enrollment had increased 44,030 from 1945 to 1950 and that within the next seven years the increase is expected to be 115,679 more.

County Farmers Should Plan For Future Need

O'Neal Gives Advice Concerning Pasture

"In planning crops to meet defense needs this year, Allegany county farmers should remember that the needs for the future may be just as great as for this year," Albert O'Neal, chairman of the County Production and Marketing Administration Committee, said yesterday.

Every farmer should do his utmost to produce needed crops, but increases in cultivated crops should be made where they will not impair future production, O'Neal asserted.

"Good productive pasture should not be plowed up to obtain increases of other crops when the other crops will not contribute more to defense than the production which comes from the pasture."

As O'Neal sees it, the formula is simple:

"Keep up the fertility of the land. Conserve all possible moisture. Use grass and legumes to restore and maintain the organic matter in the soil."

O'Neal also called attention to the fact that the 1951 Agricultural Conservation Program is particularly emphasizing the use of grasses and legumes to protect the soil for continued abundance. To this end, assistance is provided for seeding grasses and legumes and for practices which assure good stands and good growth. Where lime or phosphate is needed before the farmer can obtain a good stand of clover or alfalfa, the program provides for sharing the cost of materials.

The program is available to all farmers this year, not only to help produce what is needed for defense but also to keep the land in condition for continued production. The County PMA office, where information about 1951 practices can be obtained, is located at 37 Washington Street.
